LOBBYIST HELPS KILL OIL TARIFF HE LABORED FOR

Senate Defeats It After Hearing Story

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—After nearly 11 hours' debate, the senate, late tonight, defeated a tariff bill amendment to impose duties on crude oil and oil products. The amendment, which was sponsored by Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], and provided for a duty of $1 a barrel on crude oil and varying rates on gasoline, kerosene, and other products, was rejected by a vote of 27 to 39.

The long fight was enlivened by attacks upon the activities of the lobby of independent oil producers. That there was basis for the charges in yesterday's lumber duty contest involving trades and log rolling methods by lumber, oil and sugar interests was developed by the senatorial lobby committee early in the day.

Admissions by Wirt Franklin, president of the Independent Petroleum Producers of America, who was summoned before the lobby committee, were capitalized by Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] and others who led the opposition to the duties on oil.

Hears Blaine Assail Lobby.

"I doubt if ever a more active, aggressive or ruthless lobby existed than this lobby in their approaches to senators," said Senator Blaine. "They brought men in carloads to importune senators and they used the most nefarious and damnable methods. They were not buying votes for money. It was an exchange of oil for sugar and sugar for oil."

Mr. Franklin, who had testified before the lobby committee early in the day, sat in the senate gallery while the Wisconsin senator assailed the lobby of which he is the head.

Proponents of the oil tariff, including Senators Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], W. B. Pine [Rep., Okla.], Guy D. Goff [Rep., W. Va.], and H. D. Hatfield [Rep., W. Va.], held the floor throughout the afternoon with eloquent defenses of their alliance "to save the domestic independent industry from extermination by foreign oil producers."

Lobby Cost $1,500 a Day.

Senators R. S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] and Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.] launched equally eloquent attacks on the proposed duty and predicted it would have only one result—an increase in the price of gasoline and other refined products.

Operating out of headquarters maintained since Feb. 3 in a Washington hotel, at a cost from $1,200 to $1,500 a day, Franklin told the lobby committee the independents, seeking a tariff of $1 a barrel on crude oil, had seen or endeavored to see every member of the senate and had pledged votes for the oil tariff by inducing other senators to vote for higher sugar duties.

Caraway Appears Horrified.

"Why, I have heard all my life that that is the way all tariff bills are made," Franklin retorted bluntly, when Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], seemingly horrified, asked if he or man approved such "log rolling" methods.

Franklin indignantly resented classification as a lobbyist, asserting that he, with other interests of his own aggregating over $50,000,000, and his associates with large personal interests were exercising their rights as citizens to defend their property and, he pointed out, they have employed no "contact men," or propagandists to present their case.

"I'm not a lobbyist," he declared loudly when Senator J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] asked if there is any method of lobbying which the oil men have not used. "We are here defending our rights as we have a perfect right to do and laying our case before the senators as we have a right, as citizens, to do."

Franklin Makes No Apology.

"We make no apology for anything we have done," he added, "because we have done nothing to defend."

Franklin declared that the Independent Petroleum Producers was organized last June, "when it became apparent that 'conservation' meant 'restriction,' and the 'shutting in' of production to make more and more room for imports of foreign oil brought in by the Royal Dutch, the Standard and the Mellon (Gulf Oil) groups."

Promises to vote for an increased tariff on sugar were obtained, Franklin declared, from Senators Thomas [Okla.] and Pine, after Senator C. W. Waterman [Rep., Colo.], asked by the latter to support the oil tariff proposal, suggested that "the Oklahoma senators should see the value of a

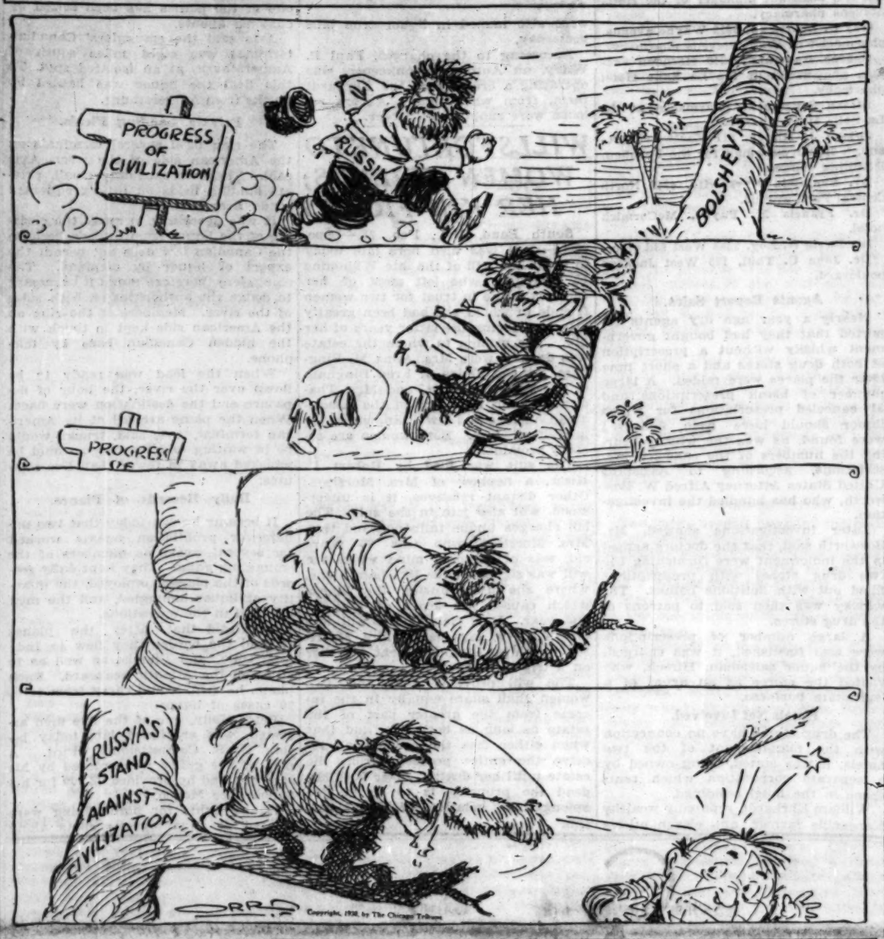
EVOLUTION IN REVERSE



FERON, OAK PARK JUDGE, VANISHES; OFFICIALS MEET

The mysterious disappearance of Police Magistrate James M. Feron of Oak Park was revealed last night when Charles H. Crysler, president of the village board, called a special meeting of the board's executive committee. Feron has been missing from his home at 843 South Ridgeland avenue since Wednesday and neither Mrs. Feron nor Crysler know where he has gone, although Crysler had information which he said led him to believe the magistrate was safe.

Feron did not appear in his courtroom on Thursday and when he failed to show up yesterday Justice of the Peace Martin McGrath held court, continuing all cases with the announcement that Feron was ill. Following last night's meeting, Crysler said that Feron was suffering from a nervous breakdown as a result of overwork and had gone away for a rest without disclosing his destination.

Crysler said there was no foundation for the rumors that Feron had been kidnaped by gangsters because of punishments which he has imposed.

At 3 o'clock this morning the executive committee was still in session. Several persons prominent in Oak Park were said to have been called before the committee and angry words and loud voices overheard from the meeting room indicated that a vigorous debate was under way.

CLUB ALGIERS IS BOMBED ON CLOSING NIGHT

The closing night's celebration of the Club Algiers, David [Cockeyed Mulligan] Ablin's night resort at 657 St. Clair street, which is to be padlocked on Monday, was cut short last night when a bomb exploded at the rear of the building. The explosion shattered windows in nearby buildings and hotels and sent the Club Algiers diners rushing to the street without paying their checks. One man was cut by a flying splinter.

About 50 patrons were in the club when the bomb was set off outside a wooden wall, directly behind the orchestra stand. The explosion tore a hole in the wall and threw the piano about ten feet across the floor. The orchestra was not on the stand. Damage to the building was estimated at $200 and to neighboring buildings at $150. Most of the damage outside the club occurred at the St. Clair building directly across the street. Windows in the Allerton club at Huron street and Michigan avenue were broken.

Irving Feldman, 3725 Arthington street, doorman at the club, was held by the police for questioning. Ablin, Harry Shapiro and Dave Zimmerman were being sought.

Columbus, O., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Dr. James H. Snook, formerly a professor at Ohio State university, died in the electric chair here tonight for the murder of Theora K. Hix, an Ohio State co-ed.

Dr. Snook went to the chair without losing his composure. He wore a pair of golf slippers and a blue business suit. There were red circles under his eyes which indicated that he had been crying, and he swallowed nervously as he sat in the chair.

The current first was turned on at 7:05 p. m. Another charge of electricity was sent into his body at 7:06 and again at 7:08. He officially was pronounced dead at 7:11.

His Wife His Guest at Dinner.

"My peace is absolutely made with my God," were Dr. Snook's last words.

Mrs. Helen Snook, his wife, with her cousin, Mrs. Frank Landrum, and Oscar Roedell, a close friend of the condemned man, were his guests at dinner in the penitentiary at 5 o'clock. Dr. Snook had asked permission to wear a tuxedo, but Warden Thomas had decreed that he dine in prison garb. The meal was prepared and served by four chefs.

Mrs. Snook sat in the warden's quarters in the penitentiary building during the execution. The Rev. Isaac E. Miller, who joined the group immediately after the dinner, said that she and Dr. Snook parted calmly.

The father of Miss Hix awaited news of the execution in the office of his attorney, Boyd B Haddox.

"God saw to it that justice was done," he murmured.

Legal Battle Long.

Convicted in the Franklin County Court of Common Pleas on Aug. 14, after the jury had deliberated but 20 minutes, Snook fought persistently for a new trial and obtained several reprieves.

The Supreme court Tuesday refused to intervene and yesterday Gov. Myers Y. Cooper refused either to grant a further reprieve or commute the sentence to life imprisonment. An application for a writ of habeas corpus also was turned down yesterday by the United States district court here.

Miss Hix, for whose murder Dr. Snook paid with his life, was murdered on June 13, 1929, on the Columbus rifle range. Her body was discovered by two school boys. Snook at first denied knowledge of the crime but after 23 hours of constant grilling on June 20 he confessed the murder.

TRAP YOUTH IN EXTORTION PLOT; ARREST THREE

Two weeks ago Eric Borg, wealthy building contractor of 7000 Pingree avenue, received a letter instructing him to leave $500 in a package beside the garage in the rear of his home, with death as the alternative. Borg ignored the threat.

Five days ago there came a second letter demanding $1,000. If he failed to comply within five days Borg and his 17 year old daughter, Beatrice, would be "filled full of lead," the letter stated.

The writer instructed Borg to leave the money in a packet of $20 notes in the fork of a tree in the Armstrong public school yard near his home. Last evening a package of blank paper was placed in the designated place, and Police Sergeants Rocco Feletti, William Balzano, and James Ryan took up the watch.

At 2 o'clock this morning Arden Brooks, 18 years old, 2322 Morse avenue, son of a retired policeman, shinned up the tree and had the package in hand when Sergt. Feletti fired in the air. Brooks dropped to the ground, yelling that he had been shot. He was merely frightened, however, and later named as his accomplices Carl Hartzell, 21 years old, a mail carrier of 1314 Devon avenue, and the mailman's brother, Gunner Hartzell, 19, of 6744 North Maplewood avenue. The brothers were also arrested.

PHYSICIANS SAY HIS CONDITION REMAINS SAME

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—At 3 o'clock this morning no change had been reported in Mr. Taft's condition.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—William Howard Taft maintained a steadily weakening but tenacious grasp on life tonight.

Attending physicians made four visits during the 18 hour period ending at midnight. Following their final call at 15 minutes to 12 tonight they stated informally that the distinguished jurist and former President was losing ground slowly, but declined to predict when the end would come.

"Mr. Taft was sleeping quietly when we arrived," said Dr. Thomas A. Claytor when he left late tonight with his colleague, Dr. Francis Hagner. "He appeared somewhat weaker, but otherwise there was no perceptible change in his condition. It is probable he will last through the night."

End May Come Any Time.

Both physicians added, however, that a change for the worse might come at any time. It is also possible, they said, that the distinguished jurist will continue to live from one to five days.

Most of the day the man who has served his country as chief justice and as its twenty-seventh President, rested quietly in a semi-conscious condition. At times he awoke and a trace of the nationally famous Taft smile lighted his face for a moment as he recognized one of the physicians or a member of the family. At no time did he speak.

Once when Mrs. Taft entered his room and again when his son Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati arrived during the morning they noted a smile of recognition appeared on his face.

Decline Not Perceptible.

Following a call at 6:30 this evening, the two physicians stated that "the condition of the former chief justice was practically unchanged since this morning," when Mr. Taft had been reported "slightly weaker."

"He is probably somewhat weaker, but it is not perceptible," Dr. Claytor said.

At 2:20 p. m. Mr. Taft was reported "slightly weaker." At that time the physicians said death was simply a question of how long the patient's vitality could last out.

Mrs. Taft Takes Brief Ride.

Mrs. Taft appeared very tired and worn when she left her home for a few moments this afternoon for a brief ride with a friend. She leaned on the arm of her chauffeur as she walked to and from the car. Friends of the Taft family and the physicians reported that Mrs. Taft was bearing up well under the strain.

Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, the former President's daughter, left Washington this afternoon to see her children in Philadelphia, but will return tomorrow. Robert is remaining in Washington, while other members of the immediate family are being kept in close touch with Mr. Taft's condition by telephone.

EVERGREEN PARK MAIL ROBBERS ESCAPE PRISON

Thomas Holden and Francis L. Keating, Chicago bandits who were serving sentences of 25 years for the first Evergreen Park mail robbery, on Sept. 10, 1926, escaped from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., yesterday by using forged trusty passes. Their escape was announced last night by Warden Thomas B. White. He discovered their absence when the prisoners were locked up for the night.

Holden and Keating escaped with $135,000 in currency which was being sent from a Chicago bank to a bank in Harvey, after they had boarded a Grand Trunk train at the Chicago Lawn station and held several trainmen prisoners until they reached Evergreen Park. There the two bandits fled with the mail pouch.

They were convicted in the United States District court here on March 24, 1928, on charges of robbery and of receiving stolen property, and were sentenced to 25 years each by Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Insane Killer Fights Town Till Blown Up

Defiance, O., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—An elderly lunatic, possessed of a shotgun, a pistol, a store of ammunition and a deadly aim, stood off a company of 100, armed with rifles, tear gas bombs, a machine gun and a howitzer in a four hour siege here this afternoon, after he had slain his wife. In the course of the battle he wounded three other persons.

The unequal contest ended about dusk when a dynamite mine, laid by sappers under cover of a cannonade, was touched off. In view of half the town populace of 8,000 the mine smashed the stucco walls of the besieged dwelling and lodged the body of its defender in the rafters.

The maniac, who committed suicide at the moment dynamite rent his home, was Hubert Floehr, 60, retired building contractor and recent inmate of the Toledo insane asylum. Policemen, firemen, and an Ohio National Guard company were mobilized for the siege after Floehr had killed his wife in a quarrel and wounded the chief of police attempting to arrest him.

Son Finds Mother Slain.

About 2 p. m. a son, William, 32, heard his parents quarreling upstairs over their daughter, Elsie, a Toledo school teacher, whom Floehr wanted at home. There was a shot and William ran upstairs to find his father standing over the body of Mrs. Floehr, whom he had shot in the head with a pistol.

When the son bent to lift her body, Floehr cocked the gun and drove him downstairs with threats to kill him also. The son ran to police headquarters, shouting that his father had gone mad. Police Chief Karl Weaner led a squad of six men who, with gas bombs and rifles, opened the siege.

They approached stealthily and entered the house without being detected. Hostilities began when a policeman tossed a bomb from the vestibule to the second floor landing. As the gas seeped into the bedrooms, Chief Weaner started upstairs.

Shoots Chief in Cheek.

Floehr appeared on the landing. Holding a shotgun in his left hand, he aimed a pistol with his right. A bullet pierced the police chief's cheek and he fled behind the others, helter-skelter, as Floehr dropped the pistol and opened fire with the shotgun.

Despite his wound, Chief Weaner refused to quit his command. He ordered out his entire force of twenty men, who, augmented by eight deputy sheriffs and a score of volunteers, poured a hail of shot into the upper windows.

Two More are Wounded.

Floehr sniped first from one and then another side of the house. The first besieger to fall was William Chappell, 32, a volunteer, who received a critical abdominal wound. The second was Newell Littleport, 20, a student at Defiance college, who fell when a slug pierced his lung through a bullet proof vest.

National guardsmen then were ordered out. For an hour they directed a barrage of machine gun fire on the stucco house, but occasional answering shots told that Floehr was still able and defiant. A howitzer was planted at 5:30 half a block from the house.

As the guardsmen rained shot and shell at the house, policemen crept to the entrance with eight atleks of dynamite. The blast was touched off, and for a moment, the firing having ceased, there was a strange stillness.

Body Lodged in Rafters.

The 4,000 spectators crouched in fear and the besiegers took to their heels as the dynamite burst, breaking windows in every structure within several blocks and shaking the stucco from the frame of the house like powder.

As the dust and debris settled the body of Floehr was seen lodged in the rafters. A bullet hole was found in the center of his forehead.

TOMORROW'S TRIBUNE

CRIME BOARD CHARGES STATE LET 6 GO FREE

Report Opens Fire on Prosecutor.

The Chicago crime commission disclosed yesterday that the state's attorney's office a week ago refused to press charges of sedition and robbery with a gun against six of the outstanding communist leaders in the Chicago district.

The charges were first made nearly six months ago. The accused men are:

C. A. Hathaway, general organizer for the communists.

Edward Stevens, also a sectional organizer.

There was also a seventh defendant, Irving Herman, alias Murphy, an 18 year old boy, leader in the "young pioneers," children with communistic parents or leanings.

Tells of Attack.

It was alleged that the seven on the night of Sept. 9, 1929, seized Irving Billig of 2336 South Cicero avenue, Cicero, in the headquarters of the communist party at 2021 West Division street, beat him, and at the muzzle of a revolver threatened to mutilate him, and finally took him in an automobile to his home, where they robbed him of $41 and "valuable papers."

L. O. HUTCHINS.

At a hearing in the Municipal court Billig testified he had been a member of the communistic party and that the group had attacked him because they suspected he was a "government stool pigeon" who had joined them to keep track of their plans and movements.

Billig quit the communist party on Sept. 10, the day after the attack. He then procured warrants for the seven. These were served by Lieut. Make Mills and Detectives Touhy and Adair of his squad, and on Oct. 23 the case came up before Judge Allegretti.

Held in $15,000 Bonds.

At the preliminary hearing, Assistant State's Attorney Everett O. Hutchins presented the testimony of Billig on the robbery charge, and also a mass of evidence on the sedition charge showing the Reds had plotted the overthrow of the government. Judge Allegretti held the defendants to the grand jury on both charges in $15,000 bonds each.

The case went to the state's attorney's office and within a few days the defendants' bonds were reduced from $15,000 to $1,500 each. No move was made to get indictments. According to the crime commission report the case appears to have been forgotten.

Cases Suddenly Quashed.

"This organization inquired about the cases of these defendants on Feb. 20," says the crime commission's report. "On Feb. 21, it was learned, Assistant State's Attorney Edward Spiro rushed the cases before the grand jury and asked that body to vote 'no bills' as to all the defendants. The grand jury did as requested and the charges on which Judge Allegretti, at Assistant State's Attorney Hutchins' request, and after hearing testimony, held the defendants each in $15,000 bonds, were thus dropped.

"Nobody was notified when the case was taken before the grand jury. Assistant State's Attorney Hutchins was never called in; Lieut. Mills and his policemen were never notified, although that official and his men stood ready to present testimony as to all details to the grand jury."

Memorandum Is Found.

In the files of the crime commission on the case was a memorandum showing that Assistant State's Attorney Hutchins had carefully prepared a "memorandum of indictment."

On this was the notation: "Prosecuting Witness Irving Billig has no permanent address on account of fear of bodily harm. He can be reached through E. O. Hutchins, assistant state's attorney, or through Lieut. Mills and his squad, including Officers Touhy and Adair. See him for com-

When crime commission investigators inquired why no evidence had been put before the grand jury, why none of the witnesses, including the complaining witness, had been sent for, and why none of the mass of evidence as to sedition was read to the jury, the state's attorney's office replied:

"There was not enough evidence. The robbery charge did not amount to anything and there was not sufficient evidence to sustain a conviction in the sedition charge."

Hutchins Tells of Evidence.

Assistant State's Attorney Hutchins said he had no idea why the cases had been "no billed" before the grand jury. He displayed a pile of documentary evidence to support the sedition charge in which he pointed out literally hundreds of revolutionary plans and statements. He displayed a court stenographer's record of the hearing before Judge Allegretti, containing Billig's testimony concerning the robbery with a revolver.

"I explained what I had to State's Attorney Swanson and his first assistant, John E. Northup," said Hutchins. "I had Billig there to repeat his testimony in person. They listened and turned me over to Assistant State's Attorney Mercer, who they said would handle the case.

"I gave Mercer a memorandum of everything I had, and that's the last I heard of it until the crime commission asked me what I knew about it, stating the state's attorney's office had asked the grand jury for 'no bills.'"

"How strong a case do you consider it to be?" Hutchins was asked.

"So strong that I could go into any court in the country and get a conviction on both charges," was the reply.

A Colorful Career.

Police department reports on Billig say that he is a remarkable man and his career has been colorful. According to his story, told both to police and to members of the Military Intelligence association, Billig is not his real name but a "party name," an alias such as is taken by many of the leaders in the Communist party.

"Billig," said one of those acquainted with his story, "was in the British marines from 1902 to 1908. He is a man of extraordinary education and speaks five or six languages. When he first came to this country from his native Hungary he became a Socialist. He then became an organizer for the I. W. W.

"He quit the I. W. W. after a while, became a ship's steward and traveled all over the world. He joined the communists and came back to the United States as a member of the Russian cheka, the secret police of the Red army.

"He was quite successful at stirring up sabotage and syndicalist troubles and for a long time everything went well. Then came another agent of the cheka and Billig got under suspicion. They got an idea he was a 'stool pigeon.'

Conclusive Evidence.

"On the night they seized him in the headquarters to make the charge against him, they found on him a letter he had written to his mother in Hungary. In it he spoke of his mother's illness, and used a common Hungarian expression. He said: 'By the grace of God, I hope you will soon come out of your troubles.' That expression convinced his attackers.

"'You're a hell of a communist!' they shouted at him, as they beat him with their fists. "'You're a hell of a communist—you believe in God!' And they then took him into a private office, prodded him with revolvers, threatened to mutilate him and beat him, as he himself expressed it, 'virtually into a doormat.'"

SEVEN HURT IN RIOT

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 28.—(AP)—A riot today in front of the state employment office here resulted in injuries to seven persons, including a woman and two policemen, the arrest of the five rioters hurt, and a police warning that future demonstrations will be broken up on sight.

Plan Strike in New York.

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Undaunted by their recent encounters with police, the communists have decided to call a general strike here next Thursday to mobilize their full strength for the local demonstration against unemployment, ordered by the executive committee of the Communist International in Moscow to coincide with hundreds of similar demonstrations in every large city of the world.

JUDGES REGARD COLLINS' STORY AS 'ACCUSATION'

Liquor Confiscation Tale Starts Inquiry.

Judges of the Municipal court were wondering yesterday if Morgan A. Collins, former police chief, might have been throwing suspicion at one of their number when he testified on Wednesday before the house judiciary committee at Washington concerning prohibition enforcement conditions in Chicago.

But as far as Mr. Collins is concerned, they can just keep on wondering without any help from him. In fact, Mr. Collins said, he had cast suspicion on no judge and he couldn't understand why the judges should think that he was accusing one of them of misconduct when he related an incident in his career as police chief which had to do with the confiscation of liquor by a court. He told the committee that after a batch of liquor had been confiscated he saw no more of it.

Olson to Take Action.

The judges, however, meeting yesterday afternoon, regarded his testimony at the prohibition hearing as "an accusation," and Chief Justice Olson announced following the meeting that he would seek an interview with the former police chief to learn whether the judge referred to was a Municipal judge.

"If we find the former police chief meant to accuse a judge now sitting on this court, we may take action," Judge Olson said.

Mr. Collins when informed of the chief justice's statement said that he would not tell the judges anything.

"What I said was strictly legal," he remarked. "I won't say any more than I said at the hearing, and I refuse to be drawn into any inquiry. What I said was that after the liquor was impounded by the court, we saw no more of it. What was wrong with that?

It's Business of Court.

"A court has a perfect right to confiscate liquor, and what becomes of it after the judge has ordered its confiscation is nobody's business. The court has control over the liquor, and can do with it what he pleases."

The municipal judges at their meeting voted to abolish the short cause court after Judge James F. Fardy called attention to the time wasted uselessly in the sessions of that court, which was organized to take over cases which were expected to be completed in less than an hour.

NAB DRY AGENT FOR GIVING OUT OFFICE RECORDS

Richard J. Proud, chief of the conspiracy investigating section of the Chicago prohibition office, was arrested last night in the Chicago and North Western railroad station a few minutes after he had handed over to a Milwaukee business man records or copies of records taken from the federal files. The arrest was made by W. M. Joerling, head of a detail of special inspectors from prohibition headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Seized with Proud were Samuel Pokrass, owner of the Uptown Investment company, 24th and Wells streets, Milwaukee, and Joseph Lubor, also of Milwaukee, believed to be an employé of Pokrass. The documents which Proud handed to Pokrass, it was learned, were the reports of prohibition agents on their investigation of a dry law case in Milwaukee.

The movements of Proud, who has been a member of the prohibition unit here for several years, have been under observation by Prohibition Administrator E. C. Yellowley for some time, Mr. Yellowley said early this morning after he was informed of his assistant's arrest.

Two months ago, Yellowley said, he went to Washington and requested that Joerling be assigned to the investigation. The Proud case is the only one that is occupying Joerling's attention in Chicago "at this time," Yellowley said.

NUTT TRANSFERRED IN GENERAL SHAKEUP OF NARCOTIC BUREAU

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The transfer of Col. L. G. Nutt, in charge of the narcotic bureau of the prohibition unit, to the position of a prohibition field supervisor and a general shakeup in the narcotic bureau was announced today by Assistant Secretary Lowman.

The responsibility for padding figures on narcotic arrests by government squads in New York was laid to Nutt recently in a report by a New York grand jury. The figures were the total arrests made by New York police and government agents but the deputy commissioner explained that he had sent them to congress to show the amount of work being done in New York and not with any intention of creating a false impression.

Harry J. Anslinger, assistant commissioner of prohibition, will temporarily take over Nutt's duties, effective tomorrow. Joseph A. Manning, narcotic agent at Nashville, Tenn., has been sent to New York, Lowman announced, succeeding George W. Cunningham, narcotic agent, who will take Manning's post in Tennessee.

A number of narcotic agents in New York have recently been sent to other posts.

BOY RUN AWAY BY AIR; PARENTS ARE IN PURSUIT

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rousseau, 8738 South Morgan street, took a train for Cleveland last night to bring home their air minded, runaway son, Donald, 10 years old.

Donald first got an itch to travel last Thursday. Instead of going to school he went to the Chicago and North Western station and was negotiating a ticket to Omaha when a representative of the Travelers' Aid society persuaded him to go home.

Donald went dutifully to school yesterday morning but by noon temptation in the form of a $20 bill he had filched from the mantel overwhelmed him. So he rode by street car to the Municipal airport and, five minutes before the departure of the 4 o'clock plane for Cleveland, wangled the agent to sell him passage to Cleveland, averring his mother was seriously ill there.

The parents were reporting his disappearance to Gresham police last evening when a telegraph messenger entered the station seeking information on an erroneously addressed telegram. The message proved to be for the Rousseaus, announcing their son had arrived in Cleveland with $3.30 and was tearful for home.

REALTY DEALER MISSING; POLICE SEARCH ASKED

The police have been asked to search for Frank S. Kunkel, for many years a real estate operator in the Logan square district with offices at 2626 Milwaukee avenue. Mr. Kunkel disappeared from his home at 3717 North Tripp avenue on Jan. 28, the detective bureau was informed, and his wife and his son, George Kunkel, said they could not explain his absence.

S. W. Straus & Co. was appointed receiver for Kunkel's business last Wednesday, and some of his realty holdings previously had been taken over by a northwest side bank and by other interests, the police learned.

Father Loses Court Fight for Custody of Child

Four Doctors Accused of Conspiracy.

Four doctors, a liquor salesman, and the owners and operators of drug stores in the Stevens and La Salle hotels were charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law in an indictment returned by the federal grand jury before Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday. Those named in the indictment are:

Dr. Benjamin Markowitz, 4942 North Central Park avenue.

Dr. Francis M. Payne, McCormick hotel.

Dr. David G. Roy, 3248 West 63d place.

Dr. John C. Thill, 175 West Jackson boulevard.

Agents Report Sales.

Nearly a year ago dry agents reported that they had bought government whisky without a prescription at both drug stores and a short time later the places were raided. A large number of blank prescriptions and 31 canceled prescriptions for which liquor should have been delivered were found, as was the whisky bearing the numbers of the canceled prescriptions, according to Assistant United States Attorney Alfred W. Bosworth, who has handled the investigation.

Later investigations showed, Mr. Bosworth said, that the doctors named in the indictment were furnishing the two drug stores with prescriptions filled out with fictitious names. The whisky was then sold to patrons of the drug stores.

A large number of prescriptions were also furnished, it was charged, by the liquor salesman, Hirsch, who visited the stores as an agent of a legitimate business.

Hotels Not Involved.

The drug stores have no connection with the management of the two hotels, it was stated, being owned by a separate corporation which rents space in the hotel buildings.

William Ehrhardt, reputedly wealthy Naperville farmer, and eleven others were also named in liquor true bills yesterday.

According to the charges, Paul P. Witry, an Aurora saloonkeeper, was operating a brewery on the Ehrhardt farm, from which many Aurora saloons were supplied with beer.

RIGID DRY LAW CUTS DOWN PROSECUTIONS, MICHIGAN DISCOVERS

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The effect of the "Michigan" Cuthbertson act, known as the stiffest dry law in the nation, has been to reduce greatly the number of prosecutions for commercial liquor violations, according to a report on prosecutions to the state crime commission by county officials.

The Cuthbertson law, which provides a mandatory sentence of one year's imprisonment and a heavy fine for every commercial liquor violation, was acclaimed by the Michigan Anti-Saloon league when passed by the 1929 legislature. But the statistics just revealed show that it reduced the number of prosecutions from 798 during the first six months of 1929 to 103 during the latter half of the year. The new law was in effect during about four months of the final six.

Prosecutions in general increased from 33,650 to 37,777 during the last half of 1929, the commission was informed, but convictions dropped from 29,979 to 29,359. Prosecutions for major crimes remained virtually constant throughout the year.

WILLS FORTUNE TO WOMEN FRIENDS; HER KIN FIGHTS

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Suit was filed here late today to break the will of the late Willomine K. Morrison, who left most of her $800,000 estate in trust for two women friends to whom she had been greatly attached during the latter years of her life. The women to whom the estate was devised were Mrs. Anna M. Bingham, wife of Judge J. Fred Bingham of the Superior court, and Mrs. Thadessa Taylor, secretary of the Associated Charities and a well known leader in welfare work. Both women are socially prominent.

The suit was filed by Robert P. Kizer, a nephew of Mrs. Morrison. Other distant relatives, it is understood, will also join in the suit. The bill charges undue influence and that Mrs. Morrison, who was 63 years old, was of unsound mind when the will was signed in the Bingham home, where she lived during the illness which caused her death on May 15 last year. It is claimed the will was drawn a few days before Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Bingham went together on a trip to Florida.

The will provides that the two women shall share equally in the income from the greater part of the estate as long as both live, and that when either dies the other shall receive the entire proceeds from the estate until her death. After both are dead the property is to be divided among living relatives of Mrs. Morrison.

Planes Haul Liquor from Canada to Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Smashing of a ring of flying rum smugglers by under cover prohibition agents was revealed today when five men charged with violating the tariff act were arrested on warrants issued by Frank Q. Quinn, United States commissioner. Ten others are implicated.

The ring, according to Dwight E. Avis, in charge of special prohibition agents here, has been operating for nearly a year with rum carrying planes from points between Windsor and Amherstburg to various out-of-the-way fields in Wayne county and one of the planes has been seized by customs agents.

Avis said the smugglers' Canadian terminal was eight miles south of Amherstburg, at an isolated spot. To this field the liquor was hauled by trucks from Amherstburg.

Private Landing Fields.

The ring used several terminals on the American side of the river, Avis said. They were usually small, private landing fields on little frequented roads near Detroit.

It was necessary to mask the clearing of the liquor from Canada because the Canadian law does not permit the export of liquor by airplane. The smugglers therefore found it necessary to dodge the authorities on both sides of the river. Members of the ring on the American side kept in touch with the hidden Canadian base by telephone.

When the load was ready to be flown over the river, the hour of depature and the destination were fixed. When the plane arrived at its American terminal, Avis said, trucks would be in waiting and the cargo would be whisked away in fewer than five minutes.

Daily Records of Planes.

It became known today that two undercover prohibition agents worked for several weeks as members of the smuggling gang. They kept daily records of the planes employed, the quantity of liquor smuggled, and the men engaged in the operations.

Avis said that after the planes crossed the border they flew to Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois, as well as to cities on the Atlantic seaboard. Each plane, he said, would carry from 15 to 20 cases of liquor.

Peter Kelly, one of the five men arrested, was arraigned late today before U. S. Commissioner Hurd. A plea of not guilty was entered by his attorney and he provided $3,500 for his appearance March 7.

Range lights for night flying were located at advantageous spots along the border. A system of telephone signals between Canadian and American bases kept the smugglers posted on opportune times for flights.

REFERENDUM ON DRY LAW IN RHODE ISLAND APPROVED BY SENATE

Providence, R. I., Feb. 28.—(AP)—With passage by the state senate today of the Republican administration's referendum measure, Rhode Island voters virtually were assured of an opportunity to vote on retention of the 18th amendment at the November elections. The measure goes for concurrent action to the house, where wet sentiment is much stronger than in the upper branch.

The 24 to 11 vote by which the measure passed the senate showed a sharp break in party lines, the votes of eight Democrats forcing passage when ten rural Republican drys bolted and opposed the bill. Sixteen Republicans and one Democrat were against it, and three Republicans and one Democrat were absent.

The bill provides for submission to the electorate upon a separate ballot of the following question: "Shall the 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States be retained?"

St. Louis Demand Beer.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The board of aldermen today went on record unanimously as favoring modification of the prohibition law in conformity with the movement inaugurated in Washington by Congressman Dyer, who proposes to legalize 2.75 per cent beer and wine.

Aimee Has Man Jailed for Peeping Into Her Bedroom

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Following charges preferred by the Rev. Aimee McPherson, Tad Jones, 37, was jailed today as an annoyer of women. He is accused of trying to peep into the evangelist's bedroom, blowing her kisses and dropping ungentlemanly notes into Mrs. McPherson's mail box. He was once warned by a deputy city prosecutor to stay away from the vicinity of Mrs. McPherson's home adjoining Angelus temple, but reappeared today.

MINNEAPOLIS CHICAGO ST. PAUL

COUNTY WORKERS PAID; CAMPAIGN FOR CASH DRAGS

Clarke Appeals to Public to Finish the Job.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

While the county employés were being paid yesterday and the city and school employés were looking forward to getting their money on Monday, the rescue campaign to keep the local governments operating until July 1 had its smallest day. The total subscriptions were $2,945,600, which brings the total pledged to $57,683,500. This is $16,316,500 short of the $74,000,000 goal.

The big corporations appear to have been drained. While the number of subscriptions yesterday was large, the amounts were relatively small. Philip R. Clarke, president of the Central Trust company, who is in charge of the campaign, sent more than 400 telegrams to wealthy Chicagoans asking them to subscribe. Northwestern university took a $100,000 interest in the Taxpayers' trust and the University of Chicago will offer a pledge of $250,000 this morning.

Calls on Other Institutions.

"I would like other universities and institutions to become investors," said Mr. Clarke. "There is no better short time investment—when call money commands 4 to 4½ per cent—than these certificates in the Taxpayers' trust which will earn about 6 per cent.

"We expected a letdown, but are disappointed at today's showing. Workers and the public seem to have concluded that the pledging of $50,000,000—the amount necessary to make the trust operative—means that there is not imperative need for subscribing the total $74,000,000. The amount subscribed so far will not keep the city, county, and school board operating until taxes come in. The public must realize that the job must be completed. All of that concerns the residents of the city."

$756,000 to County Workers.

The 3,862 employés of the county were paid for the first time since before Christmas. They received about $756,000 for the period between Dec. 15 and Jan. 15. About $43,000 more was mailed to 1,642 recipients of mothers' pensions. Notices were also mailed to 1,023 blind persons that the county is ready to pay them part of the $91,000 due them.

The county payday was advanced four days by County Treasurer Harding, who lent funds that were in his hands for other purposes until cash can be received from the Taxpayers' trust.

Pool Starts Operating.

The managers of the trust, the citizens' executive committee, met yesterday noon in the office of Silas H. Strawn to start the new organization operating. First they issued a call for $15,000,000 from the subscribers to the trust.

Then they decided to provide the city with $4,212,000, the schools with $4,706,615, and the county with $2,750,000. To accomplish this the trust will buy city corporate tax anticipation warrants for 1928 to the extent of $4,250,000, school warrants for $4,750,000, and 1930 county warrants for $2,750,000. Delivery is expected today and Monday morning, and it was regarded as probable that the cash will be turned over to the local governments by noon Monday.

To the city and the schools the Strawn committee will give only enough to meet pay rolls. The county, because of its wards and dependents, will receive more than actual pay roll needs.

Committee Issues Warning.

After its meeting the Strawn committee issued the following warning to the local governments and promise to the subscribers to the Taxpayers' trust:

"The emergency fund contributed by the citizens and intrusted to the citizens' committee is for the sole purpose of paying worthy, distressed public employés for their public service and to carry on the vital municipal duties. It is not intended to perpetuate any service which is not especially essential to the various municipalities of the city, county, and board of education.

"The citizens' committee does not and will not attempt to usurp any of the functions of the municipal officers, but the funds at the disposal of the committee are limited and the committee regards it as its duty to see that every dollar must accomplish the definite mission of meeting an urgent need.

Demand Made for Economy.

"The payments today were authorized to meet overdue pay rolls and to relieve the suffering of employés. Subsequent pay rolls must be confined to the minimum necessities which will permit the several municipal departments to perform their functions on the most economical basis.

"The committee has the cooperation of the officials and the assurance that there will be an adjustment of pay rolls and retrenchment of expenditures evidencing the most rigid economy."

The Strawn statement explains that the $74,000,000 does no more than meet the emergency. Other means will have to be taken to place the local governments on a sound financial basis, it says. Therefore, the committee urges aggressive support of the rescue campaign being conducted by Mr. Clarke.

Subscribers of the Day.

The $2,945,000 in pledges obtained yesterday came from the following subscribers:

$250,000—Borden Farm Products company.
$150,000—Standard Railway Equipment company.
$100,000—Drake and Blackstone hotels, Household Finance corporation, Northwestern university, Palmer house, Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, H. M. Byllesby & Co., Chicago Motor club, The Fair.

$2,500—Drying Systems, Inc., Mrs. Rudolph Matz, Beckley-Ralston company, Harry Manaster & Bro.
$1,000—Columbus Shirt company, Carter Holmes, J. N. Layne, J. D. Neilson company, Dr. John Sweeney, A. L. Webster & Co., Wilder & Co.
$500—Daniel Forbes company, Sheffield foundry, Victor A. Olander, E. W. Chandler, William A. Bond, H. W. Behrens.

While the total subscriptions are 77½ per cent of the $74,000,000 required and the committees soliciting utilities, investment bonds, hotels, heating and plumbing concerns and grocerie and confectioneries have subscribed more than their quotas, other committees have not obtained such favorable results. Among the divisions which have obtained less than 40 per cent of their quotas are the railroads, the steel makers, the dealers in leather, rubber and shoes, the directors of finance companies, the printers, lithographers and engravers, the advertising, newspaper and publishing concerns and the contractors, architects, engineers and building material dealers.

PLAN TAX AMENDMENT

Members of the Illinois revenue investigating commission, which met in Chicago yesterday, said they had reached the opinion that a tax amendment to the state constitution is necessary. State Senator Arthur A. Huebsch, chairman of the commission, said after the meeting that he was proceeding on the assumption that a special session of the legislature would be necessary this year because of the financial muddle in Chicago and Cook county.

The commission wants to have ready some recommendations as to needed legislation if Gov. Emmerson calls upon it, according to Senator Huebsch. He said a study is being made of what should be provided in the way of a constitutional amendment, permanent changes in the law, and emergency relief for Cook county. The commission will hear representatives of all tax expending bodies who wish to speak at the future sessions, which are to be held weekly.

Wed in France

PARIS, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A dispatch from Clamart today said Prince Nicholas Troubetzkoy and Princess Alexandria Obolensky were married Monday in the little chapel of the prince's large home on the edge of the town. Later a civil ceremony was performed in the city hall at Clamart, where they are spending their honeymoon. The princess is 24 years old and the daughter of Prince Alexis Obolensky, now of New York. Prince Nicholas is 26 and is an electrical engineer. Both are members of the old régime in Russia, forced to leave that country after the revolution.

Bill Asks Addition for N. Chicago Vets' Hospital

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—An addition of facilities at the Veterans' Bureau hospital at North Chicago, Ill., to cost $1,720,000, was proposed in a bill today by Representative Chindblom [Rep., Ill.]. It would provide for 350 additional beds.

TWO JEWELERS FOUND GUILTY IN FAKE HOLDUP

Mrs. Price to Go to Trial for Plot Monday.

Maurice A. Barnett, a jewelry salesman, and Max Krakow, a manufacturing jeweler, were found guilty of conspiracy last night by a jury in Judge Harry B. Miller's Criminal court. They were convicted of conspiring to wage a fake holdup of Mrs. Laura B. Price, wife of Edwin C. Price, wealthy head of a woodenware manufacturing plant, in order to defraud an insurance company of $20,000.

Mrs. Price, wife of a man who is said to have made more than $1,000,000 through cooperage work for stockyards concerns, will go to trial on Monday for her part in the plot if Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller carries out his plans. Judge Miller granted Mueller's motion that the tiral of Mrs. Price be set for Monday.

Refuses to Aid State.

Mrs. Price was to have been a witness against Barnett and Krakow. After she was given a separate trial with the understanding that she would be a state witness she refused to testify.

Attorney Leonard C. Reid charged that Mrs. Price, his client, had been given the promise that her case would be not prossed if she confessed and that the state had not kept its bargain, but wanted her to plead guilty, accept probation, and make restitution.

"I want Mrs. Price to be put on trial at once to show that there is no influence working in her behalf to obtain leniency or dismissal of the case," said Prosecutor Mueller. "I will prosecute her just as vigorously as I did Barnett and Krakow and will try just as hard to send her to the penitentiary."

Gets Maximum Terms.

The jury's verdict provided the maximum penitentiary sentence of 1 to 5 years for Barnett. The jurors recommended 6 months in the county jail and a fine of $500 for Krakow.

Mrs. Price and her husband were in the courtroom until the case went to the jury.

The exposé of the fake Gold Coast holdup came about when Benjamin Levine and Joseph Baum, the two "robbers," went to the insurance company which had insured Mrs. Price's jewels and confessed because, they charged, they had been cheated by Mrs. Price, Barnett and Krakow in the division of the spoils.

The victory last night makes the third important conviction obtained this week by assistant state's attorneys held over from the Crowe régime. Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne obtained a death verdict for William Lenhardt, Cleveland gunman, and Prosecutor Wayland Brooks won the conviction of two bombers.

THIS JOLLY TAXICAB RIDE WINDS UP ON A NOTE OF TRAGEDY

Business was dull early yesterday morning for Henry Suida, 739 North St. Louis avenue, a taxicab driver, so he welcomed the order of Miss Sophie Pociask, 20 years old, 847 North Hamlin avenue, to drive to Cicero, when she boarded his cab at Chicago and Crawford avenues. And as Miss Pociask drove from one speakeasy to another in the suburb, imbibing gin, cocktails, and beer, and occasionally treating him to a drink, his spirits rose with the figures on his meter.

Around and around Suida drove, the meter clicking a pleasant obligato for the merry ballads which Miss Pociask was intoning in the tonneau. Once she ordered Suida to stop and buy her some roses. He added $2.50 to her bill.

Then late yesterday his fair fare stopped at a drug store at 36th street and Indiana avenue, and upon returning to the car announced, "We'll wind up this party, now." A few minutes later the driver heard her screaming, "I want to die," and throwing open the door, he whiffed the odor of poison mingling with the perfume of roses. After Miss Pociask had been treated at St. Luke's hospital both were locked up at the South State street station.

MARCH BLUSTERS IN, DRIVING OUT MILD FEBRUARY

The mildest February experienced for 48 years in Chicago came to a pleasant close last night. The temperature, which was on the freezing point at sunrise yesterday, climbed to 44 degrees by midafternoon and was sustained above 40 degrees last evening by a gentle southwest wind.

March's appearance this morning was to be blustery, as usual, according to the official forecast. The weather prognosticator, C. A. Donnel, said the wind would shift today from the southwest to northwest, and the thermometer would start skidding to a minimum of probably 20 degrees tonight. Tomorrow, he predicted, would be generally fair and colder.

February's average mean temperature, Mr. Donnel announced, was 37.1 degrees, or 10.9 above the average of 60 years. Only twice was this mean temperature exceeded, in February, 1882, with a mean of 39.1 degrees, and February, 1877, with a mean of 37.4. Sunshine was about normal during the just departed month, while snowfall was 1.5 inches, compared with the normal of 9 inches.

Yesterday's mild weather lured office workers to a baseball game in the vacant lot formerly occupied by the Kirk soap factory at Michigan avenue and the river.

APPEAL IN PHONE CASE TO TOUCH ON NEW ISSUES

Decree Against City Is Formally Signed.

The final decree in the Illinois Bell Telephone company rate case in which the company was granted a permanent injunction to restrain the Illinois commerce commission from enforcing a rate reduction was signed yesterday by three federal judges. Some changes were made by the court in the wording of the decree, which follows an order handed down on Jan. 31.

ATTORNEY GOLDSTEIN.

The three judges, James H. Wilkerson, Evan A. Evans, and George T. Page, at the same time allowed the city's attorneys ninety days in which to file a bill of exceptions for an appeal to the United States Supreme court. In addition the city lawyers filed an assignment of errors listing sixty-four points in which they claimed the court erred.

$11,000,000 Fund Involved.

The suit involved more than $11,000,000 with accrued interest which the telephone company has been collecting in higher coin box rates since a temporary injunction was obtained in 1923, shortly after the commerce commission issued its reduction order. While the decree frees this fund to the company it is stipulated that an account of the funds be kept pending the Supreme court decision.

One modification in the decree from the original opinion brought a measure of comfort to Benjamin F. Goldstein and George I. Haight, special counsel for the city. While the original decree had criticized the city for laxity in the prosecution of the case the final order stated, "the counsel who now represent the city came into the case when the court ordered it to trial and proceeded with the trial without delay."

National interest in the case is expected to be aroused if the appeal reaches the highest court in the country. From the assignment of errors listed by the attorneys it was learned that points will be brought up that have been prosecuted in New York state and one question that is now before the interstate commerce commission in the O'Fallon railroad case.

List Points in Appeal.

None of these points, according to reports, has been prosecuted before the Supreme court before, a factor which it is believed will attract nationwide attention. As gleaned from the assignment of errors they are as follows:

1. A review of the arrangements between the American Telephone and Telegraph company and its subsidiaries for the distribution of toll charges on long distance calls.

2. Whether the Supreme court should apply a new rule as to the fairness of the present rate of return based upon special conditions in the Bell company system.

Review History of System.

3. The history of the Bell system since 1881 and of the whole structure of the country.

4. The court will be asked to decide how much effect is to be given to reproduction cost valuations on account of the rising prices since the war. In the O'Fallon case it was merely the established rule that any commission must take into account new costs, but did not state whether they are a dominating factor.

5. The court will be asked to pass upon the question of whether the reserve for depreciation should be deducted from the amount upon which the earning rate is based. The city contended that the reserve should be deducted and the Chicago court held that it should not be. In the New York case it was held that the reserve should be deducted and the interstate commerce commission has held the same, according to attorneys.

Attorneys for the company and for the city agreed yesterday to push the case for an immediate hearing and to ask to have it advanced for argument on the court calendar. Attorneys Goldstein and Haight have notified Corporation Counsel Ettelson that they will not render the city a bill for their services in the event the case is lost before the Supreme court.

Steam Shovel Operates Still

Didn't Dig Much

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 28.—(AP)—A steam shovel, it appears, cannot disappoint its public day after day without inviting gossip.

This steam shovel worked in an excavation here. It toiled and puffed with great ado, attracting the attention of passerby just like countless other hard working steam shovels.

In this case, however, there was something wrong with its technique. Expert steam shovel watchers observed that while there didn't seem to be anything wrong with its stance or its putting, it didn't move much more dirt than the average duffer with a midiron.

The police investigated yesterday, arrested four men and reported finding a 1,000 gallon still hitched to the boiler.

Search for Missing Boy, 4, Leads to Fort Worth, Tex.

The search for Earl Bell Jr., 4 years old, who disappeared mysteriously from the home of his father at 1834 Van Buren street on Thursday led yesterday to Fort Worth, Tex., the home of the boy's mother, who is divorced from the father. Mrs. Rose Gregory, who lives at the Van Buren street address, said she left her 5 year old son playing with Earl while she went to a store. When she returned her son told her that Earl had been driven off in an automobile.

CHICAGOAN DIES IN AUSTRALIA OF AUTO INJURIES

W. V. Kelley, Manufacturer, Hears of Son's Death

William V. Kelley Jr., son of the chairman of the board of directors of the Miehle Printing Press and Manufacturing company, died yesterday in Sydney, Australia of injuries incurred in an automobile accident last Wednesday, according to a cablegram received by his father at the family home at 1550 North State street. The son, a world war hero, was the Los Angeles representative of his father's company and had been in Australia nearly a year on a combined business and pleasure trip.

He was injured when an automobile driven by a friend struck a street car.

Mr. Kelley Sr. cabled instructions to Sydney to have his son's body returned to Chicago for burial. Funeral services will be announced later. The son is survived by his widow and two children, living in Beverley Hills, Cal.

Young Kelley left Yale university in 1917 to enlist in the American tank corps. He was commissioned a second lieutenant on Oct. 5, 1918, after receiving a croix de guerre from the late Marshal Foch.

Motor Toll Is Higher.

The 1930 Cook county motor toll is 28 per cent higher than that for the corresponding period of last year. This was revealed yesterday by Coroner Herman N. Bundesen. Two deaths yesterday raised the 1930 toll to 143. The death total was only 111 on the same date in 1929. Yesterday's victims were:

Thomas J. Davis, 49 years old, 836 Oakdale avenue, who died at the Chicago General hospital of injuries received last Tuesday when he was struck by an automobile as he was crossing North Halsted street, near Oakdale avenue. The driver, Morris Waldman, 3727 Pine Grove avenue, was charged with assault with an automobile.

Louis Johnson, 63 years old, 6136 Addison street. Died in the Belmont hospital of injuries incurred on Dec. 12 when he was struck by a bus at Meade avenue and Addison street.

Damage Suit Settled.

The $75,000 damage suit brought by Miss Mabel Frankewicz, 21 years old, 1320 South Avers avenue, against the Chicago City Railways company and Leo Checchi, was settled yesterday before the case was given to a jury in Superior Judge Harry C. Stuttle's court. Miss Frankewicz lost both feet when she was struck by Checchi's automobile and flung into the path of a street car. Attorneys refused to reveal the amount of the settlement.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS JURISTS RECOMMEND WAR BAN IN COVENANT

GENEVA, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The committee of jurists attempting to harmonise the league of nations covenant with the Kellogg pact accomplished one of the most difficult parts of their task today by agreeing on an amendment to article XII. This is the one article of the covenant which leaves an obvious gap for employment of war as an instrument of international policy.

The full committee adopted a subcommittee formula which prohibits resort to war in any case. The formula is as follows:

"Members of the league agree that if there should arise between them any dispute likely to lead to rupture they will have recourse for its settlement to pacific means only. If the disagreement continues, the dispute shall be submitted either to arbitration or judicial settlement or to inquiry of the council. Members of the league agree that they will in no case resort to war for the solution of their disputes."

Child, Whom Boys' Blood Failed to Save, Is Buried

Funeral services for Stefania Wawrzyniak, 3 years old, 1443 Pitner avenue, Evanston, who died on Wednesday of a throat infection after two cousins had given their blood in an effort to save her life, were held yesterday at her home, with burial at St. Adelbert's cemetary in Niles. The cousins, Francis Wawrzyniak, 16 years old, and his brother, Chester, 14, Boy Scouts, have recovered from the transfusion operation in which they each gave a pint and a half of blood.

DIVORCE STORIES CONFLICT; JUDGE THREATENS JAIL

Says Both Professor and Wife Can't Be Right.

Either Joseph M. Synnerdahl, professor of mathematics and astronomy at Loyola university, or his estranged wife, Mrs. Ethel Kesner Synnerdahl, may go to jail for contempt of court on March 15. This was indicated yesterday when Superior Judge Gentzel charged that one or the other was committing perjury in giving testimony at the hearing on Mrs. Synnerdahl's suit for divorce.

Mrs. Synnerdahl had her husband in court on the charge that he is holding real estate valued at $3,000 belonging to her. She also declared that her husband is holding her clothes since she left their home last Dec. 18, when she charges that he beat her. She listed eighteen pairs of shoes, seven hats, seven dresses, three purses, six pairs of gloves, two coats, two scarfs, a bottle of French perfume, and one unused corset.

Charges and Denials Fly.

Synnerdahl testified that he did not have either the real estate or his wife's cloth . He said that his wife had not lived with him in his home at 6725 Greenview avenue, but only came there two or three nights a week. He charged that his wife is holding real estate belonging to him. She denied the charge.

"It is apparent that some one here is committing the rankest kind of perjury," Judge Gentzel said. "One of you is lying and if I find out who it is I am going to sentence that person to six month in the county jail for contempt of court."

Attorney Thomas A. Green, representing Prof. Synnerdahl, and Attorney John W. Tauchen, appearing for the wife, asked the court to appoint an investigator. The judge refused to do this, but continued the case until March 15 for another hearing.

Synnerdahl filed an answer, according to Attorney Green, naming three men as co-respondents. These are Charles C. McJunkin, owner of the McJunkin building at Wilson avenue and Broadway; Dr. Frank Chandler, a dentist, Hollywood, Cal., and Charles Rockwell, wealthy Pacific coast lumberman with offices in Hollywood. Synnerdahl's answer also charged his wife with taking a three months vacation in Paris last summer with an unnamed man.

Ex-Dry Agent Arrested on Blue Sky Law Charge

C. B. Washburn of Racine, a former prohibition agent at Chicago and Milwaukee, was arrested last night at Elkhorn, Wis., with G. E. Orr, 43 years old, of Chicago and E. V. Miller, 50 years old, of Saginaw, Mich., on a charge of violating the blue sky law. The three men were arrested on the complaint of Miss Olga Steig of the securities division of the Wisconsin state railroad rate commission, who charged them with selling stock in a fake laundry company. They were released under $1,000 bonds.

SPAIN CLAMPS ON LID AGAIN TO END REVOLT THREAT

Free Speech Forbidden; Press Gagged.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Feb. 28.—As a result of the outbreaks of republican feeling which followed Sanchez Guerra's indictment of those in high places yesterday, all public meetings and speeches have been banned in Spain until further notice. Censorship of the press also has been restored by Premier Berenguer.

Reaction to the speech of the former Conservative leader in Madrid last night is so strong throughout the country that Premier Berenguer fears that any more speeches like this will create a streak of uneasiness which the eager republican element will be sure to aggravate. No doubt the much heralded return to normalcy will be slowed down as a result of the events of the last few days.

Public May Blow Off Lid.

That Gen. Berenguer's attempts to clamp down the lid on public opinion will be successful is not at all certain. On orders by the government, special meetings at Barcelona in which Señor Malquiades Alvarez, former president of the chamber of deputies, who is still a monarchist, and Alexander Lerroux, veteran republican leader in Spain, were scheduled to speak, have been called off.

Nevertheless, Barcelona was not all peaceful tonight. Many groups roamed through the streets trying to organize demonstrations. In fights between the police and mobs, six rioters were injured, and two others were arrested. The police managed finally to discourage the formation of any meetings.

General Strike at Valencia.

A general strike has been called at Valencia, where scores of gendarmes have been concentrated to handle the situation. The authorities of Valencia met tonight to consider the situation, which has been complicated by the presence among the workers of syndicalists, Catalan nationalists, socialists and a few bolshevik agiators.

Certain Madrid circles tonight declared that Sanchez Guerra hoodwinked the public, and said nothing important in his speech. At the same time, it is pointed out that a republican with more to say might have caused an even greater demonstration. With monarchists like Guerra insisting upon an investigation of the responsibility of the dictatorship, the enemies of the crown might well go much further in their demands for an election.

For this reason it is considered safe tonight to say that Gen. Berenguer will not open the election campaign tomorrow, or next day, if he ever does it of his own free will.

CHINESE BANDITS KILL THREE NUNS AND TWO PRIESTS

LONDON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A dispatch from Hongkong today reported that the Salesian bishop, Msgr. Versiglia, Father Caravario and three Chinese sisters were murdered some days ago by bandits near Suipin.

The bandits apparently saw the party entering the boat ahead of them and proceeded to attack it at Suipin. They demanded $500. On receiving a refusal they tried to seize the sisters and the bishop. They met opposition, but eventually succeeded in carrying off the party to the mountains, where they murdered them. Two other priests went three days later to the bandits' stronghold with the object of negotiating the release of the prisoners, but they were too late.

Bishop Luigi Versiglia, according to Annuario Pontifico, was apostolic vicar of Shiuchow in the province of Kwantung. He was elevated in 1920 and was 57 years old. The Salesian society was founded by the venerable Don Bosco and in 1874 took its place among the orders of the Roman Catholic church.

Hale and Regan Ask New Trials; In Court Monday

Attorneys for former Mayor Raleigh P. Hale and Police Chief James A. Regan of East Chicago, convicted last month of conspiracy to violate the Volstead law, filed motions for new trials yesterday in Hammond. Judge Thomas W. Slick of the United States District court, who heard the case, had set Monday for the sentencing of the group. A jury in the Lake county Criminal court at Crown Point convicted John Burhop, nephew of Hale, of contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl. He was sentenced to serve ninety days.

Find Shark Teeth 4 Million Years Old in South Africa

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Feb. 28.—A well digger in the Cradock district today sent to the Witwaters Rand university dental hospital the fossilized teeth of giant sharks found more than 30 miles from the present coastline. It is said that the teeth are from sharks which lived 4,000,000 years ago. Experts were sent to the spot. The teeth were found at a depth of 90 feet in a formation of sandstone and were well preserved.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eye with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Dr. Dorothy Stimson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry A. Stimson, formerly of Chicago, has been appointed acting president of Goucher college of Baltimore, one of the leading women's colleges in the country, according to an announcement yesterday. Miss Stimson's mother was Alice W. Bartlett, daughter of Dr. Samuel Bartlett, for many years a professor in the Chicago Theological seminary and a resident of Glencoe. Miss Stimson is a cousin of the secretary of state.

BRITAIN FORBIDS ARMY TO PROTEST RED WAR ON GOD

Order Says Controversy Is Political.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 28.—An order which was issued yesterday by the British government directing army and navy chaplains not to join in intercessory prayer services for the persecuted Christians in Russia on March 16 and 19, in accordance with the appeal of the archbishop of Canterbury for services throughout England, is due to meet considerable opposition in the house of commons. The ground upon which this opposition will be presented is that the government has no right to exercise authority in spiritual matters.

The wording of the disputed order to the army is:

"His majesty's government has decided that, in view of the political character the controversy has assumed, it is not desirable that intercessory prayers for Russian subjects should be read in the religious services of the army."

The admiralty order is equally as brief and states that the archbishop of Canterbury's arrangement for special intercessory services on March 16 "does not apply to his majesty's ships or establishments."

Demand Germany Act.

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The parliamentary faction of the National Christian federation, joining protests against anti-religious activity in soviet Russia, has filed an interpellation in the reichstag asking the government's attitude on the "suffering, distress, outlawry, persecution of Christians in Russia, the closing of churches and the public blasphemy of God by word and picture." The interpellation demands that the government make a thorough investigation into these accusations.

The papal nuncio today filed a protest with the federal Prussian government against a communist exhibition of paintings, one of which portrayed Christ on the cross wearing a gas mask and a pair of high boots.

The action followed the Centrist party's protest in the Landtag against derision of Christianity and "slandering the pope, a Christian sovereign."

The Centrists were demanding that the police close the exhibition, pointing out that the slandering of a secular sovereign of any friendly state would be quickly squelched.

Four Paintings Seized.

The police already have seized four paintings from the exhibition. One confiscation was confirmed by the Berlin court, acting on the public prosecutor's instructions, and three other pictures were seized.

One of them was that which evoked the protest by the Centrists. It represented the pope pointing a revolver at the spectators and carried the inscription, "Save Christian Civilization from the Devil and Bolshevism."

KENOSHA WRECK TOLL NOW IS 13; CHICAGOAN DIES

Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The death of Taylor Kallmeyer at St. Catherine's hospital tonight brought the list of fatalities of last Sunday's North Shore wreck to thirteen.

Kallmeyer, who lived at 4420 Greenview avenue, Chicago, suffered a broken hip and internal injuries in the accident. He was the sweetheart of Evelyn Metzger of 1619 Wilson avenue, Chicago, who was killed when the crash occurred.

GAME WARDEN DIES SUDDENLY.

FILM NOTABLES AT FUNERAL OF MABEL NORMAND

Rope Off Chapel to Keep Back the Crowd.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—In a little downtown funeral chapel, roped off for two blocks to keep back the throng of curious, friends and relatives of Mabel Normand paid their last respects today to the one time queen of films in a short private service.

In the group of mourners nearest the casket were the invalid mother of the actress, Mrs. Mary Drury Normand of Staten Island, Mrs. Julia B. Benson, Mabel's secretary and death bed companion, Mabel's sister, Gladys, and her widowed husband, Lew Cody, looking wan and grayed.

Dressed as She Had Directed.

Mother, sister and husband were last to gaze into the great bronze silver coffin, flanked by flowers eight feet high, where Mabel lay, dressed, as she had directed, in a pink silk gown, lace flounce about her neck, rich bronze black curls to her shoulders, and a mother of pearl rosary in her clasped hands.

Father Michael Mullins, chaplain of the Catholic motion picture guild, intoned a litany, while some of his listeners crossed themselves and whispered a last farewell to the girl whom they had clasped to their affections.

Honorary Pallbearers.

Among those who accompanied the casket through lanes in the streets were Charlie Chaplin, Ford Sterling, and Fatty Arbuckle, comedy co-stars in Mabel's old days; Maurice Costello, who had picked Mabel out in New York for one of her first parts; D. W. Griffith, credited as being her "discoverer"; Mack Sennett, who starred her and to whom she was once engaged to be married; Producer Sam Goldwyn, who starred Mabel for a time; Ben Turpin, Marie Dressler, Norman Kerry, Constance Talmadge, Ruth Roland, Marshall Neilan, Marion Davies, Louise Fazenda, Laurence Stallings, King Vidor, Frank Campeau, and Douglas Fairbanks.

The pallbearers were Griffith, Sennett, Chaplin, Fairbanks, Sterling, Goldwyn, Eugene Pallette, an actor; Sid Grauman, theatrical producer; Paul Bern, scenarist; Col. Arthur Goebel, Federal Judge William James, and Louis Mayer, film magnate.

After a brief service at Calvary cemetery, the body was taken to the receiving room of the chapel to await a decision as to its burial place.

PLAN PROPOSED FOR ELEVATING 71ST ST. TRACKS

An ordinance for the elevation of the Illinois Central railroad's suburban tracks in 71st street between Stony Island and Exchange avenues and in Exchange avenue between 71st and 79th streets was submitted yesterday to Ald. Frank Sloan [26th], chairman of a council subcommittee on track elevation, by John Dillon, city superintendent of track elevation. The cost of the proposed elevation is estimated at $5,000,000 to $5,500,000.

The structure, which would eliminate dangerous grade crossings, was pictured as of the open type, resting on concrete supports, with a deck of reinforced concrete. The location of the stations was left open to be adjusted between the Illinois Central and the city council.

A difference of opinion exists as to whether the space under the proposed structure is to be reserved for operation of street cars and traffic or for the stations and automobile parking space. If the space is opened to traffic the stations would have to be placed above the ground level.

SENATOR URGES NAVY DELEGATES BE CALLED HOME

London Parley Is Failure, He Declares.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—A one man drive to end the London naval reduction conference by the drastic expedient of recalling the American delegation was undertaken in the senate today by Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.]. The Tennessee senator asserted that President Hoover might just as well recall his delegates, because the efforts of the conference "are certain to be futile."

Senator McKellar's critical comment marked the first open attack on the conference proceedings from the senate floor, although many senators and representatives in congress have not hesitated to sepak critically of the activities of the American delegates and the position taken by the various powers as the parley progressed.

Advice Termed Unwise.

Only one senator replied to the Tennesseean's attack on the conference. This was Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.], one of the leaders of the so-called "Young Turks" group of Republicans. The Michigan senator took the position that Senator McKellar was following an unwise policy in giving advice to the American delegates while the conference was still in session.

"I was under the impression," said Senator McKellar, "that before the conference opened hope was held out that naval reduction, decrease in world naval equipment, and parity between the British and American fleets would be brought about at the London parley.

Charges Increases Sought.

"As I read the newspapers, none of these three principal goals is likely to be accomplished. It seems a foregone conclusion that there will be no naval disarmament. Likewise, it is apparent there will be no decrease of naval armaments in the world. Instead naval armaments are to be increased. My reading of the newspapers discloses that none of the suggested agreements provide actual parity in fighting ships for the United States.

"No one will contend that the British and American fleets are of equal strength. Unless the United States is given the right to build exactly the same tonnage as Great Britain, as well as the right to construct the kind and size of ships necessary for American national defense needs, we will never have parity. I think no one will contend that our cruiser strength would be equal if the proposals suggested at London for cruiser limitation are adopted."

Recall Them, He Says.

"In view of the situation in London," Senator McKellar said, he hoped the American delegates would be recalled.

"I hope President Hoover will advise our delegates to come home," he said. "If we do not need a great navy let us decide that question ourselves. In the present state of mind of the conferees representing the other four powers it is clear there is no possibility of reduction. So far as I can judge Great Britain, France, Japan, and Italy, instead of seeking a reduction, are diligently and laboriously seeking to increase their armaments. Great Britain's refusal to sink the Rodney, one of her great battleships, in order to give this country battleship parity, and her unwillingness to allow this country to build the type of cruisers we need indicates her attitude quite fully."

"I sympathize with many of the things the senator has said," interrupted Senator Vandenberg, "but I believe such contributions of advice to our delegates abroad do far more harm than good."

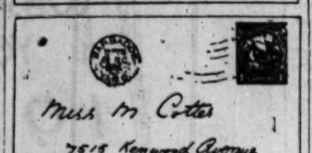
From Barbados, West Indies



Letter received by Miss M. Cotter, 7515 Kenwood avenue, Chicago.

Barbados is the most easterly of the West Indies belonging to Great Britain. It was occupied by the English in 1625 and has never changed hands. Its capital is Bridgetown, with a population of about 14,000. The island has an area of 166 square miles and its population, mostly Negros, approximates 170,000. Its chief products are cotton, sugar, molasses and rum. Of a total area of 106,470 acres about 74,000 are under cultivation.

U. S. WEAKENING UNDER JAPANESE NAVAL DEMANDS

Nippon Insists on 70% Big Cruiser Ratio.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The haggling between the Japanese and American delegations to the five power naval conference over the price Japan is to be paid for joining a naval limitation treaty continued today. The Americans are understood to be yielding to Japan's demands in some important particulars, but just what they are both sides are carefully concealing.

It will be recalled that Japan, at the Washington conference, demanded 70 per cent of the strength of the American navy in all classes of ships. She was induced to accept 60 per cent in all categories in consideration of the abandonment by the United States of the development of naval bases in the western Pacific. Inasmuch as the Washington conference eventually failed to limit any but capital ships, the treaty did not bind Japan to acceptance of a 60 per cent ratio in auxiliary categories.

Japan Renews Demand.

Now Japan has renewed her demand for 70 per cent in big cruisers and parity in submarines, notwithstanding the fact that America is bound by the restriction of Pacific bases. Secretary of State Stimson has already given the Japanese assurance that he is prepared to come across with at least part of what they are demanding.

Tsuneo Matsudaira continued his negotiations today with Senator David Reed. According to Japanese sources, Senator Reed informed Mr. Matsudaira that the United States will not have more than 13 of its 18 big cruisers completed by 1935. By that time, he said, Japan will have twelve big cruisers, aggregating 108,000 tons. Thus, the Japanese tonnage would be 82 per cent of the 130,000 tons of American big cruisers.

Mr. Matsudaira, however, turned down this proposition as too one sided. He said that it would mean freezing Japan's tonnage in big cruisers at the amount now built or building while leaving America free to build to 180,000 tons.

CONVERSATIONS LAG

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The depths of dullness were reached today by the naval conference, which is finding it a hard task to discover anything to fill its time until the return of the French. Secretary of State Stimson called on Foreign Secretary Henderson at the foreign office, but it is declared that the call had nothing to do with naval affairs and simply was a visit of one foreign minister to another.

Prime Minister MacDonald, after speaking at the annual dinner of the Morayshire club tonight, went to Chequers for the week-end. He will have no official visitors and no conferences, but Sunday there will be a small party of relatives and friends, including Mr. Stimson, to celebrate his daughter, Ishbel's birthday.

Pessimism about the ultimate fate of the conference is natural in this period of doldrums, but the chief delegates still maintain there is no reason to fear an agreement will not be reached within a month after the French return. It was suggested today that this might be hastened if the four powers filed suit at The Hague court against France for the keep of their delegations during the period of waiting enforced by the French cabinet crisis.

U. S. NAVAL ENVOYS AND WIVES ATTEND TURKISH RECEPTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The naval conference delegates and their wives enjoyed the hospitality of the Turkish ambassador and Mme. Ferit Bey last night at a brilliant reception at the Ottoman embassy. The reception was attended by all members of the diplomatic corps, by government officials, and by many well known figures in London society.

Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Senator and Mrs. Joseph T. Robinson, and Senator and Mrs. David A. Reed were among the Americans present.

Dancing followed the reception in the stately Adams period ballroom, and at small tables placed at the edge of the floor guests sat between dances drinking champagne and eating Turkish sweetmeats.

Mr. and Mrs. Stimson have been invited to attend the first performance of "Healthy, Wealthy and Wise" tomorrow night. They will motor in to town from Stanmore for the occasion.

CHARGE TARDIEU IS STALLING TO KILL SEA PARLEY

Poincare Suspected of Delaying New Cabinet.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 28.—The feeling is growing here that by his interminable and not altogether explicable delay in forming a government, André Tardieu, and behind him Raymond Poincaré, who is looking two months into the future, is trying to let the naval conference die a natural death.

Torpedo would be too strong a word, but now that it looks as though the French delegation will not get back to London before Monday, March 10, there seems to be good ground for the suspicion that the French are not enthusiastic about resuming the conference. M. Tardieu, however, is apparently working on a schedule, and will bring the list of his new ministers to President Gaston Doumergue tomorrow afternoon or Sunday morning.

Delays Approval of Deputies.

But suddenly the word was passed around that the ministerial declaration could not be read in the chamber of deputies before Wednesday or Thursday, probably the latter. That means that the French would only arrive in London for the week-end, which they say is useless, and suggest it would be better to arrive Monday.

Then there is M. Poincare's declaration this morning in the Excelsior to the effect that it is time to stop all this nonsense in London anyway. M. Poincare, it is recalled, is momentarily responsible for the eminent position of M. Tardieu, but is undoubtedly preparing for his own return to power, knowing that he alone is master of the chamber.

Ambitious Radicals Wary.

The fact that behind him looms the shadow of M. Poincare is in reality hindering M. Tardieu's efforts to get a government formed. Ambitious radicals who would be willing to defy their party and accept the portfolios M. Tardieu is offering are holding back, knowing full well that when M. Poincare comes into power he will take the radicals into his cabinet, but not those who are in bad odor with their party.

M. Tardieu, after his usual two hour lunch at the best restaurant in the city, called on President Doumergue at the Elysée palace this afternoon. He is apparently not bothered by the decision reached today by the senate radicals, who comprise almost half of the upper house, to give him the cold shoulder. He points out that only 35 were present out of 150, and he still counts on the remainder joining him. His minister of marine will probably be the Breton senator, Vicomte de Kerguezec, Jean-Louis Dumesnil having refused the portfolio.

Delay Starts Wild Rumors.

The Socialist party came out today and charged M. Tardieu with deliberately stalling with the connivance of President Doumergue, for a mysterious reason that is not stated, despite the national interests in the London parley and the waiting budget.

France is prey to a strange uneasiness. The wildest rumors are flying about and a dictatorship is one of the mildest subjects of discussion.

12 C. & N. W. VETERANS IN FOUR STATES WILL BE RETIRED TODAY

Twelve veterans of the Chicago and North Western railway in Chicago, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Nebraska, with service records averaging more than forty years each, will retire on pensions today. The Chicago pensioners are Iver Wold, 715 North Harding avenue, a machinist for 44 years; James C. Paul, 3410 Carroll avenue, special agent at the Madison street terminal, with a perfect record of 37 years, and Joseph Bucksa, 3618 Belmont avenue, section foreman for 22 years.

Patrick F. Killeran, locomotive engineer of Norfolk, Neb., has the longest service record of the group, 48 years and 8 months. Three others, all of Clinton, Ia., are Michael Connean, blacksmith, 46 years; Clayton Olney, locomotive engineer, 45 years, and Peter Bean, switchman, 31 years.

Others are John P. Gary, Green Bay, Wis., locomotive engineer for 44 years. Frederick J. Holting, Galena, Ill., foreman for 42 years; Charles O. Eastness, Eagle Grove, Ia., storekeeper for 41 years; Harry H. Hibell, Cedar Rapids, Ia., night yardmaster for 30 years, and Martin Skelly, Green Bay, locomotive engineer for 30 years.

INDICTMENTS IN MAYWOOD BANK CASE RETURNED

CRIMINAL COURT.

Thomas Kiernan, forgery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Lester Cook, William Zimmerman and Frank Galligan, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

John Alberty, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Harry Fisher.

The six indictments voted by the grand jury last week against Elmer J. Langguth, president of the defunct People's State bank of Maywood, and Miss Laverne Lindgren, the cashier, were returned yesterday before Acting Chief Justice John P. McGoorty. Four of the indictments name the defendants jointly in embezzlement and forgery charges, while one separate indictment is returned against each.

The jury fixed the bonds at $10,000 on each indictment, which will require a $50,000 schedule from each defendant. They have been at liberty for several weeks on justice court bonds. Unless they appear within a few days to give new bonds on the indictments they will be arrested.

The grand jury, which completed its work yesterday, also reported that the jail should have bars on the windows. The lack of bars was discovered some weeks ago when five prisoners kicked out a window and escaped. The county board did nothing about the situation, although Warden David Moneypenny made a request for bars.

SANTO DOMINGO REBEL CHIEF IS MADE PRESIDENT

Will Rule Until New One Is Elected.

SANTO DOMINGO, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The governmental forces of President Horacio Vasquez and the insurgent leaders of the movement against him, with the apparent approval of the American minister, today agreed on a provisional president for the Dominican republic. He is Gen. Rafael Estrella Urena, one of the insurgent leaders.

At noon President Vasquez, against whose continuation in office during the presidential elections the insurgent movement started, signed a decree appointing Gen. Estrella Urena secretary of state for the interior. According to the constitution, this member of the cabinet acts as president in the absence of the president and of the vice president.

Vasquez to Leave Country.

At the same time President Vasquez asked the national assembly to permit him to leave the republic to stay in a foreign country. He gave ill health as his reason for making such a request before his term of office was over.

Estrella Urena, who is a lawyer by profession, led the insurgent troops into Santo Domingo two days ago, and carried on negotiations with Gen. Rafael Trujillo, loyal commander of Fort Ozama. He was minister of justice and instruction in the Dominican cabinet in 1926, but resigned six months later and was appointed minister to France. He is about 38 years old.

Hoover Commission Arrives.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Feb. 28.—President Hoover's commission to study conditions in Haiti arrived in the capital this afternoon in the midst of the greatest demonstration Haiti has known since the beginning of the American occupation. It was an orderly and impressively quiet demonstration and it was a demand both for the restoration of representative government and for the end of the American occupation. Throughout it was marked by scrupulous courtesy to the American commissioners and when, at the close of the day's ceremonies, the members of the commission strolled out in front of their hotel and bowed and smiled to the demonstrators, they received a roaring ovation.

Beginning tomorrow morning, the commission will hold open sessions every day, at which all citizens are invited to testify.

The commissioners entered the harbor of Port au Prince only a few hours after a riot caused by disapproval of certain of President Borno's policies. Sixteen of the mob were hurt and four gendarmes were wounded. Political feeling is still tense tonight, and the whole force of gendarmerie in the city is kept in the barracks in readiness to quell any new disturbance.

It was evident today that the feeling of the opponents of the American occupation is one of cordiality toward the commission and of hope that they will be instrumental in restoring representative government.

Charge Borno Plots Coup.

Last night's riot grew out of rumors, alleged to be unfounded, that President Borno was preparing by trickery to have himself succeeded by one of his adherents. A new president of Haiti is to be chosen April 14.

Haiti's legislature has been abolished under the American occupation and the council of state appointed by the president has functioned in its stead. Normally the legislature, elected by popular vote, would choose the president, but under the present machinery the council of state would elect him.

Recently President Borno has removed several of the council's twenty-one members. He removed four yesterday. When word of this spread rumors flashed through the city that some kind of coup d'etat was in the air.

Last night word was circulated that a secret meeting was to be held at which President Borno would resign and Charles Fombrun, former minister of the interior, would be chosen president.

Crowd Gets Ugly.

The crowd, by now grown to several thousand, massed in front of the council's building and, according to the gendarme officials, began to show an ugly disposition.

Gen. Frank Evans, marine commander of the gendarmerie, and other officers went among the crowd, telling them there was no basis for the reports and advising them to go home. The crowd became unmanageable, according to the gendarmerie officers, and two companies of gendarmes were called to disperse them.

Many of the crowd resisted with fists, clubs and knives. Three gendarmes suffered slight stab wounds and one's hand was broken by a club. Thirteen of the mob was arrested.

Mrs. Davidis won a divorce Aug. 4, 1928 and was granted the custody of two children, Agnes Quanita, 9 years old, and Loretta, 10.

Packer's Country Home Robbed; $12,000 in Loot

The Barrington country home of John Roberts, president of the packing concern of Roberts & Oake in the Union stockyards, was robbed of furnishings valued at $12,000, Mr. Roberts' neighbors discovered yesterday. Every window in the residence was broken and the doors stood wide open. Included in the loot were a silver table service, a box of sealskin pelts, a chinchilla coat, two suits and china ware. The Roberts family at present is living in Chicago.

D. C. STEPHENSON MAKES NEW PLEA TO WIN FREEDOM

D. C. Stephenson, former Indiana Klan dragon and politician, advanced a new plea yesterday in his latest move for release from the Indiana penitentiary at Michigan City, where he is serving a life sentence for the murder of Madge Oberholtzer. Stephenson now says that Miss Oberholtzer died from the effects of an illegal operation, and not, as was charged at his trial, as a result of poison which she took after she had been attacked by Stephenson.

Paul R. Newman, Stephenson's Gary attorney, presented the plea before two members of the state parole board and asked for a ninety day parole to enable his client to gather additional evidence. Stephenson was not present and, lacking a quorum, the board members, Arthur Dennison and M. E. Foley, postponed the matter until March 28.

Newman produced two affidavits in support of his contentions. The first was signed by a former Gary physician, Dr. Mabel Foulds, now of Weed, Cal., who said she had performed an abortion on Miss Oberholtzer in her Gary office on March 16 or 17, 1926. Before she died Miss Oberholtzer claimed Stephenson had attacked her in a Hammond hotel on March 13. She died the following April 14, supposedly from the effects of poison she drank after the attack.

The second affidavit was signed by Newman himself and related how he came into the possession of the new information. The lawyer said Attorney W. J. McAleer of Hammond told him in August, 1928, "Go to Dr. Foulds; she has the key to the Stephenson information."

Pennsy to Lay Last Rail of New Track Wednesday

The Pennsylvania railroad will lay the final rail in its standard 130 pound line from Chicago to New York next Wednesday in the Pennsylvania yards near 41st street. The link in the 908 mile line will be closed with the driving of a golden spike. Officials of the railroad, the Century of Progress exposition, and the Chicago Association of Commerce will participate in the ceremony.

SEEK NECKLACE REPORTED ONCE NAPOLEON'S GIFT

New York, Feb. 28.—(Special.)—Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings began an investigation today into the reported recent disappearance here of a diamond necklace, represented to have been the gift of Napoleon Bonaparte in 1811 to his second wife, Empress Marie Louisa of Austria, at the birth of their son, L'Aiglon, the duke of Reichstandt.

The necklace, valued at more than $400,000, was reported owned by the aged former Archduchess Marie Theresa in Vienna, Austria, and intrusted to a colonel of the British secret service, Hastings was told, for sale here.

Mr. Hastings caused a subpoena to be issued for former Archduke Leopold of Austria, who, he was told, was in New York. He said the archduke will be asked to tell what he may known of the conditions under which the necklace, said to contain forty-seven diamonds, had been sent to this country by Marie Theresa and the man alleged to have received it

MEXICO'S UNION CO-OP SOCIETIES ON VERGE OF RUIN

Claim Corrupt Officials Cause Bankruptcy.

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 28.—According to a statement made by a prominent labor union leader today the coöperative societies of the labor unions have gone to the wall almost all along the line. These societies, modeled on the style of the Russian soviet societies, were much in vogue under the administrations of Presidents Alvaro Obregon and Plutarco Elias Calles. The government gave them the strongest encouragement and frequently paid into the coöperative treasuries sums equal to that paid by the members.

The failure of the coöperatives is placed at the door of the Mexican Federation of Labor, which has been presided over by Louis Morones, former minister of industry, commerce and labor in the Calles cabinet.

Arms Coöperative Goes Smash.

The greatest Mexican coöperative society, that of the national arms factory, near this city, went on the rocks last night. Three years ago the national arms factory coöperative, which was the special pride of the government, boasted a capital of over $300,000, about half of which had been supplied by the government.

In a most stormy meeting, in which charges were hurled at the officers of having embezzled funds, it was revealed that less than $250 remained in the treasury, and the property of the society, which is of little or no use, was found to be valued on an inflated statement at about $15,000.

More than 80 per cent of the coöperatives which were established by the Mexican Federation of Labor have either gone out of existence or are in deep water because of mismanagement, and unauthorized use of original capital and incoming funds.

Union Officials Stir Trouble.

The discredited officers of the federation, who were once monarch of all they surveyed in practically all the cities and town of Mexico where labor was organized, are not attempting to make trouble in mines and petroleum centers because they have been driven out of their old strongholds.

The latest example of the federation's pernicious activities is the American owned sugar plant at Los Mochis, in the state of Sinaloa, where millions of dollars of American money are invested. The American company has done more for Mexican workmen than any other in Mexico, and the workmen stand by the company. But the federation, with a handful of discontented laborers, declared a strike at Los Mochis. This has threatened to disorganize business, forcing the Mexican government to intervene to protect American interests.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—President Hoover made public today a report estimating that public utility construction expenditures during 1930 would exceed one billion 400 million dollars and affect every city and town in the country.

The report, made to the chief executive by Matthew S. Sloan, chairman of his committee on expedition of public utility construction to aid employment, said the program now under way had been accelerated.

Sloan, who is president of the Brooklyn Edison company, said there had been no great modification of the utilities program outlined in November and that a recanvass had shown that those plans probably would be somewhat expanded.

"Information completed yesterday indicates that the total expenditures for n construction already made this year or to be made by March 31 by electric, gas, and street railway companies will aggregate 305 million dollars," Sloan's report said.

SIR ESME BACK IN BRITAIN; HAS KIND WORD FOR U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Declaring that he had retired from diplomatic life and intended buying a house and settling down here with his family, Sir Esme Howard, retiring British ambassador to Washington, arrived here this evening.

"I feel convinced," he said, "after knowing the United States for nearly 35 years, that the feeling toward Great Britain during that time has steadily improved.

"There is no longer what used to be known as the old grudge against Great Britain. It is dying away, and the settlements of the Irish question and our debt to America have caused a great change in the public opinion of the United States towards us."

EX-ILLINOISIAN HEADS NEW YORK UTILITIES BOARD

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt today announced the appointment of Milo F. Maltbie as chairman of the state public service commission to succeed William A. Prendergast, resigned.

Mr. Maltbie, a native of Hinckley, Ill., and formerly professor of mathematics and economy at Mount Morris college, Mount Morris, Ill., is regarded as an expert on public utility regulations. He was appointed by the then Gov. Hughes in 1907 as a member of the original public service commission and served for several years.

Mr. Maltbie was a member of the advisory board on railroad valuation of the interstate commerce commission from 1915 to 1916.

Still No Trace of Missing Plane with Three Aboard

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Ground and air searchers today found no trace of the missing Albuquerque to Los Angeles twelve passenger Fokker air liner with three aboard, which disappeared last Sunday evening and is thought to have met disaster in the mountains near San Bernardino, Cal.

POLITICS BUZZES ON SOUTH PARK ELECTION TODAY

Judges Pick Commissioner; Woman in Race.

BY PARKE BROWN.

More than the usual amount of action for such occasions is expected to mark this morning's meeting of the twenty judges of the Circuit court for the purpose of electing a member of the south park board.

Decided opposition has developed to the reported deal between the Democratic organization and former State's Attorney Crowe for the election of Benjamin F. Lindheimer, a Democrat, through the addition of two Republican votes to those of the nine Democrats on this bench. As a result Judge Mary Bartelme is expected to nominate a Republican woman, Mrs. Edith Strouse, for the commissionership.

Bring Up Money Rumor.

And to add further interest to the question, it is reported that an effort will be made to cause the judges to take official cognizance of rumors that the present board has permitted large amounts of park funds to lie idle in banks controlled by one of its number, John Bain, without the payment of interest. These are the receipts from the army-navy football game of 1926 and the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Mrs. Strouse, wife of Dr. Solomon Strouse, a physician on the research staff of the University of Chicago, has been known as a leader in the Chicago Woman's club and the Chicago Woman's Aid society, a Jewish charitable organization. She was brought into the field by Mrs. Harry Hart, who preceded Mrs. Bertha Baur as president of the Illinois Republican Woman's club.

Mrs. Hart enlisted the aid of Chairman Snow of the Republican county central committee, who immediately mailed to each of the eleven Republican judges a letter urging the election of Mrs. Strouse and issued a press statement in her behalf.

Against Bipartisan Deals.

"I have at all times," he said, "taken a strong hand against these bipartisan agreements to administer any public office or board; and I am loath to believe that Republican judges will put a minority party in control of the south park system.

"I am not desirous of seeing the park board organized as a political body, but I do believe that a major party should be in a position where it can be held responsible for the conduct of an administrative body under its control.

"With this in mind, and with the purpose of obtaining the highest type of park administration, I am urging that all Republican judges, regardless of factional alignment, elect Mrs. Edith Strouse, as commissioner to succeed Louis J. Behan, who is retiring.

Probe Handling of Money.

It is reported that representatives of several organizations have for several weeks investigated the present board's handling of $453,246 from the Army-Navy game and of $100,000 received as rental for the Tunney fight. Commissioner Bain is said to control the Stony Island Trust and Savings bank, in which it is said the former sum has been on deposit since April, 1927, with the monthly statements to the board showing no payment of interest.

The same commissioner is said to control the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, which held the $100,000 prize fight fund from September, 1927, to August, 1929, and upon which the park records fail to show any interest paid.

"The money is drawing 2 per cent," said Commissioner Bain when interviewed over the telephone. "If it has not been collected it can be collected at any time. I also have paid 1 per cent more for a surety bond."

Ex-Italian Deputy Jailed for Stealing $600,000

HUSBAND LOSES JOB WHEN WIFE SECURES WRIT

Herbert Grugel, 142 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park, an architect with the R. C. Wieboldt company, construction engineers, lost his job yesterday. Just as he was beginning his day's work Thursday he was arrested on a writ of ne exeat secured by his estranged wife, Mrs. Esther Grugel, 6340 Roosevelt road. His employers discharged him.

Mrs. Grugel secured the writ, which prevents her husband from leaving the jurisdiction of the Circuit court, when she appeared before Judge Lynch Wednesday, charging that her husband was about to leave for Russia to work on a contract which his company had secured from the soviet government. She won a decree April 30, 1929, and was awarded $30 a week alimony for the care of two children, Herbert Jr., 12 years old, and Donald, 9.

The architect had not missed a payment. Yesterday his attorney, Victor Frohlich, appeared before the judge to state that his client had lost his job and that the wife's fear was without foundation.

"The courts have always been imposed upon by writs of this nature," Judge Lynch said. "They are merely an instrument of scheming wives. Bring the man before me and I'll cut the alimony order."

U. S. Ends Car Theft Case Against Loftus, 8 Others

Federal Judge Woodward yesterday admitted as evidence in the trial of John W. Loftus, former police lieutenant, and eight others a statement made by Loftus in 1927 admitting sale of an automobile to a policeman. The car has been shown to have been stolen, according to government prosecutors. The government ended its testimony yesterday afternoon and counsel for several defendants accused of dealing in stolen cars, entered motions for suppression of evidence and a directed verdict of not guilty. Decisions on these motions will be given Monday.

TUNNEL COMPANY LONE BIDDER FOR TUBES IT GAVE UP

The city of Chicago came into possession of the series of tunnels under the loop streets, through which merchandise is distributed, one year ago, with the expiration of the franchise of the Chicago Tunnel company. Despairing of reaching an agreement with the occupants for a renewal of the franchise, the city council advertised the tubes for lease. Yesterday the lone bid received was opened. It contained a proposal from the Chicago Tunnel company. Nor did the irony of the situation end there. Under the old franchise the tunnel company was supposed to pay to the city 12 per cent of its gross receipts as compensation. The bid for a new franchise offered the city only 3 per cent or compensation of approximately $39,000 a year as compared to $80,000 a year under the old franchise.

Answers Three Important Questions

When Are Fashions Flattering?
When Are Fashions Springlike?

When They Are Caped

You have heard the news from Paris about the importance of capes. But have you heard and seen the ways of the cape? One could almost say there is a cape for every costume.

GIRL CONFESSES LIE FOR SLAYER; 90 DAYS IN JAIL

Three Lenhardt Witnesses Punished for Perjury.

Miss Alva Zaabel, 22 years old, 4131 Sheridan road, confessed her perjury yesterday in behalf of her sweetheart, William Lenhardt, Cleveland gunman who was sentenced to the electric chair earlier in the week for the murder of a restaurant owner. She was ordered to the county jail for 90 days by Judge Philip Finnegan for contempt of court.

The sentencing of Miss Zaabel completed the punishment of those who testified to a perjured alibi in an effort to save Lenhardt from the death penalty for the slaying, which occurred during a holdup. Two other witnesses, Mrs. Catherine Gidrioc, wife of a Cleveland garage owner, was also sentenced to 90 days in a cell, and John Taplo of Cleveland, will serve six months in the jail.

Ditchburne Uncovers Perjury.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne, who prosecuted Lenhardt and uncovered the perjury in his behalf, tried to obtain from the witnesses statements which would reveal who was behind the efforts to help Lenhardt escape conviction. Some of the witnesses said they talked to Lenhardt's mother in Cleveland, but would not definitely accuse her.

According to Ditchburne, Miss Zaabel said she had talked about the case with Lenhardt's mother, but when pressed for a definite answer as to why she had perjured herself she replied, "Because I love him."

Prosecutor Ditchburne said he decided to punish the witnesses for contempt rather than to ask their indictment for perjury and perhaps have to wait for several weeks before they could be tried.

Prefers Contempt Action.

"I believe it is better to punish perjury promptly by contempt sentences rather than take a chance with a jury on a perjury indictment," he said. "The effect of prompt punishment by contempt is much better than a possible belated punishment by a jury."

Miss Zaabel, who previously had refused to admit her perjury, sent word to the prosecutor yesterday that she was ready to go before the judge and confess. In contradiction to her previous testimony before the trial jury, she said she was not in Cleveland with Lenhardt on the day that Milton Vallsopoulos, owner of a restaurant at 801 West 74th street, was slain.

Artist Meeker Sued for Divorce by Artist Wife

Mrs. Chris Marie Meeker, 7681 Rogers avenue, an artist, yesterday filed a suit for divorce in the Circuit court against her husband, Russell C. Meeker, also an artist. The bill charges cruelty. The Meekers were married in Paris on April 5, 1919, after a war-time romance, and separated on Feb. 21. Mrs. Meeker asks for the custody of their son, Lionel, 10 years old, and for their furniture and an automobile, which she says belongs to her. She also demands alimony.

DIES AGED 102

"AUNT POLLY" MERRILL.

John Koenig, 103 year old Glenlord farmer, is the only centenarian left in Berrien county.

A few days ago Mrs. Margaret Daily, who was 103, died. Both Mrs. Daily and Mrs. Merrill were residents of Benton Harbor's rural districts.

POLICE CONFER ON NEW CLEWS IN LAVANDER CASE

With new information which may lead to a solution of the murder of Mrs. Agnes Lavander, 5451 Addlam avenue, who was slain near the Forest Glen station of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad on the night of Feb. 17, Deputy Police Commissioner Stege and Chief of Detectives Egan will confer with Deputy Commissioner Mooney today on steps which may lead to the capture of the killer.

Stege, who was out of the city at the time of the murder, declared last night that he had located two persons who heard the shot which killed Mrs. Lavander and had fixed the time of the murder definitely at 7:30 p. m. Seven suspects have been arrested in connection with the case, but all have been released.

Judge Hopkins Is Slightly Better After 2d Operation

CONFESSES SHOOTING FRIEND.

Samuel Sorda, 33 years old, of 928 South Halsted street, confessed to the Maxwell street police yesterday that on Wednesday he shot and seriously wounded his former friend, Ralph Bananna, 42 years old, at Bananna's home, 847 Taylor street.

FRIEDA HEMPEL SUED BY SISTER OVER GEM LOSS

Singer Given Diamonds to Pawn; Some 'Replaced'

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The woes of Frieda Hempel, opera and concert singer, who has figured in many lawsuits, were increased by one today when her sister, Mrs. Helene Schaper, filed suit in Brooklyn Supreme court for $10,000 or the restoration of diamonds which Mrs. Schaper alleges some one removed from jewelry she intrusted to Mme. Hempel to pawn. Mrs. Schaper is ill in the Lenox Hill hospital.

Mrs. Schaper recited that she gave Frieda Hempel the jewels to pawn Nov. 26 last, but that the singer sold the jewelry and later repurchased it, and that upon its return to Mrs. Schaper some of the diamonds had been replaced with inferior stones.

Singer Sued for Million.

The most famous of Frieda Hempel's lawsuits was the one she filed against August Heckscher, the philanthropist, in which she sought to obtain about $1,000,000, alleging that Mr. Heckscher had made a contract to pay her $48,000 a year in quarterly installments if she would quit the opera and concert stage to sing exclusively for "the lame, the halt and the blind," whenever Mr. Heckscher demanded. She declared he made only one payment after she had abandoned contracts worth $200,000 a year to her.

Formerly Mrs. Kahn.

The singer formerly was the wife of William B. Kahn, New York patent broker whom she divorced in Paris in 1926 on charges of abandonment and failure to support. At that time reports were published that she contemplated marriage with August Heckscher and were as promptly denied.

It was while she was Mrs. Kahn that Mme. Hempel returned from a concert tour to find that her apartment had been robbed of a chinchilla coat valued at $15,000, jewelry and a relic of Jenny Lind, all to a total of about $30,000.

POLICE TO OPEN TRAFFIC SAFETY CAMPAIGN TODAY

Police Commissioner Russell's 1930 safety campaign will open today with a 30 day drive against motorists who fail to heed stop signs and signal lights and those who speed through an intersection on the amber light.

The central traffic bureau, in its weekly bulletin yesterday, announced the opening of 22d street between 1st avenue and Des Plaines avenue. This section had been closed for reconstruction of a bridge.

The bureau's bulletin also recommended a detour around the broken pavement of Sheridan road between Emerson and Central streets, Evanston, advising traffic to turn west on Emerson to Orrington avenue, north to Central, west to Ridge avenue, and thence north to Sheridan road.

LOG ROLLING ON OIL, SUGAR DUTY BARED IN SENATE

Blaine Declares Lobbies Traded Votes.

sugar tariff." Both Thomas and Pine voted against the sugar increase, in which Waterman was interested, on Jan. 16.

Another phase of the log rolling was revealed in an undated letter found in Franklin's files, written by Charles Flint of Tulsa, Okla., one of the oil group, to Russell Brown, acting secretary of the Independent Petroleum association.

"Did not see Senator Hale from Maine as per your request," read Flint's letter, "but had a nice talk with Senator Dale from Vermont and he advised me not to see Hale if I did not know him well enough to press him. He said Senator Pine didn't know that he (Dale) had told me he would vote for the tariff and Pine had told him if he wouldn't help on the oil tariff that he (Pine) would not help him and he said that was the way to do it.

"He said he couldn't trade with Hale as well as Pine or Thomas could, as he didn't have enough to trade like they did. He introduced me to Senator Nye and the only promise he could get out of him was that he certainly would be there at the presentation on the senate floor, and if it was like we told him he'd be for it, but hadn't made his mind up yet.

"Dale said our senators were in special good position to trade, as heretofore they had been against them in the northeast and many senators would like to trade with them.

Dale Denies Trading.

Senator Dale issued a statement denying that he had coöperated in any way with the oil lobby. He said he had not been approached by any one on the question of a duty on oil.

In another letter Representative U. S. Stone [Rep., Okla.] reported to Franklin: "I had a personal talk with the Republican floor leader, John Tillson, and he confirmed the statement which I made that if the Texas and Oklahoma delegations, who claim to be vitally interested in a tariff on oil, would agree to vote for the tariff bill when it comes before the house with a $1 tariff on oil added, he would personally intervene at this time and assist in securing the tariff you are asking for."

Franklin admitted that every possible means of approaching senators probably has been used by himself or members of his group during the last two or three weeks, on the golf course, at private dinners and through mutual friends.

One letter indicated that $1 bills were to be enclosed in letters to prominent citizens in oil producing states to pay for the shower of telegrams to doubtful senators which the letters solicited and that in non-producing oil states, farm organizations were urged to bring pressure upon the senators from those states.

Try to Reach All Senators.

"Is there a single senator you have not approached or tried to approach?" asked Senator Blaine.

"We've tried to talk to them all," answered Franklin, listing among the 23 he "saw personally," Senators J. E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], the Republican floor leader; C. S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.], Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.], and J. R. Grundy [Rep., Pa.].

Mabel Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general, was drawn into the picture by a telegram disclosing that she had been offered a "contingent employment" by Cornelius C. Hamilton, president of the Sun-Ray Oil company, a "free lance" oil tariff lobbyist. Franklin declared that Hamilton on his own initiative, made an appointment for Mrs. Willebrandt to discuss the proposed retainer with Franklin and told the latter she would be a valuable asset because of her great influence with the President, and in congress. Mrs. Willebrandt's services, Hamilton assured Franklin, could be secured for from between $5,000 and $10,000.

"I never kept the appointment," asserted Franklin.

"Which was very ungallant of you," interjected Senator Caraway.

"Because I didn't want to have anything to do with a proposition that involved hiring influence," continued Franklin. "We are here presenting our case on its merits and we have bought no influence."

Examine 6,000 Pupils to Halt Spread of Smallpox

Health department officials examined 6,000 pupils of the Lane Technical High school and neighboring elementary schools yesterday and vaccinated 200 of them to prevent the spread of smallpox originating from a single case in the high school. The examination order was given by Health Commissioner Kegel after he learned that Walter Streich, 17 year old student, had attended classes between Feb. 4, when he contracted the disease, and Feb. 11, when he was removed to the isolation hospital.

"CHEAP, WORTHLESS," SAYS BROOKHART OF HIS COLLEAGUE, STECK

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Senator Brookhart [Rep., Ia.], in a statement issued outside the senate chamber today related the history of his long standing feud with Senator Steck [Dem., Ia.], and characterized his colleague as "cheap and worthless."

The statement also was directed against Hanford MacNider of Mason City, Ia., who, Brookhart said, led Steck's successful campaign before the senate election committee in the 1924 election contest between Steck and Brookhart. MacNider is now trying to fill Steck's seat "with a Republican," Brookhart said.

"Even if you select the man Dictator MacNider wants," the statement continued, "I will say to you that he will not be as worthless as the one he has there now."

Brookhart denied he had refused to speak to Steck, and said that after the election he had "treated him as a man and a gentleman," but that Steck had publicly accused him of being in Washington as a paid lobbyist in violation of the law." These charges had later been shown false by a senate committee, he said, adding:

"Nevertheless Steck never did apologize for his false charges, never did correct his libelous statements in the record, and has not spoken to me since. This has not been the slightest inconvenience to me."

WOMAN BUSINESS AID OF HUSBAND ACCUSED BY WIFE

A divorce fight between Mrs. Sophia Nevin Wemple, 40 East Oak street, daughter of Harris Nevin, president of the bus company bearing his name, and her husband, Edwin Copley Wemple of New York, was disclosed yesterday. Mrs. Wemple had filed a suit in the Circuit court several weeks ago, charging her husband with desertion.

Last Tuesday she was served with a notice of divorce proceedings brought by her husband at Reno, Nev., on a charge of incompatibility. Mrs. Wemple amended her bill, through her attorney, Harris Blake, naming Miss Isabelle Popkin, business associate of her husband, as co-respondent. The bill alleges that Wemple, who is a partner in the Wemple Lumber company, and Miss Popkin have adjoining apartments in a New York hotel and that they traveled together to California.

The Wemples were married after a wartime romance at Bordeaux, France, Aug. 22, 1918. Mrs. Wemple was a nurse in the dental corps and Wemple was a captain. The couple separated in September, 1927. Mrs. Wemple asks the custody of a son, Jay Nevin, 6 years old.

WEBER CALLED IN DISCUSSION OF TAX FIXING QUIZ

William H. Weber, chairman of the board of review, yesterday was invited to a conference in the state's attorney's office regarding the tax fixing investigation being conducted by Assistant State's Attorneys Homer Dodge and Robert E. Blackwood. The prosecutors wanted to learn from Weber the methods followed in the reassessment.

Weber explained that the initials of the reviewers were placed on the reassessment cards after they had confirmed the work of the assessors. The word "confirmed" has been erased in some cases and fraudulent tax figures inserted, it has been charged.

The grand jury adjourned yesterday without taking any action or making any report on the tax investigation, which was started when Lawrence Hoffman, a University of Illinois student, admitted changing some of the assessment figures. The jury had notified the prosecutors that it wanted evidence against "higher-ups" instead of against petty clerks.

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—H. Mr. Driscoll, were kicked out of the pleased to know that the brief case containing 250,000 shares of General Railway Coupler corporation, which he left today in a taxicab he hired at the Pennsylvania hotel, were turned over to police by the driver of the cab. The shares, recently acquired by Mr. Driscoll, are valued at $250,000.

The brief case, containing, besides the shares, railroad passes issued to Mr. Driscoll, were kicked out of the cab driven by Charles Mintzin, Brooklyn, by an unidentified woman who engaged the car after it was vacated at Grand Central terminal. Mr. Driscoll's whereabouts were undetermined tonight.

Russell to Order Shift of Six Captains Today

An order transferring six or seven police captains and a number of sergeants and patrolmen will be issued tonight by Police Commissioner Russell, he indicated last night. Commissioner Russell refused to divulge the names of the captains whose commands will be changed but said there was no special significance attached to the contemplated changes.

CLOSE UNSAFE FLYING FIELDS, PLEA OF JURY

Closer inspection of flying fields in Cook county and immediate closing of those which do not meet the requirements for safe flying were recommended by the coroner's jury which yesterday closed an inquest into the deaths of Capt. Joseph Donnellan and Richard King. Both were killed a week ago when their plane crashed to an air field at Cumberland avenue and Irving Park boulevard while Donnellan was teaching King to fly.

The jury composed of transport pilots headed by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, famous war flyer, found that the airmen died in an accident caused by flying at an altitude too low for safe maneuvers.

The jury's recommendation called for the carrying out of the inspection work urged by Maj. Ralph Royce in the report which he submitted to the county board at the close of his three months' investigation of flying here. In that report he recommended constant inspection of all but six of the 26 airports in the Chicago region.

SENTENCES OIL PROMOTER, 60, TO PENITENTIARY

Joseph Devore, 60 year old promoter, yesterday was sentenced by Federal Judge Lindley to two years at Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $3,000 after a jury found him guilty of using the mails to defraud. Henry J. Froehlich, 75 years old, an inmate of the Oak Forest infirmary, was placed on probation for two years in the same case. The two men had been selling stock in South American land, which they advertised as rich in oil and minerals. Devore, who was once imprisoned in Indiana for operating a confidence game, said that he had a grant of 6,000,000 acres from the Colombian government.

HOLLAND BLAMES DR. SCHIRESON FOR BANKRUPTCY

Testifying before Referee Harry A. Parkin yesterday on his voluntary petition in bankruptcy, Abraham Holland blamed part of his financial trouble on Dr. Henry J. Schireson, self-styled plastic surgeon. Mr. Holland's daughter, Sadye, lost both legs after an operation to correct bow legs, performed by Schireson more than a year ago.

Mr. Holland, who owned a small drygoods store at 4995 Broadway, filed the voluntary petition on Jan. 18, and yesterday appeared before the first creditors' meeting and the referee. He scheduled liabilities of $11,750 and assets of $6,100.

In his testimony Mr. Holland stated he had a son 30 years old, who has tuberculosis. He said he was already caring for this son when his daughter lost her legs, and the expenses of the two cases were so heavy that he was forced into bankruptcy.

Worker Inured to Danger in Building Dies of Scratch

Joseph Vrany, 74 years old, 2345 South Hamlin avenue, worked for many years as a structural iron worker, heedless of danger as he perched on narrow beams at dizzy heights. Yesterday he died in the West Suburban hospital of an infection in his right arm, which developed after he scratched himself while cleaning a stovepipe in his home several days ago.

90 Pound Girl Helps Two Bandits Rob Taxi Driver

Two robbers and a girl companion hired the taxicab of Joseph Sour, 3255 West 114th street, at 45th and Halsted streets last night. After driving to 56th street and Maplewood avenue they took $11 from Sour and drove away in his cab. Sour said the girl would weigh about 90 pounds.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL SYSTEM — COURTESY, EFFICIENT SERVICE, ALWAYS

Paying the Investor

The rates and fares which railway patrons pay are distributed three ways by the railway organization. One part, by far the largest, goes to the employes as wages. Another part, the second largest, is spent outside the railway organization for fuel, materials and supplies, other operating expenses and taxes. The third part, the smallest, goes to the owners and other investors in the railway property, their dividends and interest constituting what is practically rent for the use of the plant which they have furnished.

Everyone who ships or travels sees the employes who operate the railway plant and realize that they must receive their pay. So, too, in a general way does everyone see the coal burned, the other supplies consumed, the taxes paid. Not everyone realizes, however, that every item in the plant which is being used is the result of someone's toil or self-denial and that therefore the plant, too, deserves its pay.

It is helpful occasionally to look at a piece of railway track and meditate on what lies back of its construction. Every tie, every rail, every spike represents the investment of money. Here may be found assembled, under the appearance of steel and wood, the slowly accumulated savings of many individuals. A single artery of the nation's commerce may hold within its commonplace form the hopes and the savings of thousands of our people of every degree and locality.

Looked at that way, the railway plant is at once conceded to be deserving of its pay. Human effort is represented in it, and its wage is as important as any. Upon the reward which railway capital receives depend the future advancement and improvement of the railway plant. The needs of the nation cause the railroads constantly to seek greater efficiency. That in turn necessitates added investment, and new investors are difficult, if not impossible, to obtain if their predecessors have had to go unrewarded.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

ESSEX Challenger Week

In Reliability—in Comfort and Operating Ease.

In Economy—Note its even greater advantage.

You are invited to be one of the drivers to prove Essex' right to Challenge. We want you to drive and ride in this entirely new Essex Challenger.

This is a "Drive-it-Yourself Challenger Week". A week when motorists everywhere will pit the new Essex Challenger against every performance that makes for driving enjoyment. Thousands will know the thrill that comes when they jump away from all rivals as the green traffic light signals "Go!". As they pass drivers who thought they were masters of the road they will feel the real enjoyment that is known only to the man who drives the super-car. On the hills and on the long open stretches these Essex drivers will experience real enjoyment.

Performance, though, isn't the only satisfaction you will experience. There are appearance and comfort and money-saving value beyond anything you could have imagined in a car that sells at a price all can afford.

Nearly 6000 dealers in the U. S. and Canada have standard stock cars to turn over to motorists for this Challenge. These cars will prove Fast Get-away—Speed—Hill climbing ability—Easy Driving, Easy Operation, Luxury and Comfort. The Challenge is to all and for all to prove.

Drivers of other cars—high priced cars—that are highly regarded for performance—and of cars considered for their low price are invited. The first will realize that more money does not buy relatively better performance or quality. The others that a lesser car will never satisfy.

Ring us up or call on your nearest dealer now and say you want to be one of the many thousands who this week will prove the right of the new Essex to Challenge.

THE ETERNAL FALL GUY.

The United States sent a delegation to a naval conference supposedly to reach, if possible, an agreement fair to all concerned, the benefits of which were to be available to all. In the main there were two to be obtained or regarded as obtainable and desirable. One was a relief of the taxpayers of the various countries by making it unnecessary for them to stand the cost of competition in the unrestricted building of warships. The other was the psychological release from whatever international distrusts might be caused by such competition.

If these are benefits they are not restricted to one or two countries. They are open to all. The United States can afford to build with less grief to its citizens and less burden to its government than any other country. It need not view the consequences of naval rivalry with more trepidation than any other country. It is not in a position of peculiar disadvantage. It hasn't as much to lose in the failure of the conference as the other nations have. Certainly it has no more to lose, if anything is thereby to be lost.

Although this is the case, it has been the continuing theory at London, threaded all through the discussions and the proposals, that the United States must be prepared to make some peculiar sacrifices if the international advantages are to be obtained. It must recognize that equality with Great Britain cannot be real equality because of Great Britain's vital trade considerations. Its own trade security must be less in order that Great Britain's may be paramount. It must recognize that France needs a guaranty of some sort, an assurance of concerted action in its behalf if needed.

The United States could not take more out of an equitable treaty than any other nation which might sign it; rather it would take less, but, as the conference develops its theory, the United States must put more in. It must pay a price for benefits which are of more use elsewhere. There's the barrel. Uncle Sam has been in it before.

SLACKER PACIFISM.

A representative of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, holding conference in Evanston, wants "conscientious objectors" to training in the R. O. T. C. to be approved as conscientious affirmers of the Kellogg treaty, and demands amendment of the immigration laws to remove the ban on individuals who seek the privilege of American citizenship but object to bearing arms. Recommendations of this general trend are to be distributed among the membership of the federal council, which claims to represent 44 denominations, and is, in fact, one of the most active representatives of pacifism at Washington. The pacifism of the federal council is expressed in persistent resistance to defense measures without a courageous and consistent declaration in favor of nonresistance. Its leaders assume to judge the expediency of military measures and to direct congress as to what should be spent on the elements of national defense. Its agents carry on propaganda against preparedness, against the cultivation of national morale. It is not ready to declare that the nation should not resist invasion or attack, but contents itself with using its influence upon weak kneed politicians to prevent the nation from being in a condition to resist invasion or attack.

This is the pacifism not of zealots but of slackers. It is not the pacifism of individuals who will die for a cause, but the pacifism of individuals who were not in jeopardy in the late war and will not be in jeopardy if there is another war in their time. They are addicts of inexpensive altruism who would generously give away the nation's defenses to indulge in their own self-righteousness.

Slacker pacifism claims to have the moral and political backing of the churches. If it had, the nation would be well on the way to its end. The federal council claims to represent 44 denominations. We do not think the membership of the church organizations represented on the council indorses slacker pacifism and perpetual resistance to national defense. We do not believe it wants a nation unable to enforce its rights or preserve its interests. The churches are supported by substantial citizens who are not pacifists, who recognize the need of national defense as they recognize the need of their own local community for police, who would have the nation's rights asserted and enforced, and the interests of Americans preserved, as they would have their own rights and interests protected.

These men and women do not in their own concerns indulge in pacifist doctrines, and they should not permit themselves to be represented as supporting theories in national or international affairs which they do not accept in their private affairs. The results of such inconsistency are certain to come home to the complaisant citizenry in due time and they will be disastrous results. Slacker pacifism is not in itself formidable among a vital people like the American when a crisis is reached. But working with the easy going good nature of our people, their wholesome dislike to war and its wastage, their incurable optimism and Utopianism, it has influence upon politicians to defeat or compromise wise measures of public policy. Good citizens, men of substance and intelligence in the membership of the churches which support the federal council, cannot shirk responsibility for the council's views and activities. Their strength is borrowed for the advancement of these views and activities. If the slacker, the so-called conscientious objector, has their approval, if American security and American interests throughout the world are not worthy of protection by the strong arm of the nation, if the vague notions of "world mindedness" which the federal council preaches are preferred to national patriotism, then these church members should recast their private conduct. They should be willing to live according to the theories their representatives in the pacifist, internationalist lobbies are trying to put into the policies of the nation. If they are sound for a great nation they are sound for the members of the 44 denominations.

THE PETTY OFFENSE OF PERJURY.

A man and two women who perjured themselves in the effort to obtain an acquittal for a murderer have been punished. Judge Finnegan has sentenced them to jail for terms of from three to six months. The offense charged against them is contempt of court in that they swore falsely that the defendant was in Cleveland when the murder was committed.

Had their perjury not been disclosed, the murderer, in all probability, would have been set free. His alibi would have established a reasonable doubt. He would have offered additional proof that murder can be committed in this jurisdiction with impunity. The likelihood that he would have killed other innocent men would have been great. Perjury on behalf of the defense in such a case is a crime second only to the murder itself. If the perjurers had helped the murderer escape from the police their offense could not have been greater.

Therefore they are punished with rather more severity than is generally meted out to those who spit on the sidewalk. Men who for one reason or another have refused to pay alimony to former wives have been far more severely handled by the courts.

These perjurers, by deliberate choice, committed a felony which has been recognized as a felony by all men in all ages. It need scarcely be said that the punishment meted out to them was grotesquely inadequate and constitutes in itself an invitation to perjury in future. There are few murderers so friendless that some one cannot be found to risk six months of freedom to save the criminal from execution.

FROM "SIXTY-FIVE YEARS AGO."

"WASHINGTON, D. C.—The report of the conference committee of congress, requiring the Illinois Central railroad to execute the provision in its charter stipulating for free transportation of United States troops, elicited a heated discussion but finally passed by a large majority. At this writing both houses are in session on appropriation bills with no prospect of speedy adjournment. The best of humor prevailing and no drunkenness."

A FEW GOVERNMENT MORALITIES.

Dr. William M. Steuart, director of the census, and Robert M. Davis, statistical expert, spoke in Chicago Wednesday at a luncheon of the Association of Commerce. They are swinging around a 14,000 mile circle in preparation for the census taking, which begins in April, trying to instruct the takers as to their duties and inform the public, which is to be thus taken, of conduct which will be cooperative and helpful.

In Chicago Mr. Davis asked the people to be frank and truthful. They are protected by the secrecy provisions of the census law. They may confess to any point of inquiry and John Law will not get them. If, for instance, they have not told the income tax collector the truth in their returns they should feel a higher duty to tell truthfully what they earn to the census taker, higher because it's safe. "Make one statement of your income tax to the income tax bureau if you wish," Mr. Davis is quoted as saying, "but give the census bureau the truth. It can't be used against you."

This is an eminently practical idea from the purely statistical point of government, recognizing that, although it is human to err, the census bureau is expected not to. The moralities of American administration are not without their oddities, but in this instance the injustice will be done another bureau which, in turn, has been indifferent to the moralities as applied to another. The income tax bureau, against which the erring taxpayer is to be protected by the census bureau, has always invited bootleggers and rum runners, the prosperous gorillas and the solvent hoods, to be honest with it in making out income returns with the assurance that they will not then be turned up for the sister bureau in the treasury department, that of prohibition enforcement.

Editorial of the Day

CHICAGO WILL CLEAN UP ITS HOUSE.

[Pasadena Star-News.]

Chicago, despite its temporary embarrassment in governmental affairs, and notwithstanding its "reign of terror" from criminals, is still the same old vigorous, progressive, big achievement American city. In planning its great World's Fair in 1933 it will accomplish a monumental thing in building its exposition structures on "made" lands, formerly the sands of Lake Michigan. On this artificial shore, stretching from Monroe street southward to 47th, will rise the great exposition structures.

In this as in its former great exposition—the Columbian exposition of 1893—Chicago undoubtedly will achieve the surpassing. That city does big things in a big way. It has its lapses, it is true—but so do all other municipalities of the country. In its policies, of recent years, Chicago has fared ill. The stigma of its orgy of crime has yet to be removed. But Chicago is peopled by men and women of courage. They will order a housecleaning, without doubt, and will stay with the work until their house is clean.

The World's Fair at Chicago in 1933 will be the last word in mammoth expositions. The progress of the North American continent will be set forth most strikingly. It will be a liberal education to all who attend it and studiously observe the evidences of progress which will be found there.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

CARAMBA! ALFONSO, OOSTAH NO TENGO NADA!

This morning we'd better have a heart to heart talk with Alfonso, the king of Spain. That is, Alfonso was the king of Spain when we wrote this at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. You can take a glance at the front page and see if Alfonso is still king of Spain. Now, Alfonso (or may we call you Alf?) habla oostah los Estados Unidos? Now, Alf, remember, other people are reading this, too, and so when we talk Spanish to you we have to throw in the meaning in English. We asked you if you talked the language of the United States? Of course you speak English, because your wife's English, and a fellow learns lots of things from his wife, especially if he stays out late or doesn't tell how come that blonde hair on his coat. But, as we were saying, speaking English and speaking United States are two very different things, but we won't go into that now.

We started this letter to you, Alfonso, rather rough. Oostah no tengo nada means you don't know anything. What we mean, Alf, is oostah no tengo nada about keeping the populace mucho pacifico, or that is calm and contented. Now, Alf, to start with, komo see ehn teh oosteh? (We just asked him out of the guide book how he felt.) Well, Alf, no importo, the main thing is, how do your people feel? From what we see in the periodicos (newspapers) your loyal subjects are charging around yelling for your head on a silver salver. We don't know how to say all that in Spanish, but you show this to your wife and let her help you out. Anyhow, Alf, you don't seem to be so strikingly popular in Spain these days. If they only had our system over there and elected a king every four years things would be quieter, for when the populace got sore they wouldn't need to throw any bricks. They'd just say, "All right, wait till next time and we'll elect a Democrat." Of course they wouldn't, but that's just the point: when the common peepul can say they wished they'd never voted for that sap and just wait till next time and see what they do then, why, all you've got to do, Alf, is wait—when next time came they'd fall in line and trample each other in the rush to vote for you again.

But, generally speaking, the only way to get rid of a king is to chop off his head or chase him out. So the peasantry in Spain is up and doing. Alfonso, you could keep your job as easy as nothing if you went at it the right way. When the mobs come charging around the royal palace raising particular Sam Hill about this, that, or the other, you just poke your head out the window and say that whatever they want done is a mucho nobilo experimentatio. And then tell 'em you're going to appoint a commissionario to dig into that thing and fix it right. Then maybe they'll whoop around that they've got some more troubles. All right, appoint some more commissionarios.

Tell 'em it takes time for the commissionarios to get all the facts and make a report, so if the mob will please go home and wash its face and go to bed you'd be quite pleased, and for 'em to come back in two or three years and then you'll be able to tell 'em when they can come back again. Then all the populace will say that's a fine idea and that the thing to do is to wait for the commissionarios and they all go home and forget it. Anyhow, Alfonso, it's worked before, and you'd better give it a try. Adios, Alfonso, viva el toro! (That's just a Spanish expression thrown in to tickle Alfonso. It means "hurrah for the bull.")

VACATION WITHOUT RHYMES.

I have awakened once more out of my slumber;
I shall forget my quick, impatient dreams,
Seeing the earth again, how fair it seems,
The wonder and the beauty and the splendor.

In this sweet land I am again alone,
As silent and content as any stone,
More quick to mirror wings than quiet water.

Out of this beauty what shall I bring forth?
It is enough if I may here conceive
A strength that will not let me fret or grieve,
A memory that will bind me fast to earth.

For every crowded hour I found a rhyme;
A word would weight these moments like a chain.
I need not hold them; quiet will remain

BERTHA TEN EYCK JAMES.

OH, HELLO MARCH! WELCOME BACK!

Anyhow, it's March, and that's something. We're on the way. Come out from behind that tree, spring, you little rascal! We see you hiding there. Anyhow, the wind's in the south, the wild geese are beating it northward, and in the woods there's a sort of buzzing as all the little leaves get ready to burst suddenly out and surprise us. There's pussy willows in the florist windows, and they don't cost any more than hothouse roses. But, wait, ere long you can go out in the old benzine buggy and come back with armfuls of pussy willows, and give the florist the mellow raspberry as you scoot past his store. The days are growing longer, there's a mysterious purple haze morning and evening, and first robins are getting so common the newspapers won't print their pictures any more. Yessir, still a little cold and sometimes a bit somber, but you can't deny it, old winter's gone and spring is here. Oh, pretty darned near, anyhow.

LAGNIAPPE.

"33 ROBBERIES in 2 Days; Russell Praises Police," said the w. k. Trib yesterday, and a bird calling himself the "Spirit of '76" writes in to ask us if we think Mr. Russell should have been so sweet to the coppers about it. Goodness, no! Instead of bouquets, it looks to us as though some swift kicks in the pants would have been much more appropriate.

WONDER WHY CAL'S so slow writing that history of the U. S. in 500 words to be carved on the mountain out in South Dakota? Well, Cal, the longer you wait the harder it's going to be, for more history is being made every day. You'd better write what you've got now, and then when the 18th amendment is repealed, or the naval parley in London does something, or if you're elected President in 1932, you can call the stone cutters back to South Dakota and get out an extra.

MAY PREVENT TOOTH DECAY.

SPEAKING before the thirteenth international physiological congress, Dr. M. T. Hanke said: "It is possible by means of a diet containing an abundance of vitamin C to produce solid gum tissue, to arrest caries, and, with the aid of prophylactic measures, to cure pyorrhea and induce bone regeneration in the alveolar tissue."

Dr. W. H. Eddy quotes Dr. Percy Howe as urging, with much emphasis, Dr. Hanke's views.

If other investigators confirm this research work it will mean that the decay of teeth can be prevented or, having begun, can be stopped. That soft, bleeding gums can be made firm. That pyorrhea can be prevented or that, having started, it can be stopped. After the teeth have become wabbly the sockets can be built up and the teeth again made fast.

Cavities will need to be cleaned and filled and, in the case of pyorrhea, the teeth and their roots must be scaled, cleaned, and polished, but these processes are of secondary importance. The main procedure is to feed the person a proper diet.

In dieting to improve the teeth we have been disposed to put stress on the need of lime and vitamin D. This research indicates that vitamin C, the one which prevents scurvy, is where the emphasis needs to be put.

All of these views are based on some observations made by a Scandinavian, Dr. Hojer. This gentleman found the dentine and other microscopic elements of teeth to be the first bodily elements to feel the effects of scurvy. Scurvy changes in the tooth structure were to be seen under the microscope long in advance of the appearance of other symptoms of scurvy. Following the discovery by Hojer, Eddy and other scientists began using the Hojer tooth method of proving which foods caused scurvy and which did not. They found it much more delicate than the older tests.

Up to date Eddy has proved that scurvy can be prevented by diets rich in string beans, oranges, and bananas. Other fruits and vegetables are being tested. The amount of each vitamin C food required is about twice as much as that required to ward off other symptoms of scurvy.

OL[illegible]ASHIONED RHEUMATISM.

F. H. writes: I have just been reading your article on rheumatism. I am 43 years of age, and have been suffering, on and off, for three years. My complaint generally starts in one joint, say the knee; it travels quickly to ankle and the big joint of the toe, and then to the same joints of the other leg. I become quite helpless and the slightest touch causes fearful pain. I have been told I have rheumatism or rheumatic fever; also gout was suggested.

I don't think I am really an old man yet, and a cure should be possible. Could you suggest a way? I have been told [illegible] tonsils removed; is that necessary? And not dangerous at my age? Otherwise, my teeth are not in perfect condition, but all my own—no fillings.

REPLY.

Your description indicates that you have old fashioned rheumatism. This is the kind that frequently responds like magic to rheumatism antitoxin. You should have your heart watched, as this is the type which is most apt to cause heart disease. In many cases removal of tonsils prevents repetition of the attacks; in some cases it makes matters worse. Let your physician decide which class you belong in. There is some danger of hemorrhage in a person of that age.

STRYCHNINE SULPHATE.

C. A. C. writes:

1. Is strychnine sulphate, one-sixtieth grain, given three times daily, harmful at age 15?

2. Is it above good for the nerves and health?

REPLY.

1. Probably not. One-sixtieth of a grain of strychnine three times daily has practically no effect.

2. No. The taking of a little strychnine as a tonic, or of a small dose as a stimulant, is only tolerated because it has so little effect of any sort except mental. Some feel the world is safe as soon as they swallow a small strychnine tablet. It is, so far as thinking so makes it so.

QUANTITY OF VERONAL.

G. C. writes: A claims two to four 5 grain veronal tablets can be taken with safety for sleeplessness. B claims four to tablets of 5 grains each will result in death.

REPLY.

Veronal should not be taken for insomnia except on a physician's prescription, and not always then. Ten to twenty grains of veronal should not be taken at a dose. Twenty to thirty grains might cause death, but probably would not.

DUPLICATE COSTS $10.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—[Friend of the People.]—I took out my first naturalization paper in December, 1923. I lost it in a holdup and have applied for a copy of it. I am told I must pay $10 for a duplicate, although the orginal only cost me $1. Have I been correctly informed? W. W.

The writer of the letter appears to have correct information. Under the act of March 2, 1929, effective July 1, 1929, the fee for a new naturalization paper in place of one lost is fixed by act of congress at $10.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 1, 1865.

THE NEWS.—From the rebel press it is gathered that Sherman is in the vicinity of or at Fayetteville, N. C., 95 miles northwest of one of the largest rebel arsenals. It is estimated that the rebel forces which Beauregard can concentrate against Sherman number only 30,000.

WASHINGTON.—The pickets in front of the defenses of Washington have been doubled.

NEW YORK.—The Commercial's correspondence from the Army of the Potomac says: "We are now under marching orders, having received instructions to be ready to move at a moment's notice. Deserters are coming in in greater numbers than ever and represent that Lee is preparing to fall back to Danville."

NEW YORK.—Richmond papers are quiet concerning Thomas' exact location and it is doubtful whether they really know where his main army is, except that he has crossed into North Carolina. Joe Johnston assumed command of the rebel force in front and rear of Sherman on Feb. 23.

WASHINGTON.—The following promotions have been made: Col. Thomas C. Champin, 96th Illinois, and Col. Benjamin Dornblazor, 46th Illinois, to be brigadier generals by brevet; Lieut. Col. Clendennin, 8th Illinois cavalry, to be colonel by brevet; Maj. Hicks, 96th Illinois, lieutenant colonel by brevet.

CHICAGO.—Miss Lo[illegible] Reynolds and James P. Bradley married on Feb. 23 at the r[illegible] of the bride's father by the Rev. L[illegible]swaze. Miss Sarah J. Buchanan and James Kearsly were married on Feb. 27 by the Rev. Mr. Brooks.

LONDON.—Ladysmith has been relieved by Gen. Buller. The war office received a dispatch from him dated Lyttleton's headquarters, March 1, which states: "Gen. Dundonald, with the Natal carbineers and a composite regiment, entered Ladysmith last night. The country between me and Ladysmith is reported clear of the enemy. I am moving on Nelthorpe." Previously Gen. Buller had reported that he had captured, after heavy fighting, the Boer positions near Pieter's hill. His losses were heavy.

RENSBURG.—Gen. Clements, escorted by a squadron of Inniskillings, entered Colesburg and received an enthusiastic welcome. The Boers are in full retreat.

LONDON.—The campaign in northern Natal which has resulted in the raising of the siege of Ladysmith began on Oct. 12, last year, the day after the Boer government dispatched an ultimatum to the British. On Oct. 29 the Boer forces invested the city and on Oct. 30 the British met with terrible loss in the battle of Ladysmith. On Nov. 2 the siege began and it had continued until yesterday.

CHICAGO.—This city was visited by the heaviest storm in point of snowfall since 1884. Weather bureau records show that in the last 24 hours 12 inches of snow fell on the level. The storm was accompanied by a driving wind, which at one time attained a velocity of 52 miles an hour. The temperature ranged from 20 to 25 degrees above zero.

CHICAGO.—Miss Adrienne Lydston, daughter of Mrs. George Nelson Lydston, and Daniel Morse Elliott Jr. were married at the Union Park Congregational church by the Rev Dr F. A. Noble. Another marriage announced was that of Miss Martha Briggs, daughter of Maj. Clinton Briggs, and William Lee Phelps. It occurred on Feb. 27 at the Lakota hotel.

MARCH 1, 1920.

PEKING.—Unless Japan withdraws from Siberia it will not only face a united Russia but revolution in Corea and possibly war from China. The cloud of a great general war in the far east never was so black as at this moment.

WASHINGTON.—One minute after midnight government control of the railroads ceased and America's 20 billion dollar transportation plant, the largest in the world, passed back into the hands of its 230 respective corporate owners. The properties became separate entities again. Railway executives in general take the position that private operation now enters upon its final test, and to become permanent it must make good.

CHICAGO.—Patrolman James Derig, who joined the police force in 1887, and for the last 33 years has been assigned to the Union station, resigned. He is 70 years old.

FIUME.—A siege of Fiume has begun with a stringent blockade against commodities, including foodstuffs. Gen. Caviglia of the government forces declared: "We shall exercise an iron blockade against the forces of Gabriele D'Annunzio." He said 200 children have been permitted to come out of Fiume and go to Milan.

CHICAGO.—Miss Ruth Romberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Romberg, 2213 Calumet avenue, will be married to William Milton Schwartz this afternoon.

WHAT PROHIBITION DID TO THE PRICE OF CORN.

Ambia, Ind., Feb. 24.—Under a St. Charles date line "Hayseed" informed the world yesterday that farmers in wet countries are less prosperous than farmers in dry America.

That "Hayseed" is not himself a farmer is apparent from his airy reference to milk and poultry as considerable items of farm economy. A real farmer would know that these items are by prescription "mother's pin money" and that corn, the golden corn, is the farmer's great and only hope. No doubt the money which city hayseeds pay the milk trust, the milk drivers' union, three sets of milk inspectors, the railroads, the grocers, and commission men would make sales from milk and eggs an item of the farmer's budget if the farmer could get half of it.

Now, why is land in Ontario and Quebec less fertile, less productive, and farther from market than the tiptop land of Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa worth $50 to $75 more per acre? Let Hayseed verify that fact and answer why. The distilleries of Toronto and Montreal work day and night. Louisville, Peoria, St. Louis, Chicago, and Milwaukee are but sweet memories to the farmer and elevator man of the middle west. They turn no wheel and lighten no tax burden.

No doubt Hayseed can explain how cutting off one-third of the steady buyers of corn makes 75 equal 100.

Last October a tourist from Chicago to Montreal—and any one can duplicate his experience—stopped at one of the many thousands of unpainted, dilapidated Michigan farmhouses and asked, "What is land worth around here?" "O, a hundred and fifty," was the reply. "And taxes?" "About three dollars." Then across the line the tourist stopped at one of the many painted, decent farmsteads and asked:

"What is land worth here?" "O, about $200 an acre," was the reply. "And taxes?" "Around two dollars."

The tourist was an Indiana farmer (whose banker gives him a polite fish eye) on a visit to a rural Canadian cousin whose banker opens the gate, asks him to take a seat and pretends to love him as all bankers do good customers. Think of it! A rich farmer! The salaried uplifters of big business have lied to the farmer for ten years. Prohibition will empty the jails, promote temperance and law and order. When soldiers had a pannikin of rum on a cold morning we farmers wept with the paid spellbinder at sending our lads drunk into the presence of God.

Our gullibility took one-third off the price of corn—and that is that. It doubled taxes, and that's that, too. So Hayseed is no farmer.

ROBERT CATHERWOOD.

THE TERRIBLE TURK.

Fairfield, Ia., Feb. 24.—I saw in today's paper the notice that the Anti-Saloon society were going to bring to this country a 156 year old Turk who never took a drink and would exhibit him throughout the country to show the great benefits of total abstinence. Well, this is O. K. if they wish to do so, and it ought to be a much better way of promoting temperance than the present method of attempted compulsory total abstinence. The fly in the ointment is that the fellow has had twelve wives, eleven of whom are dead. If he actually knew how to prolong life why did he not keep his wives alive as well as himself? Unbelievers will be apt to think that he worked his wives to death to keep himself alive, if he has actually lived 156 years.

THIS FORECAST DISTRICT.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—Answering the inquiry of Mary M. Holmes in your issue of this date as to "What does 'this forecast district' include?":

The "Chicago forecast district" of the United States weather bureau, which no doubt is the district meant by your inquirer, includes our north-central states, or North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, and Indiana. The other forecast districts of the weather bureau are centered at Washington, D. C.; New Orleans, La.; Denver, Colo., and San Francisco, Cal.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—The suggestion of the union ministers' meeting last Tuesday that Sunday schools be abolished as separate units in church life caused surprise to those familiar with the views of some ministerial minds. Neither does its sweeping criticism of Bible classes.

I have been a member of a church and Sunday school for more than fifty years and the teacher of the same Bible class for thirty-four. I learned more about the Bible in eight years under my teacher than I have in fifty years under various ministers. In all these years I have had the support of only two of my pastors; from the rest, opposition and even antagonism.

Why have these classes grown when they occupy a place sometimes equal if not greater in influence than the church itself? Because the teacher has come before them fresh from the rough and tumble of every day life, untrammeled by the influence of our modern theological institutions. They teach in the language their hearers understand. Their methods are free and unconventional. They are not dogmatic and they serve without pay.

If the ministers would work as hard as many a Bible class teacher does; if they would stick to their texts as closely as he sticks to his lessons; if they would seek to create and foster the spirit of cooperation and friendship found in the classes, these questions, too often fostered on jealousy, never would arise.

The leaders of the church today are the products of the Sunday school which my ecclesiastical brethren has suddenly discovered is a menace. The mere layman it looks as if they are trying to hide their own failures in a smoke of a controversial question.

His kingdom could get along better with an abolished church than a destroyed Sunday school. Why not either? Why do not the critics use, but not abuse this great force at their very door, thus following the example of our most successful ministers?

FRANK L. WOOD.

"M" IS FOR MAD.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 24.—Why, why do all these song writers and composers of verse always depict "mother" as old and feeble, a woman who has long since given up the idea of doing any modern normal thing, provided she ever had such an idea? Her hands are invariably wrinkled and of course she must have the proverbial gray hair.

Over the radio, whenever you hear a ballad sung about mother, there is usually a quiver in the manly baritone voice, and you imagine you can actually see the tears streaming down the face of the big bass as he feelingly sings about his mother whose work hardened hand used to rest so lovingly upon his head as she gently rocked him to sleep or nursed him through sickness.

And the truth of the matter probably is that this same big son never had a sick day in his life. The only memory he ever had was the good sport who usually had a front seat at his basketball game and later in his college days, in short skirt and galoshes, was found plowing her way through the mud to football field yelling "Attaboy!"

Let's have a song for mother who is modern and true to form. How about the 1930 model who is keeping step with her children and one who keeps them guessing to know which is which when she steps out with the young daughter. Mother is not a back number. She is very much alive and doing things. Her tired, wrinkled hand is swinging a golf stick these days, or guiding a speedy auto. Mother's hands are well kept and gracefully active.

Father fares much better in our popular ballads; at least he is never pictured as old and infirm. He is affectionately called "dad" and is found often among 'em. There may be some wise cracks about his aversion to work and his irregular hours at home, but he seems to be having a good time somewhere. MRS. BLANCHE L. SMITH.

TO RESTORE PROSPERITY.

Chicago, Feb. 27. — Notwithstanding opinion to the contrary, the immediate repeal of the prohibition law would do more, as a psychological influence toward improving business conditions than any other single measure.

BOOKS

'George Preedy' Puzzles Britons; He Profits, Too

His Latest Laid in 17th Century Saxony.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—The new novel by "George Preedy," author of "General Crack," is called "The Rocklitz." Its scene is Saxony in the late seventeenth century. There has been great speculation as to the identity of "Mr. Preedy." London newspapers have even gone so far as to demand in capital letters, "Who is George Preedy?" I have been told who "Mr. Preedy" is, and I am not going to spoil sport by proclaiming the fact—if it is a fact—revealed to me.

H. G. WELLS.

All I will say is that for a writer to become famous twice over, first under one name, and then under a second, is a rare and creditable feat.

Mr. Tomlinson's "All Our Yesterdays" has had a really enthusiastic press in England—as unanimous in its way as that given to "Her Privates We" [both titles, by the way, taken from Shakespeare], and its advanced sales have been equally gratifying. With the royalties on "Gallions Reach," Mr. Tomlinson bought a new house in England. I don't know what he will buy with the royalties on "All Our Yesterdays"; but I do know this, that there is not an author in England whose success has given greater pleasure to his fellow writers. We would all make Mr. Tomlinson a billionaire if we felt he would like the sensation. But he would hate it, for Mr. Tomlinson has no love of wealth or possessions. Appreciation is a different matter.

Besides writing a little volume—very caustic in tone—on "The Future of Literary Criticism," Mr. Geoffrey West is going to produce a biographical and critical study of Mr. H. G. Wells. He has Mr. Wells' permission to do this. At least one book about Mr. Wells, written and announced, has never seen the light; other books have been over solemn in tone, and have tended to concentrate upon one side only of a man who is bafflingly many sided.

As Time Passes, Franklin Is Better Known to Yanks

"The Amazing Benjamin Franklin" is a compilation of tributes to Benjamin Franklin from the pens of outstanding public figures of today. The volume was issued under the auspices of the Philadelphia chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution. It is edited by J. Henry Smythe Jr. and has a foreword by President Hoover. There was a national observance of the birthday of Benjamin Franklin on Jan. 17.

Hitty in Chicago

Children who have read Rachel Field's "Hitty, Her First One Hundred Years," that very popular doll story of the fall, will be glad to know that Hitty herself, the antique New England doll which inspired the story, will be on exhibition at the Chicago Public library for two weeks beginning March 10. The first week she will be on display in the Thomas Hughes room for young people in the main library, and the week of March 17 in the children's department of the Henry E. Legler regional branch located at Crawford avenue and Monroe street. All lovers of her story are invited to visit her.

RIDICULED WAR

This caricature of Jaroslav Hasek, author of "The Good Soldier, Schweik," was made by Joseph Lada, illustrator of that book. It was due largely, so rumor has it, to this tale of the clownish soldier that the Czech troops revolted and surrendered to the allies. "Schweik" lately has been the sensation of Europe, the hilariously stupid private who fought the great war so valiantly in hospitals, detention camps, taxicabs, everywhere except at the front. Hasek did not live to see his success out of his own country. He died in 1923.

New Walden Shop

The Walden Book Shop opens formally tomorrow its new place at 546 North Michigan avenue with a tea. Those of us who have been curious about the modernistic front bearing the name in huge metal letters know that the Walden shop is combining with the Dudensing galleries of New York. The latter specialize in modern American art.

The new shop is the first out and out modernistic background for books in Chicago. The main floor is devoted to general literature and stationery. On the lower floor the rare book department and a special children's department, a circulating library, and a magazine section live.

The children's department is under the direction of Mrs. Charlotte Kuh, an educator whom we all know and herself the author of those amusing little juveniles of last fall, "The Postman," "The Fireman," "The Engineer," "The Policeman," "The Deliveryman," and "The Motorman."

Sinclair Lewis Tells About Strikers at Cotton Mills

"Cheap and Contented Labor" is the grimly ironic title of a book on the strike of the cotton mill workers in Marion, N. C., by Sinclair Lewis. It is issued by the United Textile Workers of America and the Women's Trade Union league of Pennsylvania. The book will be sold to raise funds for one hundred and fifty families of mountain mill workers who are jobless as a result of the strike and entirely dependent on outside aid for the barest means of subsistence. Sinclair Lewis went to Marion while the strike was in progress to write a series of syndicated articles.

Meetings and Lectures

'Retreat," by C. R. Benstead, will be reviewed at the meeting of the Bookfellows this evening at six o'clock at the Central Y. M. C. A. building, 19 South La Salle street.

Tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock at the Chicago Woman's club, Maurice Hindus will talk on "The Russian Village" and on Monday night he will lecture on "The Soul of Russia" at the Emil G. Hirsch center at 8:15 p. m.

Frank Speaight, popular English actor and interpreter of Dickens, will give scenes from "Pickwick Papers" at the Chicago Woman's club on Wednesday at 2 p. m.

Story of Earth Now, Told for Young Readers

With Now and Then a Funny Picture.

BY AGATHA L. SHEA.

Fathers and mothers, especially fathers, who believe that the world of fact is the most important one, and who look askance at their children's excursions into the realms of romance and fiction, will find a book very much to their liking in W. Maxwell Reed's "The Earth for Sam," an account of the development of the earth and its creatures.

It is a story of the earth's history, of the glaciers and volcanoes which have come and gone, of its mountains and rivers, and of the strange creatures which called it home for awhile and then passed on in the great cycle of evolution.

The book tells how some things came to be, and how others may have happened, and shows the young reader that there still is much to be accounted for. The natural history museums of New York and Chicago have supplied numerous photographs which in themselves tell a fascinating story.

The one objection to the book in the eyes of this reviewer is the injection of line drawings which are humorously interpretive of the text and which seem to be offered as bait to the young reader. In offering them as bait the author does both his text and the children an injustice, for both the facts and the manner of telling are interesting, and the child who will read the book will not require that the subject be camouflaged.

Although the use of scientific terms for chapter headings may prove a little disconcerting at first glance, the child of 11 or 12 years should have little difficulty in reading the book. The vocabulary would be too difficult for the younger child.

A book which will give the younger child lots of fun, however, is S. G. Hulme Beaman's "Ernest the Policeman," a book of humorous stories about Toytown, its pompous little mayor and its very brave policeman.

Another book for the younger children, and one which it is to be hoped will especially find its way into the hands of those children who say that they do not like poetry is Rowena Bastin Bennett's "Around a Toadstool Table." Not since Rose Fyleman's "Fairies and Chimneys" was published ten years ago has this reviewer come across a book of verse for children which has given her such delight. It is real poetry for children, not something of vague, indefinable charm which adults love, and wish that children would.

Here there is rhythm and imagination and all the beauty of spontaneous child thought. The subjects are these which children know and think about, a part of their own world.

Contest for Poets.

The Harbor Press, 142 East 52d street, New York City, is offering a prize of $300 for the best poetry manuscript submitted to them. The contest is for poets who have not as yet published in book form. The contest closes May 15, 1930. The judges will be William Allan Neilson, president of Smith college; Carolyn Ruttz-Rees, Alice H. Lerch, John Hyde Preston, and Louis How.

About Educating Women.

"A History of Women's Education in the United States," by Thomas Woody [Scicene Press], is a complete survey of that subject in two vast volumes. The appearance of the volumes, the author says, marks approximately the centennial of the agitation, and provision, for advanced education for women. It is a monumental work, destined for reference, however, more than fireside reading.

THE PERFECT LEAF

You will read on and on, from page to page, wondering what it is that holds your interest and attention and then you will discover that "under the most perfect leaf lies an adder."

Mignon Hartog of Brentanos says of this book:

"Here is a writer who can take sex or leave it alone, and who has brought forth a novel that calls a spade a spade while it permits one to forget the dirt that is a spade's natural habitat. It is a book one can't put down until it is read through. If only more authors could write in as human and ringing prose perhaps the word literature could be used in its old sense." $2.00

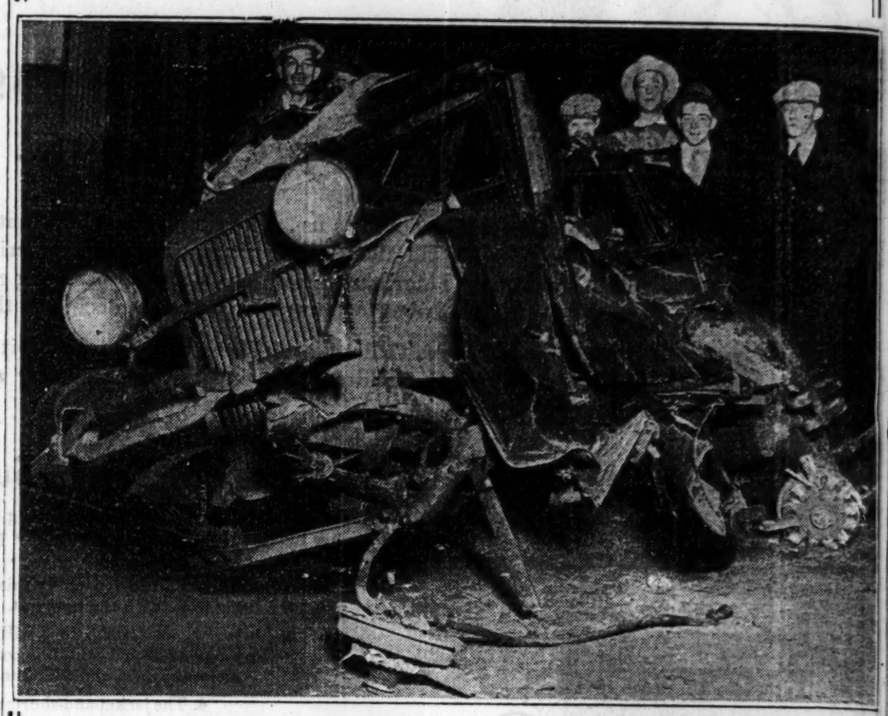
Auto accidents have increased enormously



Keep up your Tribune-Federal Accident Insurance

IN REAL CASH has been paid to policyholders and beneficiaries

DON'T lose the protection of your Tribune-Federal Travel Accident Insurance. Think of it! Approximately 31,500 people were killed and 1,100,000 injured in motor vehicle accidents in the United States during 1929!

The Tribune-Federal Travel Accident Insurance Policy is broad. In many instances it pays large sums of money for accidents not covered at all under the terms of policies issued through other newspapers. The very fact that $1,716,756.58 in actual cash has been paid to holders and beneficiaries of these policies is proof of their great value. This is by far more insurance money than ever has been paid to the readers of any other newspaper in America.

Don't take a chance. Renew your Tribune-Federal Accident Insurance Policy. If you don't remember the exact date of expiration, send $1.25 with the coupon on Page 3 at once and your insurance will be renewed for a full year from the exact date of expiration.

Remember, the value of all specific indemnities in your policy increases 10% on renewal. Don't lose this additional value. Send the coupon at once.

I'LL TELL MY BIG BROTHER

By Edward Dean Sullivan

Author of Rattling the Cup on Chicago Crime

Era Is Flashed Against Biographic Screen.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The 42d Parallel," by John Dos Passos. [Harper's.]

John Dos Passos wrote in "Manhattan Transfer" a completely artistically successful impressionistic novel. It was a technical trick, but it was a perfect marriage of material and manner. It was a panorama of New York composed of rapid flashes, casual, vivid, intense. The individuals who jumped on to and off the screen were brilliant sketches, but it was the conglomerate, massed impression, which gave the essence of a metropolis, that made "Manhattan Transfer" unforgettable.

JOHN DOS PASSOS.

Mr. Dos Passos has chosen the same trick for a novel of America called "The 42d Parallel." The book is composed of "newsreels," as he calls them, records of "The Camera Eye," satirical, sketchy biographies of great Americans and short chapters about the characters of the novel. The newsreels are composed of headlines and sentences out of stories of the period. They set the back drop for the drama, flashes of fact against which the action of the play takes place.

"The Camera Eye" chapters are observations of various people [or the same one, growing from childhood to young manhood as the action of the book progresses] about various other people, not associated with the leading characters in the book, but expressing, in their own lives, reactions of the principal characters. The short, impressionistic, satirical biographies of great men of their times—Eugene V. Debs, Luther Burbank, Big Bill Haywood, W. J. Bryan, Minor C. Keith, Andrew Carnegie, Thomas A. Edison, Charles Steinmetz, Robert M. La Follette, like the newsreels, add the factual furniture of the action. Against that fact and fancy, rolled like a panorama before the eyes of the audience, the lives of the principal characters are lived in the same panoramic manner.

The technique is unquestionably fascinating. The reader's impression is of the extreme hodge-podginess, the lack of direction, of modern life. But Mr. Dos Passos does not, to this reader at least, make his experiment wholly successful, as he did in "Manhattan Transfer."

The introduction of the biographies of great men of the period, for instance, while a good idea, turns out to be a disconcerting feature. While the back drop is turning slowly as the years pass, there are flashed against it pictures of men whose lives began years before the moment which the back drop is recording and went on for years after that. The chronology is thus jerked around frightfully by Mr. Dos Passos, for—so far as we can see—no reason whatever. He lowers the vitality of his technique by it.

The principal characters of the book are done with masterly skill. Mr. Dos Passos certainly has that rare gift of telling a story—only one novelist in twenty even approaches it. But, granted that he gives the essence of the lives and trends of the nine great men he chooses to summarize in a few pages—granted that the whole pattern of a human life is what interests the rest of the world—the fictional characters in his book are picked up and set down like marionettes handled by an erratic puppeteer. Their lives, while they are on the stage, are superbly recorded. What becomes of them after their short, vivid part is played Mr. Dos Passos never says nor even hints. And it is human life, and not, as it was in "Manhattan Transfer," the pattern of a city, that he is painting.

"The 42d Parallel" is, instead of being the masterpiece which it might have been, a brilliant tour de force.

Biography of Col. Harvey Is Close-up of Politics

"George Harvey," by Willis Fletcher Johnson (Houghton Mifflin), is an intimate biography of Col. Harvey, even to the "dirt" (though not "nothing but the dirt") of the piquant relations between the colonel and Woodrow Wilson. There is an introduction to Calvin Coolidge. The volume, like the inside stories of the lives of many of our political figures, gives a unique view of history in the making and is therefore important historically.

About Famous Singer.

HENRY VAN DYKE ADDS NEW CHARM TO THE FISHING ART

"The Travel Diary of an Angler," by Henry Van Dyke (Derrydale Press), will be a joy to either Van Dyke enthusiasts or to fishermen. It is a collection of short essays about fishing in various parts of the world and has been issued in an edition limited to 750 copies, beautifully printed and illustrated with old fashioned engravings (except the frontispiece, which is an etching).

In the paper called "Fishing and Philosophy" Dr. Van Dyke says: "One of the beauties of angling as an avocation is that it lasts longer than most others. Big game hunting, for example, is not suitable to a man who has to wear bi-focal glasses and lug a game leg around with him. . . ."

"Two things I always carry with me on my travels; one is a Bible, the most interesting and best of all books; the other is a short-jointed fly rod, which will go into a portmanteau easily. The first is always profitable for reading, though I sometimes regret that my Protestant copy lacks the apocryphal book of Tobit, in which angling plays such an important part."

It's a VERY nice book this one. We hope the author is very far wrong when he says he must do his best "not to make it posthumous."

Sailor's Novel Has Real Tang of Salt Water

It's Klitgaard's First; He's Been Soldier, Too.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Two first books are the present talk of literary circles in New York. Kaj Klitgaard's first tale, "Seven Months and Seven Days," is sturdy and gay with tang of sea and everlasting human nature—the log of his voyage around the world in a tramp steamer.

ELIZABETH W. THOMAS.

It's deeper than the record of one wide-eyed voyage. It's the essence of half a young lifetime, for this thirty-odd year old Dane adventured to sea at the age of fifteen, sailed in many kinds of craft, on American ships, by the way, during the early part of the war. Later he joined the Canadian expeditionary forces. And now, with wife and family, he's settled down to writing in the Catskill mountains. Why is it that sailors shun seaside homes? William McFee, noted sailorman, who hails Klitgaard's book heartily, now lives in the Connecticut country, out of sight and sound of surf. Does the sea make sailors restless, or are tree-clad hills a newer love?

Much talk there is of "Ella," the first novel of Elizabeth Wilkins Thomas. No greater adventure is in this book than a child reaching for a daisy, a girl boating on a moonlit lake, a young woman discovering through the death of a friend that life is all an apprenticeship, that no one learns living. But the writer has indeed learned the art of capturing in sure, sensitive words the savor of life. Such rare perfection and charm is seldom met in first novels. Miss Thomas is a graduate of Vassar college and is now a teacher in New Jersey.

And just to show that writers are born, not made, there's James Hyde Preston, who was expelled from three colleges—a typical bad boy in appearance, unruly hair, uneven teeth, and a win your heart grin. His teachers never could have foreseen that at twenty-four he'd pass up taking his Arabian Saluki (it's a dog) for a speed limit ride in order to write three thousand words a day about Anthony Wayne. In most scholarly fashion he worked from Wayne family papers in Philadelphia as preparation for "A Gentleman Rebel."

Walpole Reveals Novel Making

HUGH WALPOLE.

Hugh Walpole was yesterday's distinguished literary visitor. He lectured in the morning under the auspices of the Cordon club on "The Modern Novel," and I should like to say publicly, and without reservations, that it was a superb and exciting thing that he did in that lecture. The burthen of the talk was how the creative impulse works—one of the oldest and most fascinating themes of any creative artist. I have never before had one do it right before me, and certainly it never has been done before five hundred people, except by Mr. Walpole, taking the material and assembling it before our eyes. Others have told about how they did it, after the doing was over.

To illustrate his saying that every hour furnishes material for creative work, he reviewed his morning in Chicago, getting off the train, and feeling the moment he was in the streets of the city the zest, the life of it. [There are three vitally creative cities in America, he said, San Francisco for its past, New York for its present, and Chicago for its future.]

On his way down to the lecture he had noticed, against the background of that zest, a man with a pile of books under one arm, walking along, with an open book in the other hand, lost to the world, to the city, to life itself. And about that man [he did this on his feet, spontaneously] there suddenly was something remote, strange, almost ominous. And because the north of England was his [Walpole's] own background, he saw that man in the north of England, in a busy hamlet a strange, studious person, ominously surrounded by three women [why three he said he didn't know, except that he saw three of them] and they were hostile to this man with the books, terribly so, probably about something which he had done which harmed them, and Mr. Walpole saw the imaginary scene just as one of them was saying, "I'm done with you, I tell you, I'm done with you," two men approach the house with pale, ominous faces, and at the moment the occupants of the house were conscious of their presence, it was so still that the little river which rushed near by was the only sound. From that point on the novel would take its own way, Mr. Walpole said. He thus gave us absolutely laboratory material in the writing of fiction. It was superb.

Later, at a ten, he assured me that it was entirely spontaneous, and that the other day in Iowa he had really got a plot that way which he certainly would use, and it had all come to him just like that, on his feet.

To non-writers in the audience it was a clever trick. To writers it was tremendous.

There was a romantic halo about the lecture because it is the last that Mr. Walpole ever will give in America, he says. F. B.

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—After 16 years, the editorial alliance of George Jean Nathan and Henry L. Mencken, begun when they became editors of the Smart Set in 1914 and continued through their founding and publishing of the American Mercury, has been discontinued.

Mr. Nathan has sold his stock interest in the American Mercury to his partners, Mr. Mencken and Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., it was learned today, and has retired from editorial collaboration in the magazine.

He indicated the break had been completely amicable and declined to be interviewed other than to say, "My friend, Mencken, is the Mercury's ideal editor."

Mr. Nathan will devote himself for the present to the writing of a new book on the theater and drama.

He will continue to fulfill various magazine contracts and will not discontinue his dramatic criticism of the current stage, which will appear in the autumn in three different magazines.

The glory of this brilliant man's career was erased by a single act of superlative treachery

The arch-traitor of the American Revolution was a soldier of fortune, splendid in battle, a fine leader, a courageous man. His treason was primarily due to the belief that the patriot cause was so weak that it could be crushed at a blow. Read this book which is a full-bodied portrait of the man and his times. SHACKLES of FLESH

(Anonymous)

A remarkable suppositious life story and portrait of an American President. It reveals a man who never escaped being dominated by women, from the boyhood of a weakling to his White House triumphs.

When his father, a Southern preacher of the antebellum school, clamped upon him an orthodox religious training, the result was a prudish, austere man with an overweening sense of moral obligation. And the little girls who first aroused his sense of forbidden pleasure started a conflict that colored his whole career. $2

Too Much Sitting, Too Little Walking, Antoinette Claims

We may never become the atrophied legged race that alarmists predict possible in the course of the next 10,000 years. Even if we do most of us won't be here to worry about it. But there is no question that we are becoming more and more adverse to making those natural propellers of ours do sidewalk duty. They're jes' nachierally getting more and more in the habit of gravitatin' toward some public conveyance (or a privately owned one) when there is a call on them to get somewhere.

We hear a lot about the growing athleting tendencies in women; their increasing dvotion to sports. But aftr a certain age, except for a minor portion of the sex, women seem to be more inclined to read the good news than to help put it into wider practice. Isn't it the truth? Aren't we honestly growing into the greatest little body of sitting-downers imaginable?

We who are occupied with typewriters or with account books, or with advertising copy, or with any of the manifold branches of wage earning, sit away an unconscionable number of hours of our lives. And the more we sit the more difficult it becomes to get up between working hours and walk to the window or get a glass of water, or just get up and stretch. And after hours the theater, with more sitting hours, and again conveyances to get us to and from places of amusement appeal. It's rather a vicious circle we hem ourselves into, when you think of it.

Women whose duties are not deskbound are often just as leg idle as the rest, and with infinitely less excuse. I'm thinking of one whose increasing girth might be stopped if, instead of making her young daughters run for her glasses or for a drink of water for her or for the paper or on any of the little personal errands that occur in an ordinary life, she would rise up from her chair and go to get what she wants herself.

The lack of incentive to rise up and walk accounts not only for a great deal of the current excess poundage but as well for the obvious lack of youth in figures. One need not be noticeably overweight to gather the heavy-setness of muscles that follows unwillingness to take advantage of every opportunity to get up and move. The spring of young, vital action and movement gets rusty from disuse.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

H. P. G.: THE SECRET OF KEEPing the skin free from lines and wrinkles lies in preserving a healthy condition of the underlying blood vessels and glands. When the glands become weakened or the blood vessels clogged the skin becomes dry and wrinkles appear. Massage suggestions may be had for a stamped, addressed envelope.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

This chic design, with the straight, slender looking back, stamps its newness by the swathed treatment through the waist at the front with the circular fulness below. The becoming V-neckline is finished with a pretty bow, and the close fitting sleeves are untrimmed. A rough surfaced tweed in a diagonal weave in beige and brown, or Spanish red tones will be smart for sports wear. Flat silk crêpe, Canton crêpe, crêpe satin and jersey are chic materials.

The pattern, 3270, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 27 inch contrasting.

Parisian Blouses for Tailored Suits

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Fashionable Parisiennes are paying close attention to blouse wardrobes this season. Tailored suits are aces of Paris style, and each one can support as many blouses as a Turk can support wives. A single suit can cover most of the day time social occasions if it is properly supplied with varying blouses.

There isn't any rule about the kind of blouse to be worn, except that it must be simple and at the same time clever in cut and detail. Blouses are frequently tucked in, and they also go over the top of the smart skirt, often being long enough to qualify as tunics. They are both colored and white, and they are usually made of crêpe, satin, tussor, shantung, or a lingerie cotton material.

For sports or street, the Parisienne usually wears a blouse like the one sketched in the center. This is designed by Jean Patou and made of delft blue tussor. It goes over the top of the skirt and reaches below the hips, while a narrow sash of self-material marks the normal waistline. It is buttoned down the front with blue crystal buttons, and instead of a collar has two rounded, bias bands that partially fill in the rather low round neck décolleté. Big patch pockets are a decorative detail, and so are split cuffs.

At the top of the sketch is shown a white satin blouse from Worth, a blouse that doesn't tuck in, but that ends in a fitted band at the normal waistline. The shoulder yoke dips in a V in front and is bordered with a plaited ruffle. Below is a band, similarly dipped and also beruffled. The flat collar around the V neckline is tipped with small plaited ruffles.

At the bottom is Vionnet's newest blouse for afternoon wear. She makes it of white crêpe romain, which is a little heavier than georgette, and indicates a round shoulder yoke by three rows of fagoting. The scarf is cut in one piece with the front of the blouse, and is gracefully draped around the neck. Separate fagoted bands are twisted around the wrists of the sleeves, replacing cuffs.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

Minerals are as essential in the poultry ration as are proteins or carbohydrates, or any of the vitamins. They only will serve the functions for which nature intended them, however, and will not take the place of any of the other necessary parts of the ration.

Dr. R. W. Bethke of the Ohio agricultural experiment station says that mineral feeding may be overdone and that poultry men should use common sense. He warns them not to take stock in the claims of salesmen that minerals would take the place of such things as vitamins or meat scrap.

Although different minerals show different degrees of availability in the chemistry laboratory they do not show differences in the growth of the chicks. Eggshell formation seems to be best when the minerals are fed in the carbonate form.

Dr. Bethke seriously questions whether there is any difference in the results produced from feeding so-called "organic" or "inorganic" minerals. He says that the question of whether they are "organic" or "inorganic" depends on the individual point of view.

Too little mineral matter in the ration results in leg weakness or rickets in the growing chick which cannot be overcome by cod liver oil or sunlight. Meat scrap and milk contain large quantities of calcium and phosphorus. When these are included in the ration the supply of minerals from other sources need not be as great as when most of the ration is made up of grains. Grain and protein supplements contain enough of the essential mineral elements.

A few friends and I were having some sodas in a crowded drug store. We sat around a table talking about the topics of the day. I tilted back in my chair like a millionaire.

Crash! Down I went with the chair on top. Nearly every person in the store roared with laughter. I climbed to my feet slowly, blushing like the well known rose.

To make matters worse a near by group of young men began applauding for an encore. Others joined in and soon made the store ring out with clapping.

"The VEENDAM"

ENTERS

to BERMUDA

Bermuda's biggest summer season is just ahead! And, in order to provide the greatest comfort for the greatest number of passengers, the crack ocean liner "Veendam", will companion the Furness flagship, M. S. "Bermuda" in this glorious run.

Chartered from the Holland-America Line, and fresh from her Transatlantic and cruise service, the "Veendam" will give Bermuda vacationists the experiences of a voyage across the ocean. Even the officers and crew—including the popular Dutch chefs—will be retained, lending a real Transatlantic flavor to the two days each way.

The "Veendam" will continue in the Bermuda run from July until June of next year when she will then be replaced by the new Furness turbo-electric liner, "Empire State", now being built. This new, super-luxury liner will carry even further the Furness standards of Transatlantic comfort and service typified in the "Veendam" and the "Bermuda."

Mrs. Gladys H. Bevans Tells Daily How to Guide Children

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Sim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by Jim Moss from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and drive off some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged on the injury and pursue him. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house, where he finds Steve Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang comes to the house looking for him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has injured her brother. Jim rides on into the town, after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Pete Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest Jim for the attack on Steve Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old trail driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterwards Shear kills Dave Moss, who, he claimed, had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cattle town. Jim goes into the local gambling den and is astonished to find Ellen Lawson there. She tells him she has come to speak to her brother. Jim guides her to where Steve is sitting in a poker game with Shear, Buck Roe and others. As they reach the table the lights go out and when the room is again lighted Shear is found crumpled in his chair, dead, with Jim's knife in him. Ellen's right hand is covered with blood. She had become separated from Jim in the dark and some one had touched her. In putting out her hand for support she had touched the crumpled figure. Jim and Ellen are questioned by the sheriff, Manders, and Jim is arrested, but later released. Jim is determined to find the murderer in order to clear himself. Ellen secretly sends word by Pendleton that she would like to see Jim. Accompanied by Pendleton she goes to Pendleton's room at the Trails End. Pendleton sends for Steve Lawson. Jim learns that Dave Moss is trying to force Ellen to marry his son, Pete, and he suggests that she marry him to get out of it. Ellen is angry at the manner of the proposal and leaves with Mrs. Glen and her brother.

INSTALLMENT XXX.

THE SEALED PACKAGE.

Jim had grievously offended Ellen's pride. Helplessly he looked to Mrs. Glen for aid. She deserted him without hesitation.

"Ellen is quite right," she said decisively. "We've all been talking as though it were our business more than hers. An', come to think of it, never did hear a more impudent proposal—if that's what you call it, that a young lady you aim to marry her without a by-your-leave."

Words and voice reproved Jim, but it seemed to him that Mrs. Glen's eyes were trying to carry to him a message of a different kind.

"I'm right sorry," he said humbly. "I didn't mean to act any ways pridelent or higgity. My idea was to block Devil Dave's game. I kinda forgot Miss Ellen might not like me." Jim looked down at the hat crushed in his hands and shifted his weight from one high-heeled boot to the other. "Like I said, one of those smart alecks that butt in on other folks' affairs," Steve commented virtuously.

Without another word Ellen walked out of the room, her straight back and stiff neck eloquent of anger. Mrs. Glen followed her. Steve filed in behind them.

Jim leaned against the table and looked down gloomily at the floor. "Well, I sure put my foot in it that time," he said. "I don't reckon she'll ever speak to me again. Beats all what a plumb fool a man can make of himself when you give him rope enough."

"You was a little mite sudden, don't you reckon?"

"I was a doggoned idiot. Trouble is, my mind was all filled up with

The letter had been written a few days after the massacre.

how to save her from that Moss crowd. Well, she sure put me in my place good an' proper. I know where I'm at now."

"I like that little girl, an' hate to have her marry a Moss," the cattleman ruminated aloud. "Pete may be the best of the outfit for all I know, but he's tarred with the same brush as the old man. She's walking right straight into trouble. No two ways about that."

"An' now we can't do a thing for her," Jim mourned. "I don't s'pose any fellow trying to help a girl ever was so dumb about it before. She had to get mad at me if she had any spunk at all."

"You got to make over a girl some before you pop the question," the big cattleman told him. "An' then you got to ask her. You can't just tell her. When a fellow is courting a girl he's got to study her till he knows her like a cowman does cattle. No, sir, I can't give you a thing on the way you pulled that off."

"Worst of it is I've driven her to Pete Moss. She'll marry him now out of orneriness, just to show me where I get off."

"She's a redhead an' naturally spunky. Well, anyhow, we did our best. Don't you worry, boy. Maybe Steve is right an' Pete ain't so bad."

Jim did not find his friend's optimism catching. He could not understand the depression that rode his spirits. The thought of Ellen married to Pete Moss distressed him greatly. He did not like to think of her buoyant vitality crushed by sorrow. But his regret held an emotion more poignant, more personal than pity. There was in it the stab of a wound wholly his own. He did not want Pete or any other man to marry her. He wanted her for himself.

That conclusion came to him as an astounding surprise. It took hold of him with a force he could not comprehend. He wanted the girl. He wanted her for his own. It was imperative that he win her. To think of her in the arms of Pete Moss was intolerable. It filled him with a jealous rage.

Moreover, interwoven with the suddenly awakened possessive desire of a lover, was an emotion more generous. He loved the fine brave youth in her, the innocence with which she lifted dewy eyes to the stars and asked that dreams come true. He had not until now realized it, but he knew now it would have been a joy beyond expression to walk beside her and help to make them true.

Jim rode out to the Circle R camp on the edge of town. As a convenience to Sackville his riders were still holding the trail herds, though they had been checked, delivered and paid for by the Englishman. The Wyoming cowboys who were to take the steers to the Indian agency had not yet reached town, though they were due to arrive within a few hours.

The trail herder's mind was absorbed by more important matters while Sim Hart made his garrulous report of progress.

"Mos' every homesteader in five miles came an' offered free pasturage—wanted we should camp on his quarter section. I says to myself, says I, some guys have fixed up to josh us, an' I promised every last one to camp at his place. Well, by jings, the welcome committees sure enough meant business. There yere Kansas nesters wanted the cattle chips for winter fuel, said 'em to come down an' live in God's country."

"Ten," said Jim, absently. "You keepin' the boys out of town?"

"Much as I can. Course they're hell bent on gettin' in to blow their wages."

"It don't do any good to tell a cowboy anything," Sim complained impatiently. "I . .collect onct when we were drivin' a herd up the Pecos valley—"

Jim's heel touched the side of his bronco and the animal moved out of earshot range. Just now the young man was not in the humor to listen to reminiscences.

Young Rutledge drew up in a draw not far from camp.

In a pocket just over his heart was an oilskin package given him by his father with instructions to open if he got into a jam with the Moss gang. He was certainly in a jam with them now. They were intent on framing him for murder. They were forcing the girl he loved to marry one of them against her will. It was time he got all the help he could.

Jim ripped the oilcloth that covered the package. Wrapped in a piece of cloth were four or five papers. One was a copy of an affidavit signed by the express messenger who had been left dying after the holdup of the A. & G. train nine years before this time. The man who had shot him had escaped his man and the messenger's description of the bandit fitted Buck Moss to a T. Another of the papers was a two-column clipping from a newspaper telling the story of the robbery. The other two were letters, one a copy of one written apparently by Robert Jelks to Chandler Rutledge, the other from Jim's father to him, penned the day before the trail herds had started from the ranch.

It appeared from the context of the first letter that Robert Jelks had served with Chandler Rutledge in the Confederate army and that he had come through the lines to visit his sick mother at Lawrence, Kansas. He was in that town when the infamous Quantrell raid occurred. The letter had been written a few days after the massacre. It described the affair briefly. One paragraph had been underscored, probably by Chandler Rutledge.

"I sneaked through the gully into the field, carrying my mother in my arms. We hid in a thick blackberry tangle at the corner of a strike and rider fence. Some one came running straight for us, three fellows on horseback after him. They were firing at him as he ran. I could see the devils laughing at him when he dodged. He was a boy, and he was scared white. He reached the fence and tried to scramble over it. A bullet dropped him. They rode up, those grayback devils, and laughed at him while he begged hard for his life. One of them came up closer and shot the boy in the head. The one that did it was that Dave Moss who deserted from our company the day before we moved into Arkansas. He stood there within ten feet of me. I could swear to him on a stack of Bibles."

At the foot of the letter was a notation in the handwriting of Chandler Rutledge. "Bob Jelks was killed in a skirmish with Federals at Bee Gum, March 23, 1864."

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

The time has come, the critic cried, to find out for yourselves what the Garbo "sounds like," for "the voice the world has waited for"—I quote the ads—is on tap over at the Roosevelt.

There's no doubt at all that the sidewalks will be worn thin by the eager feet of fans, always ravenous for any news at all concerning this Swedish charmer who, as far as her personal affairs are concerned, has insisted on remaining a mystery.

It's a pleasure to be able to say that the Garbo voice is just what it should be . . . deep, vibrant, flexible . . . revealing and concealing much through inflection. It is a voice that sends a tingle up and down your spine.

This picture adaptation of the Eugene O'Neill play is truly splendid, and Miss Garbo as Anna gives a great performance. She enters the back room of the waterfront saloon, ill, hopeless, cynical and hating all men, and draws you into her mood—for you, too, feel physical weakness and experience a feeling of black despair. She has you thus one with her from start to finish. That is quite enough comment to make on her acting of the rôle unforgetably portrayed by Pauline Lord on the stage and later on the silent screen by Blanche Sweet.

George F. Marion, who appeared as Chris in the play, again is the heroine's drunken, coal barge captain father and again gives a memorable characterization. It's an experience to hear him say: "That ole davil sea! You don' know where you're goin.' I don' know where I'm goin'. Only that ole davil sea—she know. . . . !"

Marie Dressler is much and effectively present as Chris' dissipated and disheveled light o' love—and is in a fair way, at times, to steal the picture. Marie is greatly in demand by directors these days and rumor has it that she is a thorn in the side of stars and leads, because of her faculty for capturing notice—and notices.

Charles Bickford makes Matt, Anna's sailor lover, stand out. Supporting players show intelligence and the director has handled the production in a manner that defies criticism. He has caught the spirit of the author and succeeds in getting it over to you. Sets, scenery, and atmosphere, are all compellingly realistic. They have been captured by a photographer who knows how and they background and accent to perfection the tragic tale of Anna, victim of men, who has father and lover given her by "that ole davil sea."

What else is it to bring her? The story leaves you wondering—your wonder mixed with a little hope and much heartsickness.

Though a tragic thing, "Anna Christie" comes as a great relief after the epidemic of backstage and gangland films that has been visited upon us.

KIND: Gangland melodrama.
QUALITY: Fair.
ACTING: Excellent—according special mention to Messrs. Torrence, Cook and Hurst.
PHOTOGRAPHY: Satisfactory.
DIRECTION: Not bad.
STORY: Too obvious to be particularly entertaining. Suspense is thwarted by hysterias of shooting which introduce a ludicrous element that is fatal to gooseflesh. But the film is full of action and doesn't bore you because of your liking for the players. This, of course, is something.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

The Answers.

Nick Massaro, 64 West Randolph street, divisional manager.—I would. I would like an opportunity to insist upon all nations d i s c ontinuing militarism. I do not believe that is the way to obtain peace. I believe in advancing the idea that we are brothers and sisters; that it is better, and more economical, to love nations than to hate them.

Mrs. John Beye, 4244 Kenmore avenue, housewife.—Yes. I should like to hear the arguments of the delegates. I favor disarmament. If nations got into trouble they would be more likely to reach a peaceful settlement, not having an army, navy or battleships. Possesdon of war equipment makes it too easy to enter a war.

Joseph Masterson, 4206 West Grand avenue, clerk.—Who wouldn't? But I would fool them. I would make them take notice before they had time to sit up straight. I would insist on the United States having enough ships, guns, soldiers and sailors to protect us against the whole world. After getting away with that I'd go out and see London.

Mrs. William T. Elliott, 340 East Scott street, Lake Forrest, housewife.—Yes. My attitude would be that it is worse than useless to spend so much money in building battleships, on armies and the like. That money should be used for public improvements. I would like to see London.

Victor W. Gastauer, 6363 Greenwood avenue, freight rate clerk.—I would. I would build a large army and navy, battleships, cruisers and all, for the United States and let the other nations outdo us if they can. I don't believe they have the resources to compete very far with us.

Illinois Parley of Pastors Set for Springfield

"Friendships or Battleships" Theme for Talk.

The first convocation of Illinois ministers ever assembled will be the gathering on Monday of the clergy from every denomination in the state at Springfield. That was revealed yesterday at a meeting of a committee of the Federal Council of Churches in Christ in America at the Hotel La Salle.

While the convocation is called primarily for the fellowship of ministers of all denominations and the discussion of their ministerial problems, the program indicates that industrial conditions and the London naval parley also will be discussed. The assembly is being arranged by the council committee which is organizing the new Illinois Council of Churches. A special convocation committee, appointed by the Springfield chamber of commerce, is cooperating. Gov. Emmerson will give the address of welcome.

"Battleships or Friendships" will be the subject of a talk by the Rev. Sidney L. Gulick of the Federal Council of Churches, New York. Among other speakers of the three day convocation will be the Rev. Roy B. Guild, the Rev. Allen A. Stockdale, the Rev. Stephen E. Keeler, Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, the Rev. Asa J. Ferry, the Rev. Ernest Bourner Allen, and Dr. Herbert L. Willis, all of Chicago; the Rev. Albert Parker Fitch, the Rev. William R. King, the Rev. Worth M. Tippy, all of New York, and the Rev. M. Ashby Jones, St. Louis.

Strange Jungle Rites Revived in Darkness, Museum Expert Says

W. D. Hambly, leader of the recent Frederick H. Rawson-Field museum ethnological expedition to West Africa, returned to Chicago yesterday. He said several African tribes retain their old savage customs. The 10,000 mile expedition centered chiefly in the west coast colonies of Angola and Nigeria, a region which Mr. Hambly described as the "darkest part of the dark continent."

"While many natives pretend to partial civilization during the light of day," said Mr. Hambly, "they slink off in the night to practice age-old pagan rites of their secret societies. Cannibalism and human sacrifice still are practiced. Self-mutilation also is frequently resorted to as a means of beautification or insignia of social rank."

A scientific study of the Ovimbundu, a tribe about which little has been known heretofore, was the outstanding achievement of the expedition. One forbidden custom, but practiced, nevertheless, is a barbaric test of boys.

"In Angola a blacksmith is not skillful until he has killed a man," the explorer said. "The supposition is that the spirit of his victim enters a wooden idol that stands by his forge."

There is little snake worship, but much superstition about snakes, he said. Among the specimens collected by the expedition, which Hambly brought here with him, was a snake carved out of a twisted tree's branch. More than 2,000 articles were collected during the year's journey. In addition he took 5,000 feet of motion pictures, 800 still pictures, and recorded native language and music on 50 wax cylinders.

Observe the Goat, Secretary Wilbur Says, Meet World His Way

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Pushing the best students forward instead of devoting so much time to keeping backward ones in line was adopted today by Secretary Wilbur of the interior department. He spoke before the first meeting of the committee on the school child of the White House conference on child health and protection.

"In our thought for children," he said, "we long have adhered to the herd spirit of following the leader, we have been sheep. It is up to us in studying the vital problem of the child to change our tactics and follow the goats.

"Nobody ever saw a goat that did not have his front end to the world; he fights. We must establish a new and aggressive policy for the future which above all else looks to the care of the body, mind, character and morals of the best individuals among our youngsters. For it is they who are destined to lead the rest."

ENROLLMENTS FOR TRAINING CAMPS BEING MADE EARLY

Several thousand advance applications have been received for enrollment in the Citizens' Military Training camps of next summer, although the rosters are not officially opened until today. The advance applications will be filed and the rolls kept open until enrollment is completed, it was announced yesterday.

Six camps are planned for the Sixth corps area—Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin—by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker. Jefferson Barracks, near St. Louis, for southern Illinois, opens July 7. Camp Custer and Fort Brady, for Michigan, opens July 19. Fort Sheridan, for northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin, opens on July 31. Camp McCoy will be ready for field artillery candidates of the three states on July 31 and on Aug 1. Fort Snelling, near St. Paul, will receive several hundred young men from northern Wisconsin.

The largest camp will be at Fort Sheridan under command of Brig. Gen. Casper H. Conrad Jr. This camp is mostly for infantry but Fort Sheridan will be the only center for cavalry training in the corps area. Chicago will supply about half of the 2,000 candidates to be trained at Fort Sheridan and will also be represented at the field artillery camp at Fort McCoy.

James Simpson, as civilian aid to the secretary of war for the corps area, is in charge of the civilian cooperation with the military authorities, assisted by Paul Butler for Illinois, Phelps Newberry for Michigan, and Wheeler P. Bloodgood for Wisconsin.

Young men who desire to gain the benefits of the summer encampment are instructed to make early application in person or by letter to the Military Training Camps association, 6 North Michigan avenue, Chicago, or to the chairmen who have been appointed for all the counties of the three states.

Of the 900 young men from Cook county in the camp at Fort Sheridan last year one-third were recommended by their employers, one-third were students, and the remaining one-third was made up of those who had completed their schooling but had not yet started to work. There were more applicants from Chicago than could be accommodated.

Medical Tests Urged for All Workers in Holiday Camp Kitchens

Medical examinations for all workers in the kitchens of summer camps, whether private or organization camps, was advocated yesterday by Dr. Fred Clow, Wolfeboro, N. H., consulting physician for fourteen eastern camps. Such precaution, he declared at the annual meeting of the Camp Directors' association at the Edgewater Beach hotel, would weed out diphtheria and typhoid carriers, and insure better health for campers.

Dr. Clow also announced that a research conducted by the National Safety council shows that camp illness and accidents while few are more prevalent among boys than girls.

J. B. Morgan of Northwestern university and Hedley Dimock discussed the problems of mental hygiene as applied to summer camps, and the use of psychology as treatment. Both illustrated with problem cases. Sidney J. Williams of the National Safety council discussed a safety code usable in camps.

Dr. Norman E. Richardson of McCormick Theological seminary was the speaker at last night's meeting. His subject was "Recent Investigations in Character Development." Directors of more than 600 camps in America and Canada including Boy Scout, Girl Scout, Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., and camps sponsored by social agencies, are attending the four day conference.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Miss Estelle Lutz, 1400 Lake Shore drive, denies she said, "There are few opportunities for discussion; observation depends on lucky accident," as she was quoted in the Inquiring Reporter column on Feb. 25, in reply to the question, "Which stimulates you the most, books, observation or discussion."

Newton Jenkins, candidate for the Republican nomination for senator, was not a "Farmer-Labor candidate" six years ago as stated in THE TRIBUNE yesterday. At that time he also sought the Republican nomination with the support of agricultural and labor organizations.

In THE TRIBUNE for Feb. 19 it was stated that a fire at the plant of the Samoline corporation, 1300 Fletcher street, "was fed by inflammable material" stored in the factory. William R. Johnston, president, says no volatile chemical was present in the factory at time of the fire.

Country Girls Face Big City Without Fears

But Travelers' Aid Finds Plenty to Do.

It is getting to be an old fashioned story—the one about the frightened country girl arriving in the big wicked city where dangers lurk on every hand. Nor are the six railroad stations—with countless trains thundering into the city every few minutes—necessarily beset with perils.

The country maid comes to town these days with an overabundance of confidence. She is generally equipped to find her way about. The problem of "young girls traveling alone" which influenced the incorporation of the Travelers' Aid Society of Chicago in 1914, has been replaced by the immigrant, the runaway, the aged, the afflicted, and the multitudinous services sought by travelers themselves.

That is the observation of Alice R. McMaster, executive secretary of the society, as told to club presidents and representatives at a luncheon yesterday at Marshall Field & Co. The work was lauded and cooperation pledged by the women, and the service of the society described by them as one of the most important pieces of welfare work in the city.

Had it not been for the Travelers' Aid, the lives of 85,000 persons whom it aided to, from, or through Chicago last year might have been a different story. Three thousand children traveling alone might have been endangered. Two hundred runaways might not have been returned to their homes or proper guardians. The 12,000 immigrants aided last year would have had difficulty in settling in their new homes. The journey might not have been so easy for the physically or mentally handicapped.

"Our workers labor from 7 a. m. to 11 p. m. in all six stations, seven days a week, 365 days a year," Miss McMaster explained. "They work nights, Sundays, and holidays when other organizations are off duty. The 85,000 served last year was 20,000 more than the year before. It is apparent that the society must stretch to the limit its ability to meet the situation which is inevitable when the World's Fair comes in 1933."

Miss McMaster gave as examples of daily service the aid to tubercular patients from the west going home to the east to die. The 11 year old runaway girl who took the six year old runaway boy with her because he threatened to tell on her. Two unmarried mothers who came to Chicago to escape the small town's cruel gossip. The widow who found that an undertaker raised the price in shipping the body of her husband back to West Virginia, when he learned there was insurance. The hundreds upon hundreds of travelers who want to know a safe place to stay all night in Chicago, who want help in finding employment and permanent homes.

One of the problems of the National Travelers' Aid association, Miss McMaster said, is the number of young men and women going about the country soliciting magazine subscriptions. Many are no more than 16 and 17 years old, who become stranded in small towns. The national association is making a survey of the situation, and the Chicago society is interviewing all magazine agencies in this city on the subject, the speaker announced.

Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy, a member of the board, welcomed the guests, and turned the meeting over to Mrs. William Furnell, chairman of club institutes of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. Among those at the speakers' table were Mrs. Henry Hoyt Hilton, president of the Chicago Woman's club; Mrs. J. Marc Fowler, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Samuel D. Snow, president of the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs.

Russian Composer Reappears with Mr. Stock's Orchestra

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It was possibly a theory of showmanship that caused Serge Prokofieff to play his second piano concerto with the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday and then a few minutes later in the program to conduct his ballet suite, "Le Pas d'Acier." For the concerto is about as sentimental as a tractor, and "Le Pas d'Acier" translates into "The Ballet of Steel." Thus the two are closely allied in spirit.

Similarly a resemblance might be traced between "Le Pas d'Acier" and John Alden Carpenter's "Sky Scrapers," but here it is mostly in names plus a continuous, driving energy. Both Mr. Prokofieff's concerto and his ballet carry their urging rhythms to the point of relentlessness, and it is this urge that gives them their vitality, far more than their harmonic combinations, their melodic invention, or their orchestral color.

It also gives them their weakness from a musical standpoint, for the rhythms are frequently a bit heavy footed, and their reiteration sometimes begins to beg for a bit of contrast. Perhaps, too, it was a sense of showmanship that caused Mr. De Lamarter to insert Havel's "Alborada del Gracioso" as one of the numbers coming between the Prokofieff appearances. The "Alborada del Gracioso," also with a continuous rhythmic sweep, has, however, what the Prokofieff music would be the better for having, that is, a light, witty touch that avoids heavy impulses too long continued, in fact, avoids the monotony of too long a stay on any level. Incidentally, Mr. De Lamarter and the orchestra gave a gorgeous performance of it.

These considerations are more matters of treatment than of anything at the actual base of the music. As a matter of fact, Mr. Prokofieff in both his appearances this week has displayed a lot of musical invention, plenty that was interesting, some that was strange, very little that approached dullness. You may not like all of his music—it has seldom been his attitude that he asked you to—but he generally manages to keep your attention, which is the final test of music that has vitality to it.

In addition to the Ravel work Mr. De Lamarter conducted Haydn's exceedingly pleasant "Oxford" symphony and the even more pleasant "Gymnopédies" by Eric Satie, the latter in the orchestration of Debussy. To complete the record, let it be added that "Le Pas de'Acier" received its first performance in America.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Honoring the Leek.

Recently there came to me a little book calendar listing all the expositions and shows and great performances which are to take place in the British Isles during the coming year. As I started to glance through it I found at once that March 1 was listed as St. David's day, which is just the same as saying it is David the Welshman's day. In the calendar of the world it is put down that on March 1, 640, A. D., the Welsh fought the Saxons and won, whereupon they picked up the leeks from the field and adorned their hats with them. It is said that patriotic Welshmen follow this custom but I have never found anybody who saw a cap so decorated.

There is something most fascinating about the leek as a member of the onion tribe, because of the variety of names attached to it. A common name for the leek is flag onion. In some varieties the stems are so braided as to be very intresting. Sometimes the leaves are spoken of as a sheaf and again they are spoken of as a beard. In one rather ancient cook book there is a recipe for a "decoction of the beards of leeks for the stone and gravel."

It begins: "Cut off a large handful of the beards of leeks; and put them in a pot or pipkin with two quarts of water, closely covered up and to be kept simmering till the liquor is reduced to a quart; then to be poured off. Drink about the third part of a pint every morning, noon and evening." Children may have less, according to their respective ages and the violence of their disease.

Undercurrents of Thought, Feeling Influence Children

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A booklet by Mrs. Bevans on "Books to Be Read to Children or by Them" will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Any one who has been intimately with her children knows how their thoughts and feeling may exist under the surface, like an underground stream, for weeks or months or years, and then come to the surface. The more we realize the capacity for deep thought and intense feeling that our children possess, the more we shall be able to help them.

Here is an interesting letter in point:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: This time experience has set me to wondering how many parents who can afford homes for their youngsters realize just how much its own home means to a child. The experience I have just had proves more than any argument could ever do how much it really does mean to a wee person.

"We had a little house once for our little girl, who is now 5 years old, and she loved it. Because of my husband's business we had to move away. With heavy heart I hunted up what seemed to be the best we could manage in the congested part of a big city. It was a well located apartment hotel, with lake frontage, and hence fresh air and a charming play place for children. We crowded ourselves into two small rooms and proceeded to make the most of it.

"Our little girl made new and attractive friends in the building; new recreations came to light, and altogether living was quite gay. But still the urge for a home for my youngster stayed with me, and I finally found another little house that we could make our own.

"As moving day drew near I began to wonder whether my daughter would regret leaving all the pleasant things about her. I knew I was taking her to an unbuilt up community, where playmates would be scarce.

"On the trip out she was very quiet. Finally, tired and dirty, we reached our destination and entered our house, amid the confusion of piled up furniture and burly moving men. And then my daughter gave me absolute proof that ours had been the right move, for she looked up at me, her voice intense with feeling and her little face aglow with joy, and said: 'O, mommie, we're home!'"

New York, Feb. 28.—The marriage of Miss Evelyn D. Johnson of this city, daughter of David V. Johnson, to Finley Peter Dunne Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Dunne of this city and Southampton, L. I., took place yesterday afternoon. Justice Vincent S. Lippe of the City court performed the ceremony. The bride's first marriage to Donald Friede ended in divorce last year.

Mrs. John L. Adams of the Plaza gave a large luncheon in the white and gold room of the hotel yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Coolidge from Mount Kisco and William A. Rockefeller from Greenwich were among the arrivals yesterday at the Barclay.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen C. Clark, who have been spending some time at the Jekyl Island club, are returning this week-end to their home, 46 East 70th street.

Mrs. Frederic A. De Peyster and Miss Alice De Peyster will sail for Havana tomorrow morning on the Cunarder Caronia.

'Old Maid,' 'Spinster' Are Terms Rapidly Going Into Discard

BY DORIS BLAKE.

At what age do you consider a woman an old maid?

The question was put to a number of people in a verbal questionnaire form not so long ago—and 38 was the lowest number of years offered. However, the consensus was that there is no such thing as an old maid any more. But if at 40 or 45, or possibly 38, one were still unmarried she might go on unmarried to the end of her days and die with "Miss" on her tombstone. Still she need never be an old maid.

That term just does not belong in our era. Women do not fit it pictorially, any more, and the changed status of women allows for no such discrimination. The lives of older women who have foregone matrimony for one reason or another are so filled up with number of things—and for the most part useful things—that the term old maid has no place in our modern scheme.

Another thing. There is no age limit for marriage nowadays. As one person queried says: "There couldn't be any old maids today because women of an age formerly so described are constantly surprising us by marrying most eligible men."

Not so many years ago if one were not married at 25 the family nursed the foolish delusion that it was time for a requiem to be sung over the living but useless remains. That, however, was when there was no other vocation for women but marriage.

At 40 and at 45 women of today and in America, too, in spite of the American male's so-called penchant for youth, remain most attractive to men.

Marriage deferred, it is true, minimizes opportunities, as was proved by statistics not long ago offered by one of our big insurance companies. But since men are deferring it also, opportunities do not all belong to youth.

The element of danger in the deferred marriage is the settling of character that is the toll of years. And the longer woman tastes of independence, the less easy it is to adjust herself to the whims, the vagaries, the compromises that living with another exacts. However, the very fact that "old maid" and "spinster" have gone out of our modern language makes the state of single women an infinitely more useful one than was formerly supposed possible.

PALM BEACH SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 28.—Prince Michael Cantacuzene arrived yesterday evening to be house guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock.

Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever, who has been at the Everglades club for several weeks, is leaving for Chicago on Sunday.

The second annual flower show sponsored by the Palm Beach Garden club, which Mrs. McKinlock is president, opened today in the Poinciana conservatories.

Avoid Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I love insulted me in front of his friend, and doesn't seem to care. EVELYN."

I'd avoid a chap who treated me so shabbily.

Inexcusable Rudeness.

"Dear Miss Blake: Our crowd was invited to a friend's house. My friend was included, but he never offered to take me home. Since then he hasn't spoken to me. Please advise. BLONDE."

You wouldn't want him to speak to you after embarrassing you. There seems no possible excuse for such rudeness.

Two Weddings Set for Today; Will Be Simple

BY THALIA

Two weddings involving Chicagoans take place today with informality and quiet. Mrs. Florence Whiting Bowen and Rudolph Prussing of Cleveland, O., are to be married at Mrs. Bourne's apartment at 1247 North State street, with only members of the respective families and a few intimate friends present. The marriage of Miss Esther Stockton Ely to Clymer Bowen, to be solemnized in Pittsburgh, will be equally quiet.

The Rev. Gardiner McWhorter will wed Mrs. Bourne and Mr. Prussing at 4 o'clock. Miss Carol Bourne will be her mother's sole attendant and Wells F. Tobey will be best man. Only the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Whiting, and a few other relatives and friends will witness the ceremony. Mrs. Bourne is the widow of Ralph Bourne. Mr. Prussing is a former Chicagoan. After a wedding trip to Florida and California Mr. Prussing and his bride will divide their time between Cleveland and Chicago.

Mrs. Charles Burbank Crockett will be Miss Ely's matron of honor and only attendant, and William Loudon Ely, who has been sharing quarters with Mr. Bowen in an apartment on the North Michigan avenue, will be his best man. The wedding service will be read at the residence of Miss Ely's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Stockton Ely, at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. After a honeymoon in the south Mr. and Mrs. Bowen will live in Lake Forest, where they have taken the Hoyt house on Sheridan road.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Mattiebelle Hubbart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hubbart of 3100 Sheridan road, to Jack Schweizer of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Schweizer of Saint Gall, Switzerland, will take place at 4:30 this afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents. The ceremony will be attended by a small group of relatives and friends.

Miss Charlotte Hubbart will be her sister's maid of honor, and Miss Ashton Wilson of Fayetteville, N. C., is to be bridesmaid. Peter Donchian of New York will act as best man. Mr. Schweizer and his bride will spend their honeymoon in Europe and after July 1 will reside at the Westchester Country club at Rye, N. Y.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. McCulloch in Miami Beach, Fla., was a member of the Roy Keehns' party at the circus at the Bath club last night. The Warren Wrights, who have been at Palm Beach, and are now staying with the McCullochs for a few days, also were in the party, as were the McCullochs, and the Howard Chandler Christies.

Mr. and Mrs. Knowlton L. Ames Jr., who are on their way to Nassau, are to be with the Keehns for a stopover visit. Mr. McCulloch gave a breakfast for Gov. Emmerson when he arrived this week, and the guests included Laurance Armour, Charles F. Glore, Earle H. Reynolds, Edward N. Hurley, Lawrence Heyworth, John Hertz, Albert D. Lasker, and John Golden.

Mrs. Fred A. Poor gave a luncheon at the Bath club this week for Mrs. George E. Van Hagen, Mrs. G. E. Van Hagen Jr., and Mrs. F. M. Ford. After the luncheon the party cruised down the bay on the Poors' yacht, the Granada IV. Chicagoans who attended a house warming dinner dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Strom at their new ocean front residence, "Stromboli," were James Offield, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Taylor, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Griffin; Mr. and Mrs. Poor, the Keehns, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McAndrews, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Bentley, and Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Elston Jr.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Stuart Henley, daughter of Mrs. John B. Smiley, and Walter Hamlin Dupee Jr., son of Mrs. Florence Kennett Dupee of Coronado, Cal., which took place on Tuesday at "Happy Days," the residence of Mrs. Smiley at Point Loma, Cal., was one of the most important of the month's social happenings in southern California.

The residence is on lofty heights and commands an awe-inspiring view of the bay and ocean, and made an impressive background for the wedding. The bride wore deep cream color satin, with a lace and tulle veil, and the bridesmaids were in varied shades of yellow taffeta. Yellow flowers were used throughout the rooms, and the aisle down which the bridal procession walked was marked by gold posts. Miss Celeste Durand of Pasadena, a cousin of Mr. Dupee was one of the bridesmaids, and Luther Dupee, the groom's uncle, was his best man. After their wedding trip, Mr. Dupee and his bride will live in Los Angeles.

Mrs. James A. Cathcart is now circulation manager of Chicago Girl, the Y. W. C. A. monthly magazine, and Mrs. Hugh McKay has succeeded her as business manager of the periodical. The magazine has a circulation of 14,000, and Mrs. Cathcart hopes to increase that number to 20,000.

Emmerson Names Art Society Head for Museum Board

The Illinois Academy of Fine Arts has an interesting announcement in the fact that Gov. Emmerson has just appointed the president of the organization, Jules F. Cornelius, a member of the board of state museum advisers; the other members on the board are Prof. Fay Cooper Cole of Chicago university, Edward W. Payne of Springfield, Prof. Henry Baldwin Ward of the University of Illinois, and Prof. Warren G. Waterman of Northwestern university.

Mr. Cornelius will represent the manufacturing arts and the fine arts. He is filling the vacancy created by the loss of Lorado Taft, who was appointed to another state board by Gov. Emmerson.

The Chester H. Johnson galleries have sent out cards for an exhibition of recent paintings by Rudolph Weisenborn to open Monday. Clay Kelly, who has just returned from a painting tour, is having a two weeks' exhibit of his pictures in his studio at 1542 East 57th street. His work is sparkling and cheerful and deals to a great extent with the charming places of interest in the old French quarter of New Orleans.

Mr. Kelly's "The Legend of Mount Tamalpias," after being exhibited in various California schools, was purchased by Mr. Spreckles and given to the permanent collection of the Museum of Art of Golden Gate park, San Francisco.

Two interesting foreigners are in town for a few days. M. Di Segni from Rome and M. B. I. Beni from Paris, are exhibiting rare brocades, tapestries, and textiles in room 1708 of the Congress hotel. These pieces date from the 16th and 17th centuries. In the collection are a few Gothic velvet panels which have never been seen in the United States before. Both the Boston Museum of Art and the Metropolitan in New York have taken advantage of this visit and purchased some most fascinating pieces.

A late bit of news from the Chicago Art institute gives the awarding of the Business Men's Art club purchase prize of $300 to the amusing wood carving, "The Soap Box Philosopher," by Carl Hallsthammar. Only one prize remains to be given now in the current Chicago Artists' exhibit. This is the Municipal Art league prize of $500, and it is being voted on, through post card ballot, by the members of the Municipal Art league. The exhibition will continue to March 10.

INDIA TEA

SHE LEARNED about good tea from him!

They were walking together, that nippy autumn afternoon. "I'm cold and tired!" she exclaimed. "Oh, for a piping hot cup of tea!"

To a smart restaurant he led her. "Tea for two," he ordered. "And waiter, be sure it's India Tea."

"India Tea?" she echoed. "Why India Tea?"

"Because," he told her, "India Tea has a rare flavor and bouquet which I'm sure you'll like. Then . . . India Tea gives one that cheering, comfortable feeling that's so good when one is cold and tired."

And after the first sip of India Tea, she agreed that he was right!

CHICAGO HAILS GOLDEN GLOVES CHAMPIONS

DID JACK FOUL FAINTING PHIL? IT'S YOUR GUESS

Announce Title Bout

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, no matter how much his technical knockout victory over Phil Scott may be disputed, will fight Max Schmeling at the Yankee stadium, probably on June 26, in a 15 round bout to decide the world's heavyweight championship.

Frank J. Bruen, general manager of the Madison Square Garden corporation, made this announcement today. Bruen also stated that Scott had fought his last fight in this country so far as the Garden corporation is concerned.

Official paid attendance was announced today at 18,762, which with an additional 2,378 complimentary tickets, made a total of 21,140. Gross receipts were listed at $193,252.03 with a net gate of $161,716.03.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 28.—The blurry outcome of the Sharkey-Scott prize fight has aroused acrimonius feelings between the sportsmen of both parties but, due to some queer prank of sucker psychology, the customers who paid cash for their seats do not seem to consider themselves defrauded.

The Garden corporation lost money, probably, no less than $50,000, and Jack Sharkey, fighting on a straight percentage basis, lost a paper profit of perhaps $25,000. His share of the gate receipts is estimated at about $40,000 whereas, in their first optimism over the midwinter production in the loafing ground of the idle well to do and the idle n'eer do wells, the Garden probably would have agreed to pay him at least $65,000 if he had elected to demand a guarantee.

Magnolia Challenges Scott.

Lou Magnolia, the referee, and James J. Johnston, owner of the American rights of Fainting Philip, indulged in hot personal insults in several encounters today, notably on the lawn before the Dade hotel, the Garden corporation's chartered press laarette, where Magnolia, rising to ecstatic wrath, nally shouted that Scott was yellow and offered to fight him, free style, to a finish, in a neutral cellar for a side bet of $25,000.

Magnolia made an ambiguous explanation of his ruling as to the blow which put Scott down the third time in round three, when he, Magnolia, called an intermisison in the fighting. He said the punch which felled Philip just then was a low blow, but not a foul, landing on the outer side of the right leg. It was no foul, he insisted, because Johnston, before the fight had stipulated that his Philip must not be awarded the fight on any such ground.

Jimmy Was Just Talking.

I believe Mr. Johnston did say something of the kind a few days ago, but only to hearten the discouraged patrons who were holding aloof from the box offices, unwilling to buy tickets because of Phil's tendency to claim technical fouls.

The gist of the matter is that the fight was wretchedly handled by the referee. He was in a bad position at best, solicitous for the customers who would have been vexed if Scott had won on a low blow that was invisible to most of the crowd and suspicious of Scott's courage. Scott went down and refused to rise, Magnolia, instead of counting over him, momentarily seemed to rule Sharkey out for fouling. He waved him back and made no gesture of stroking off the seconds.

Jack Thought of Money.

Jack ran to his corner and let himself go in a disgraceful tantrum of rage. I heard, amid the ripe profanity of his outcries, several references to the forfeiture of his money and there-

BY DON MAXWELL.

Sixteen game hearted, hard punching boys came to the end of the tournament trail last night and there claimed their golden gloves. Eight of the boys won championships, eight were acclaimed second best. All of them now are members of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE team which on March 19 fights to send New York's champions back home in defeat.

Shortly after midnight the coronation of Chicagoland's heavyweight took place. Not until that final bout, in a tournament that has kept fans cheering for four nights in the Coliseum, did the 9,500 folks start home. Thousands of them had watched every bout since the opening battles in the twin rings Tuesday night. Their appetite for amateur boxing seemed unjaded. The dish had been appetizing.

27,000 Watch Tourney.

Twenty-seven thousand is the four night attendance figure. Gross receipts were more than $40,000. The net profits will be given by THE TRIBUNE to the Forty and Eight for the endowment of a camp at Orland Park, Ill., where convalescent ex-service men find the road to health.

This was the third Golden Gloves tournament conducted by THE TRIBUNE. It was the most successful. More boys took part; more folks watched and cheered them as they battled their way to victory or went down gamely in defeat. More money was collected for the veterans' home.

For the first time since the Golden Glove jousting began, the interest of folks throughout the five states of Chicagoland has been focused on the Coliseum for four nights. This year their boys were matching brawn and brain against Chicago lads. Youths from 60 cities and towns took part in more than 170 bouts. Preliminary tournaments were held in 17 centers.

Real Championship Bout.

Chicago should be proud of these champions and near champions. There have been great Golden Gloves teams before. They weren't the equal of the team that fights next month to whip the pride of the New York Daily News. The fighters have class. Not a boy reached the finals without having to prove himself. There's not a winner whose boxing skill or fighting heart may be questioned.

Let's start with the flyweights.

MICHIGAN BEATS PURPLE MERMEN; 7 RECORDS FALL

Seven swimming records were broken, one of them a world mark, as Michigan's powerful team upset Northwestern last night, 40 to 35, at Evanston.

The Wolverines' 160 yard relay team hung up the world mark of 1:13.6, four-tenths of a second better than the former record held jointly by Northwestern and the Chicago A. A. Two national intercollegiate standards also fell and four Big Ten records were bettered.

Relay Decides Meet.

Don Peterson of the Purple set a national intercollegiate record in the 200 yard breast stroke when he finished ahead of Goldsmith of Michigan in 2:36.4. The old mark of 2:36.5 was established by Allan Hale of the Navy in 1926.

The meet was decided in the 300 yard medley relay, the last event on the program when Bobby Walker, anchor man for Michigan, overcame a ten yard disadvantage in the last 100 yards free style to bring Michigan victory. His time was :53.

Big Ten marks fell in both relays and in the 200 yard breast stroke and 440 yard free style. Garnet Ault won all by himself in the long sprint.

Schwartz High Point Man.

Capt. Al Schwartz of Northwestern was high point man with two firsts in the 40 and 100 yard sprints. He won the latter race despite the fact that he missed his last turn and had to go back.

Michigan defeated Northwestern, 13 to 4 in water polo. Summaries:

160 YARD RELAY—Won by Michigan [Walaituis, Walker, Hosmer, Smith]. Time, 1:13.6. [Former world record of 1:14 held by Chicago A. A. and Northwestern.]

200 YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Petersen [N. U.]; Goldsmith [Mich.], second; Howlett [N. U.], third. Time, 2:36.4.

40 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Schwartz [N. U.]; Walker [Mich.], second; Walaituis [Mich.], third. Time, :18.

440 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Ault [Mich.]; Wilson [N. U.] second; Ladd [Mich.], third. Time, 5:02.6.

300 YARD MEDLEY RELAY—Won by Michigan [Valentine, backstroke; Goldsmith, breaststroke; Walker, free style]. Time, 3:11.6.

Fight Decisions

Mandell, McLarnin Battle Tonight for Third Time

Two previous fights have left the superiority of Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion of the world, and Jimmy McLarnin, welterweight title contender, open for argument, but tonight the Chicago Stadium expects to end all debates on their merits in the ten round windup of the Stadium show.

When McLarnin was campaigning as a lightweight, Mandell gave him a fifteen round trimming, but last November at the Stadium the Vancouver scrapper, who has fought in every division from the bantam up to welter, whipped the 135 pound title holder in ten rounds. They fought at 145 pounds the last time, the same weight they have agreed upon for this evening.

Boxing sharps have concluded that McLarnin again will be too strong for the Rockford sheik. Some McLarnin fans even believe Jimmy's potent right will induce Mandell to assume a horizontal pose before the ten rounds are completed.

Such predictions are "laughed off" by Mandell admirers, who point to the records which show that Sammy never has been counted out, although he has taken two techincals knockouts in his long ring career.

Mandell did not appear to be the Mandell of old when McLarnin outpointed him. His left did not carry the usual snap, he seemed slow on his feet and his defense appeared below standard. All of which indicated that Sammy might be slipping.

The semi-windup of ten rounds will bring together two contenders for Jackie Fields' welterweight crown, Young Jack Thompson, colored, and Freddie Fitzgerald, who gave the Negro a beating some time ago. Thompson claimed illness rather than Fitzgerald's punches caused his defeat, and sought the rematch. Fitzgerald was eager to accommodate him when the Stadium proposed the return number.

ROCHESTER PROS AGAIN DEFEAT BRUINS, 22 TO 15

Mohawk, N. Y., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Rochester strengthened its hold on first place in the American Basketball league here tonight by handing the Chicago Bruins their second straight defeat, 22 to 15.

A wild scoring spurt midway in the second half gave Rochester a ten point advantage, and the Bruins were never able to get back in the running. Chizmadia tossed in nine points for high scoring honors. Lineup:

Bartell, Pirates' Infielder, Asks Raise; Club Refuses

Paso Robles, Cal., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Dick Bartell, Pirate shortstop, told officials of the Pittsburgh National league club today that he would not accept a contract tendered him by the club. Vice President Sam Dreyfuss said Bartell had said, "There's no use of my going to camp unless you meet my figure." Dreyfuss added that the club had offered the shortstop the contract and that it was "up to him to sign it or leave it."

WHITE SOX DON'T NEED CAPTAIN, SO WHY NAME ONE?

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 28.—Manager Donie Bush doesn't feel any crying need for a captain on the White Sox team. So there will be no captain on the White Sox team.

In making this announcement Mr. Comiskey's fiery little skipper made it clear his policy in no way was inspired by the fact that Bill Kamm has been captain during the regimes of Cracker Schalk and Lena Blackburne save for a short interval last spring when Kamm resigned and Shires was accorded the job, only to be succeeded by Kamm.

Batting Order Only Job.

"The only legit function of a captain on a big league ball club is the simple task of taking the batting order up to the umpire-in-chief just before the game starts and I can attend to that," Donie said.

"The trouble with the captaincy idea is that a man either considers it a boresome task or he feels his responsibilities too much. In either case it interferes with the player's efficiency and is not conducive to contentment. The system also opens up the field of second guessing, the curse of all ball clubs.

"In the case of a fly ball, for instance, the captain is supposed to call out the name of the man that is to take it. The captain may not be in a position to call the play just right, yet the players involved await his shout. Here's a shifting of responsibility of the type I won't have on my club. We never had a captain in the 14 years I played on the Tigers, and the instances where too many men went after a ball were few compared to the mixups on captained teams where one player is expected to do the barking."

Bill Refused Job.

When Kamm resigned a year ago he never made a public announcement of his reasons, but some of his intimate friends said he quit because he had been asked to do a bit of police work on the club, especially in connection with card games, ice cream suppers, and such.

Bill refused to include any such duties in handling the captaincy and simply resigned. He resumed the job only after he was assured he would not be called upon to do any spying on his fellows.

Today's arrivals among the second squad players included Bill Hunnefield, a very tardy young man in all his previous years as a White Sox performer; Johnny Kerr, and Watwood.

Michigan State Normal Beats Armour, 31 to 26

Michigan state normal college quintet defeated Armour Tech yesterday on the latter's floor, 31 to 26. Armour led in the first half of the game, but in the second period baskets by Piles and Whitney threw the lead in Armour's favor. Ott, scoring four baskets, starred for the losers.

Meet Golden Glove Boys! They're Worth Knowing

BY HARLAND ROHM.

To the man in the stands the lads who fought for the Golden Gloves may be only good athletes. To one who talks to them before and after their bouts they become human characters with all the differences, human worries and joys that make them individuals instead of mere athletes. Here's a short sketch of the winners:

Grant Fortney, heavyweight Golden Gloves champion, the fighting cab driver, appears more like a smiling kid than a fighter of the cartoonists' idea of a cab driver. A big, clean cut boy, he's still his mother's baby despite six feet of height and a terrific wallop in both fists. He is the youngest of seven children. Their father died while all of them were young.

For years his mother took in washing to support those kids. And now Grant supports his mother. Fifteen years ago an older brother was killed in the boxing ring at Butte, Mont., receiving a fractured skull in a fall, which hasn't stopped Grant from fighting. He is 23 years old and has been boxing four years. He lives at 1159 East 61st street.

Everett Learned Young.

Buck Everett, Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion, first started boxing with an older brother, who now is an athletic coach at the Gary, Ind., Y. M. C. A. The brother would kneel and box with young Buck. He was born in Marion, Ill., 19 years ago and now paints numbers on steel billets at the Illinois Steel company and supports his widowed mother at 580 Delaware street, Gary, Ind. His brother Jesse is middle states heavyweight champion, which brings up a queer show they once promoted in Gary. The show simmered down by withdrawals to two three-round bouts, each with one of the Everett boys fighting. Both of them stopped their opponents in the first round.

Edwin F. Steeve, middleweight champion, is a senior in the civil engineering school at the University of Illinois and son of a clerk at Marshall Field's. He's a member of the Anubis fraternity at Illinois, where he started to box a couple of years ago and developed a sweet left hand. At Tilden High school he played in the back field of the football team, but found the engineering course at Illinois too stiff to permit him to give the time to football there. In Chicago he lives with his parents at 7248 Sangamon street.

Karl came to Chicago because the opportunities here were greater than in Sweden, and here's how he's made use of them. Knowing no English, he started to school in a kindergarten—"playing with blocks," he grins—and in eight months had progressed through the grades to the first year of junior high school. He had taken part in sports in Sweden, but never boxed until he came to America. Nor has he failed to use a magnificent body, as he proved in the ring at the Coliseum. He hasn't shaved yet and a golden fuzz covers his chin, he says, to "make the other fellow's punches slide off," and Karl adds: "Don't tell them I'm fighting for Sweden. I'm fighting for America."

Chauncey Crain is a Negro who was born at the tiny village of America, near Mounds, Ill., 19 years ago. He had fought a bit with boys and last summer hitch hiked his way 350 miles to Chicago to try his luck in a tournament held on the south side. They wouldn't let him in at first, but, needing an extra lad, they admitted him and he lost. But he made so great an impression the gym manager took him on as an office boy and he's been fighting since. He's 19 years old and has had three years in high school, and now is living at 3950 West 26th street. In 16 fights in Chicago he's won 11 by knockouts.

Benny Radio Mechanic.

Benny Goldblatt, 20 years old, 2922 West Roosevelt road, works as a mechanic in a radio factory on the west side. He was born in New York and, after trying wrestling, changed to boxing a year and a half ago and won the Central A. A. U. lightweight championship and now adds a Golden Glove to his collection.

Paul Leberto, who won the bantamweight championship, is only 18 years old. He was born in New Orleans of Italian parentage. Six years ago the family moved to Chicago and, fighting with the other boys around his home at 829 Paulina street, he learned to box and developed the punch that carried him through the Golden Gloves tournament. He's been boxing in a ring only nine months but has won forty consecutive fights.

Joey Espinosa, the flyweight champion, owes his start in boxing to his marvelous build. His employer, noticing how perfectly the little Mexican was put together, suggested boxing, and Joey tried. His Golden Glove is the answer. Joey, a member of a family of ten, two sisters and eight brothers, works as a delivery boy and clerk at a grocery and meat store. He is 18 years old and was born at Siloa, in the state of Guanajuato, Mexico, and in Chicago attended the McKinley school.

Chicago Boxers Stronger than in 1929, Scout Says

[Sports Editor, New York News.]

Congratulations to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on its Golden Gloves boxing team for 1930.

Four days of intensive peering at the athletes who will defend Chicago's honor against us in the stadium March 19 has led us to the rather depressing conclusion that the team which Chicago will throw against us this year is immeasurably superior in skill and strength to the one that lost to us at Madison Square Garden last year.

The judges were nonplussed. They called for a fourth round. The fighting was just as fast as in the first. Espinoza got the decision. Half the crowd cheered; half of them, their affections won by the little flyweight from East St. Louis, booed. It might have been the same either way.

Pace Becomes More Furious.

The march to the eight titles was proceeding at a furious pace. The onlookers became more and more excited. They stamped their feet, whistled, and shouted encouragement to their favorites. They found the battle for the 126 pound championship cause for a display of intense, unfair partisanship.

Benny Goldblatt, Chicagoan, had incurred the fans' displeasure on the opening night of the tournament. Apparently he still had it last night. For though Benny fought a good, hard battle, the cheers were all for Joseph Roman, a young steel works boy from Joliet. Joe was the smaller. That helped to gain the crowd's favor. There wasn't a lot of difference between the two but Goldblatt was the stronger, and he scored the greater number of punches. The judges gave him the decision.

Karl Is Popular Champion.

Two colored boys fought brilliantly for the lightweight title. One was Chauncey Crain of the Lawndale gym, the other was Earl Watson of Coulon's. They hit each other as though their gloves were ball bats. Watson was knocked down twice but came up each time waving a wicked right. Crain had been resting after his first fight, reading. He must have read some potent passages and absorbed their potency. He won. Both boys are a credit to the team.

Chicago has had popular Golden Gloves champions. They never have had a more popular one than Karl Ogren of the Belle Plaine A. C. Karl fought flashily in his first bout of the evening. He came back just as brilliantly to whip Ralph Carnegie, a colored boy of talent, from Benton Harbor, Mich. Karl's style calls for constant action. He never lets his opponent rest. Carnegie tried waiting for him to tire. Karl didn't.

Illini Have Champion.

A fair boxer, calm under fire, he was stirred to greatness in his battle with John Baima of the Lawndale gym team. Baima was hampered by defective sight. His left eye had been closed in the semi-finals. But he carried a terrific wallop in either hand. Steeve solved him, knocked him almost out, and won by a big margin.

The crowd was sticking. They were getting a new thrill in every round. They were glad they had stayed when Buck Everett met Joe Mendoza for the light heavyweight championship. In the first round Mendoza knocked Buck down. Buck came back like a wild man. In the second round Buck began to fight. He was remembering that championship of last year. He wanted it again. And now he tried. The fight ended with Mendoza half out of the ropes, fearful to return for the punch Buck was poised to deliver.

Final Bout Climaxes Meet.

And then the final bout. The climax of that long tournament. The battle for the heavyweight throne. No better finalists could have been chosen than Grant Fortney, the hard hitting taxicab driver of the south side, and John Solik of Kid Howard's gymnasium. They punched like a pair of Dempseys. Fortney took the lead in the first round by knocking Solik down for an eight count. Sokil got up. Fortney knocked him down again. But in the second and third rounds Solik made Fortney watch his step. They closed the battle of the Golden Gloves with a furious exchange.

The team trophy was won by the Lawndale gymnasium, with the Majestic Radio Athletic club, the Gary team and the Coulon gymnasium tied for second honors.

Adam Smith, Rockford, Ill., won by default from Peter Kowal [Cicero, Ill.] for third place.

Competent Corps of Officials Makes Tourney Success

THE TRIBUNE owes the success of the Golden Gloves tournament to the work of several score of men who have served faithfully and efficiently as officials. They did everything they were asked to do. They ran the events off on schedule, kept the twin rings constantly in action, and gave every entry a fair break.

Among the officials who coöperated with THE TRIBUNE in making the third annual Golden Gloves tournament a success were:

BOWMAN WINS AT BERMUDA.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Herbert L. Bowman gained permanent possession of the championship cup when he defeated Bruce Barnes of Austin, Tex., in the final round of men's singles in the Bermuda tennis championship today, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

CHICAGO BOYS BEAT COUNTRY COUSINS, 5 TO 3

BY FRENCH LANE.

The amateur fistic troops from Chicagoland fought nobly in THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournament, they made a game and brilliant stand, but when the smoke of battle had cleared at the Coliseum early this morning it was discovered the boys from Chicago had given their country cousins a licking.

Only three championships landed outside of Chicago, and Buck Everett, who won one of them; only had to take a hop, step and a jump to get from his doorstep in Gary, Ind., to the heart of the loop.

Illini Senior Wins.

Another invader to win was Ed Steeve, University of Illinois senior, who came into the Chicago fistic turmoil as a mamber of the Danville team. And the third lad to come to Chicago and carry home a Golden Glove was Joe Sspinoza, and he, too, is a next door neighbor from down in Chicago Heights. He fought in the south side trials.

From what section of Chicagoland did the greatest fighters hail?

Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan boys reached the championship round. The last of the Wisconsin and Iowa representatives fell by the wayside in the quarter finals on Thursday night.

The results of the Golden Gloves struggles indicate that Indiana's best fighting lads come from around Fort Wayne, from Gary, and from down in the Purdue university territory at Lafayette.

Mining District Represented.

Southern Illinois—from the vicinity of Springfield and Champaign to the mining territory of Egypt—sent the best boys from Illinois into the fistic carnival, except for that territory right around Chicago, where most of the titles landed.

Northern and central Michigan boxers did not get beyond the preliminary rounds, but some real fighting boys from over along the shore lines of Lake Michigan in the Benton Harbor district were on hand and they bowed only to the champions in the final struggles.

Amateur boxing is comparatively a new sport in the tall corn country. Only one tournament was held in Iowa, at Davenport. Plenty of strong boys from the Iowa farms took part, but most of them were novices and Davenport came to the Chicago tournament with a team made up almost entirely of boys who reside across the Mississippi river in Illinois.

Wisconsin's showing was the weakest of any of the central states. Vicious fighting men were reported in the fistic regions of Milwaukee, Oshkosh, and other cities. But they came to Chicago and were conquered.

The ranking player defeated Miss Marion Bennett of New Britain, Conn., 4 and 2, stroking her way around the 18 holes in 38—35—73, one stroke under her own previous record of 74. It equals par for the course.

The other finalist is Mrs. Stewart B. Hanley of Detroit, who defeated Miss Ruth Replogle of Oklahoma City, 6 and 5.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 28.—Friend Don—Well, Don, while the experts are discussing whether Phil Scott should have been awarded that fight last night on a foul, I want to inform you what happened to me. As I told you, I had parked the family bus about a half mile from the arena. You see Mrs. Wake went to Cuba and won't be back until Monday so she doesn't need the car and that's the reason I have it.

Now, Don, I remembered where I had left it which is more than several gents did who were looking around for their transportation after the fight, but they, of course, had something—you know what I mean. I hadn't figured I would be so late but I wanted to stay on the job lest Scott die of fright or from where Sharkey hit him, and so the owner of the parking space had gone to bed and my bus was in his back yard.

As I wandered toward it, I heard an angry growl and a dog came rushing toward me in the darkness. Honestly, he was as big around as a rhinoceros and as tall as a giraffe. I said "nice doggie, nice doggie," but still he kept coming so then I had to go some quick thinking like I did when those card sharpers had me on the train. So I said real quick like, "Nice doggie, your Florida winter climate is very much better than California's." Well, sir, that dog stopped growling and he almost purred as he came over and licked my hand.

Now I don't care so much for dogs licking my hand, but I was in no position for an argument. So now you know what to say, Don, when strange dogs attack you at night down here.

I was wondering this morning whether you would rather I went around the fight beat or played golf, and I decided you'd rather I looked over some of the golf courses. So Jack Douglass and I motored up to Fort Lauderdale, where Kenny Mitchell, Bob Cunningham, Joe Roseman, and an Evanston syndicate have the course.

It looked like rain, in fact it had rained, so I didn't want to pay the greens fee if we didn't play, because I did not see how I could charge a greens fee on my expense account even as "good will" if we didn't play, so the starter said if we didn't finish nine holes, he'd give us a rain check. Well, Don, do you know we got in only 8½ holes and we picked up as we were ready to approach for the ninth hole and really it was sprinkling a bit. So that's why I'll have to return here Sunday.

This course, Don, is immeasurably improved since I played there last year. But there's something funny about the greens fee, and it's only $1.50 for both you and your wife. But it seems, to get this $1.50 rate you have to produce evidence of your marriage certificate, and I spoke to Joe Roseman about it and he said it was surprising how little they lost. Now, Don, if you are going, cut this out, because THE TRIBUNE is a family newspaper, you're not thinking the same thing I'm thinking of and anyway this was Fort Lauderdale, not Miami Beach. Regards to the gang.—Harvey T. Woodruff.

NORWAY SKATE QUEEN PERFORMS BEFORE 8,000

Eddie Schroeder of the Walton Arrow Athletic club won the men's senior competitive event. Ray Wandra, representing the Amphion Athletic club, was second. Faith Schoen of the Henry Athletic association defeated Elizabeth Dubois of the Majestic, to win the senior girls' event.

Bloomington Club Signs Shortstop and Catcher

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—John Jenkins of Tina, Mo., shortstop with Memphis in the Southern league for three years and last season with the Springfield Three I entry, today signed a Bloomington contract. W. C. Sprengelmeyer of Dubuque, Ia., catcher, also signed with the Bloomers.

As Golf Stories Go This Is Just About Best Ever

Mr. Cronland has developed his driving to a high point of accuracy this winter on his indoor course. Practicing yesterday on the course, Cronland placed a match in the bull's-eye of the canvas ball stopper. He drove the ball hard from the tee. The sphere sailed true, struck and ignited the match and the canvas flared.

fore judged that Magnolia at least challenged the legality of the punch, for it had been expressly agreed that in case of a foul, the offending gladiator's purse should be held up, subject to confiscation at the local prize fight commission's discretion.

When Scott finally resigned in a loose attitude on the ropes, Magnolia again was guilty of erratic administration for he should either have stopped the fight to spare Philip unnecessary punishment in his defenseless posture or permitted Sharkey to continue punching. Instead, he sent Sharkey to his corner again and conferred with Scott at some length as Sharkey indulged in further rages, before turning, at last to raise Jack's hand.

The gist of professional opinion is that Scott is a quitter, however, and for that reason he is held in contempt and denied a liberal interpretation of his rights under the rules.

Scott Needs Risko's Courage.

With Risko's grit Scott would have won the fight easily. Sharkey's furious rushes of the first two rounds were calmly stifled by Scott's superb defensive boxing and the picture was much the same as that revealed on the night when Jack Dempsey first rushed at Gene Tunney and found that here was a man who could match his strength and meet his charges unflustered.

I am puzzled about the meaning of a remark which Sharkey shot at Al Lacey, his trainer, as he reached the dressing room.

St. James M. E. Quintet Beats Central Y, 20 to 19

The undefeated St. James M. E. 115 pound quintet rallied to take a 20 to 19 battle from the Central Y. M. C. A. High lights on the latter's floor yesterday. St. James came back after their heavier opponents had taken a 12 to 6 lead at half time. Capt. Victor Jones, who scored seven points, dropped in the winning basket in the last minute of play.

Lane Heavies Victors, 25-23; Lights Win in Overtime, 22-21

Lane heavies and lights scored semi-final victories over Bowen at Loyola gym last night in one of the best double headers of the Chicago season. The Tech heavies outdistanced Roosevelt's conquerors, 25 to 23, while the lights went into an overtime to trim the Bowen ponies, 22 to 21.

In the heavyweight game, Lane was leading, 24 to 18, when Bowen staged its rally. A basket and a free throw by Basile followed by Bill Haarlow's basket made it 24 to 23. Carl Valcek, the Tech baseball star, then made good on a free throw to bring his team victory.

Bowen lights lagged by seven points in the last period but Weinberg contributed three baskets, one of them in the last seconds of play, to tie the score, at 21 all. Norman Weiss of Lane connected on a foul toss in the extra period for the one point margin.

CUBS' COMPLETE CAST STAGES 1ST FULL REHEARSAL

Plan Strenuous Workout for Today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 28.—Operations were conducted on a big scale at the Cubs training lot this afternoon. Following a hilarious arrival of the main squad on the noon steamer, thirty-one athletes leaped into uniforms. The pitchers, their arms hardened by a week of labor, proceeded to show the famous hitters of the outfit just how badly a batting vision can become blurred by several months of watching nothing more than a knife and fork.

The citizenry of the island to the last man and woman, especially the latter, turned out to welcome the main squad, but the party developed mainly into a reception for Under Secretary Dan Cahill, chaperon of the athletes.

Weather Helps Out.

So as not to be out of step on one of the island's few big days of the year, the weather contributed on a bigger and better scale than any day since the battery men arrived a week ago.

The workout today was of about two hours' duration and was sufficiently diversified to let everybody have a little of every kind of work. There was throwing for the pitchers and hitting attempts and mild fielding efforts for the late arrivals. After hitting a few in rather feeble fashion, Hack Wilson went to the outfield to start his defensive labors. He thought the bright sun was a scheme to embarrass him and was doubly convinced when a practical joker handed him a large pair of sun goggles. All that Hack said about this was "I should have had them last October at Philadelphia."

Busy Day Today.

Tomorrow the camp will become a place of much labor without play. In the morning everybody will be treated to a couple hours. After the noon repast, there will be two more hours of something to do. This will be continued for several days. About Thursday the employés will be sufficiently advanced for a regulation ball game. They'll do this again on Friday. These camp tilts will be devised with the idea of polishing up the boys for the games at Los Angeles next week-end. Principal interest about the camp is McCarthy's plan for batting order. So far this item is the manager's secret. He claims he doesn't know how it will work out, but he probably is kidding. John Schulte, the catcher who spent twenty-four hours in the hospital as the result of having his right eyebrow laid open in a collision with Lautenschlager, was back in uniform today. He was sporting a large amount of adhesive tape over the wound. Pitcher Werneke, who was hit between the eyes by a loose bat, was similarly decorated. Outside of this pair Trainer Louhaw has no problems on his mind.

NOTRE DAME FIVE BEATS BUTLER IN HOME FINAL, 29-16

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Notre Dame closed its home basketball season tonight with a 29 to 16 victory over Butler. This was the second win of the year over the Bulldogs and the thirteenth for the season.

The first half was slow, but Notre Dame piled up points consistently to hold a 16 to 7 lead at the half. Butler staged a rally in the second period, netting one field goal and seven free throws, and made the score 19 to 14 at one time. Notre Dame's two stellar senior guards, Smith and Capt. Donovan, playing their last game before a home crowd, held the Indianapolis team at bay.

The Irish have one more game at Philadelphia with the University of Pennsylvania next week. Lineup:

Ohio at Indiana.
Michigan at Illinois.

Four Western conference basketball games tonight bring the Big Ten race to the final week. But tonight's games should bring but few changes in the standing.

Among the four games tonight is the second of the intra-city contests between Northwestern and Chicago at Patten gym. While Northwestern won the first game at Chicago, the Maroons have improved greatly since then, the the result is far less of a cinch than might be expected.

Purple Changes Lineup.

The Purple Wildcats, who have been playing in and out basketball all season, probably will start a lineup of Bergherm at center, Walter and Mundy at forwards, and Reil and Lockhart at guards, this combination seeming to have worked better in the last few games than any of the earlier lineups.

Chicago has little choice with its small squad further reduced by injuries, and doubtless will play its usual lineup. Hal Boesel at center, Paul Stephenson and Harry Changnon at forwards, and Harry Ashley and Marshall Fish at guards.

Purdue Has Easy Game.

Purdue should have little difficulty in keeping up its undefeated status in playing Minnesota on the Boilermakers home floor, and Indiana figures to win another game from Ohio state.

Probably the best contest of the four will be between Illinois and Michigan at Champaign. Two of the best defensive teams in the conference, they should keep each other from scoring much and the result should be close.

SUMMERFIELD, EX-MANAGER OF BOXERS, IS DEAD

INDIANA TRACK TEAM DEFEATS CHICAGO, 57-29

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Three field house records were shattered here tonight when Indiana university track men won a Western conference indoor meet from the University of Chicago, 57 to 29.

Clapham, of Indiana, lowered his own time in the mile run. Leas crashed his previous mark in the two mile run. Weaver, of Chicago, set a new Indiana field house record in the shot put, the previous mark having been attained by Brill of Notre Dame. Summaries:

ONE MILE RUN—Won by Clapham [I.]; Letts [C.], second; Brocksmith [I.], third. Time, 4:22.8.

60 YARD DASH—Won by East [C.]; Root [C.], second; Koenig [I.], third. Time, :06.4.

SHOT PUT—Won by Weaver [T.]; Todd [I.], second; Trude [C.], third. Distance, 47½ feet.

70 YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Hatfield [I.]; Hayden [C.], second; Perkins [I.], third. Time, :09.

440 YARD RUN—Won by Streicher [I.]; Pierre [I.], second; Scholz [C.], third. Time, :51.7.

MILE RELAY—Won by Indiana [Banks, Streicher, Brown and Smock]. Time, 3:08.

Pittsburgh Plays Here Tomorrow.

Games Tonight

Boston at Ottawa.
Americans at Montreal.
Rangers at Toronto.
Les Canadiens at Pittsburgh.

As usual on a Saturday night most of the games in the National Hockey league involve teams in the Canadian division. So close are the first three teams that tonight's results could bring them within half a game of each other.

That possibility is unlikely, however, as Les Cadaniens expect little difficulty from Pittsburgh and Ottawa should lose to Boston, which is on another winning streak. Les Canadiens, by winning, can tie the Montreal Maroons for first place.

The Blackhawks' chief interest in the game is the Rangers' clash with Toronto, inasmuch as the Rangers and Hawks are still tied for second placed in the American division. The game is a tossup and probably will do no more than set the stage for a terrific battle between the Hawks and Rangers at the Stadium next Tuesday night. The Hawks, by the way, play Pittsburgh here tomororw night.

PANTALEO WINS TEN ROUND BOUT AT MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Paul Pantaleo, Chicago boxer, tonight won a ten round decision over Young Bob Fitzsimmons of Newark, N. J., son of the one-time champion. Fits weighed 191½ pounds, 11½ more than Pantaleo.

CLOCK COMPANY PAYS $250,000 FOR NEW PLANT

Factory Located at 2911 North Western Avenue.

BY AL CHASE.

The four story and basement factory building, together with approximately 52,000 square feet of ground, at 2911 North Western avenue, has been sold by Samuel, Henry and Herman Rusnak, furniture dealers, to the Hammond Clock company, manufacturers of electric clocks, for a reported $250,000.

The ground fronts 200 feet on Western avenue and extends back to the north branch of the Chicago river, the average depth being 258 feet. Erected in 1924, the factory building is thoroughly modern. It is heated by oil burning boilers and is designed to furnish a maximum of daylight. It contains 80,000 square feet of floor area.

Room for Expansion.

In buying the property the Hammond Clock company, now located at 4115 East Ravenswood avenue, had an eye to the possibilities for future expansion. Vacant ground about the plant will permit the erection of an addition to contain 150,000 square feet of floor space.

Laurens Hammond and F. H. Redmond, president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the clock company, acted for the buyer and Samuel Rusnak represented the seller. N. Ray Miller of Chandler & Montague was broker. Clarence H. Ross and D'Ancona & Pflaum were attorneys.

Professor Buys House.

Prof. William R. Slaughter, an instructor in journalism at Northwestern university, has purchased the residence at 1416 Church street, Evanston, from Paul M. Ohnemus for an undisclosed consideration. The house is two stories high, contains eight rooms, and was designed by Frank Lloyd Wright. Frank C. Betts of the E. E. Stults Realty company and Lascelles & Webster were brokers.

Samuel W. Law, jeweler, has leased from the Triangle Restaurant company the store at 330 South State street for an undisclosed term of years. The lease calls for a guaranteed annual rental of $9,000 plus a percentage of the receipts. L. L. Sachs & Co. were brokers for all parties.

The twenty-seven flat building at the northeast corner of Broadway and Winona street, lot 39½x235 feet, has been sold by Allen Henry Houseworth to Harold M. Ross.

Emil J. Benzing, A. T. & T. Superintendent, Succumbs

Emil J. Benzing, 48 years old, 6442 North Leavitt street, construction superintendent of the American Telegraph & Telephone company, died yesteday at San Antonio, Tex., after a long illness. He had gone to San Antonio for his health last autumn. Mr. Benzing is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bess Bryan Benzing, and one son, John T. Benzing. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the chapel at 4900 Broadway.

Thomas I. Gasson, Catholic Educator, Is Dead at 71

MONTREAL, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Rev. Thomas I. Gasson, former rector of Boston college and dean of studies and lecturer of ethics and philosophy at Loyola college, Montreal, died here last night. He was 71 years of age. He had spent more than 50 years in educational work of the Catholic church in America.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: S'prise!

Savine Concert Is a Big Treat to Elmer's Ear

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The program of Alexandre Savine compositions played last night from 8:30 to 9 by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, with the composer himself conducting, may not have won the lovers of popular music to the extent that it did this reviewer. But for those who had desired such a concert it was a treat not often encountered in week day programs. The modernism and the rushing stir of "Carnival Capriccio" may have captured many ears. "Barcarole" is of Asiatic coloring, and apparently of full symphony orchestra intricacy. "Meditation" is a gentle lyric piece which should, with greater familiarity, achieve general popularity.

Pat Barnes' picture of Ethelbert Nevin, the composer, over W-G-N from 9 to 9:30 o'clock, was surprisingly vivid and brought to light many unfamiliar sidelights of the well known creator of "The Rosary," "Mighty Lak' a Rose," and other short pieces.

There were two especially attractive numbers in the Victor Herbert orchestral program over WLS from 8 to 8:30 o'clock: an alto clarinet solo of "Kiss Me Again" and an English horn solo of "Indian Summer."

Rites to Be Held Monday for Wife of Ald. Jackson

Funeral services for Mrs. Auriul Jackson, wife of Ald. R. R. Jackson, will be held at 9:30 a. m. Monday at St. Elizabeth's Negro Roman Catholic church at 41st street and Wabash avenue. Mrs. Jackson died early yesterday in her home, 3556 South Park way, at the age of 60. Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, George.

EMIL BOLLINGER, 65 years old, 236 East Rose terrace, Lake Forest, died yesterday at the Belmont hospital. Mr. Bollinger had been city forester of Lake Forest for twelve years and a member of the board of education for 23 years. For the last two years he had represented Shields township on the Lake county board of supervisors. He is survived by his widow and two daughters.

Royalty Attends Funeral of Viennese Hotel Owner

VIENNA, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Frau Anna Sacher, who in her lifetime was proprietor of a widely known Vienna hotel, was buried today. Numerous members of former royalty, scions of the most ancient nobility, thousands of members of society and prominent actors attended the last rites.

DR. F. B. KAYE, N. U. PROFESSOR, DIES IN BOSTON

Dr. Frederick Benjamin Kaye, professor of English at Northwestern university, died on Thursday at the Peter Bent Brigham hospital in Boston after an operation. Dr. Kaye had been ill for several months. He went to Boston for treatment ten days ago. Although only 37 years old, he was internationally distinguished as an authority on 18th century English literature. He had been a member of the faculty at Northwestern since his graduation at Yale university in 1917. He was unmarried and lived at 1631 Hinman avenue, Evanston. Funeral services will be held in New York on Sunday.

No Funeral Service for Maj. Putnam; Cremate Body

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—There were no funeral services for Maj. George Haven Putnam, dean of American publishers, who died yesterday. With only the members of his immediate family present his body was cremated without ceremony today and the ashes taken to his estate at Westhampton, L. I., for disposal. The arrangements were the wish of Maj. Putnam. The late head of G. P. Putnam's Sons, a civil war veteran, and champion of Anglo-American amity, never was active in religious affairs, although a member of an established church.

Rev. Edmund P. Kelley, Glenwood Pastor, Dies

The Rev. Edmund P. Kelley, pastor of St. John's parish at Glenwood, died yesterday at the Mercy hospital after an illness of six months. Father Kelley had been the pastor of St. John's for the last six years and was previously assistant pastor of the Visitation church at Garfield boulevard and Peoria street. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Weaver. He was a cousin of Deputy Police Commissioner John Alcock. Funeral services will be held at the Visitation church at 10:30 a. m. Monday, with burial at Mount Carmel cemetery.

Alice Rautenberg, Actress, Will Be Buried Today

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow for Mrs. Alice Rautenberg, 58 years old, nationally known German actress, who died here at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Engel, 208 Lexington boulevard. Mrs. Rautenberg was a member of the old Shubert Stock company and played in German theaters of Chicago, New York, St. Louis and Cincinnati. She was a native of Germany and came to Milwaukee when a child.

Deaths of a Day

VANDALIA, ILL.—(AP)—A. M. Thiebeaudeau, 58, oil contractor of Tulsa, Okla., was stricken while eating lunch. He was en route to Toledo, O., accompanied by his son, Harold, and his son's chum, Alph Oner of Toledo.

BRUSH, Colo.—(AP)—George Kindel, former congressman from the First Colorado district, died from injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

MRS. RICHEY, WIFE OF HOOVER SECRETARY, DIES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Lawrence Richey, wife of one of President Hoover's secretaries, died here late today after an illness of several days. Her death was attributed to septic poisoning coupled with meningitis.

Mrs. Richey became ill shortly after her return to Washington several days ago from Long Key, Fla., where she had accompanied her husband on President Hoover's fishing trip. She was removed to the hospital a day or so later.

President and Mrs. Hoover will attend the funeral services, which will be held tomorrow afternoon in St. Paul's chapel with the Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church officiating.

Mrs. Richey, a native of California, married Mr. Richey in Chicago about 16 years ago. There are no children. A brother, Morton R. Hunter, is en route from his home in Milwaukee, Wis., and will arrive tomorrow.

Dr. W. L. Dayton, Nebraska Eye Specialist, Is Dead

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Dr. W. L. Dayton, 73, who served six years as treasurer of the American Academy of Ophthalmology, and in 1917 was its president, died at a hospital here early today after a long illness. A resident of Lincoln for 40 years and long prominent in business as well as professional circles here, he was a pioneer eye, ear, nose and throat specialist. After graduating from Northwestern university in 1881 and taking postgraduate work in New York, he started to practice in Englewood, Ill., but soon moved to Lincoln.

Canadian General Dies at 79; Served in World War

OTTAWA, Ont. Feb. 28.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. W. E. Hodgkins, 79, one of Canada's most eminent military men, died last night at his home here after a short illness. His military service extended over more than half a century. His services were valuable to Canada when the world war broke out in 1914.

E. P. GROSVENOR, PROSECUTOR OF TRUSTS, IS DEAD

New York, Feb. 28.—Edwin P. Grosvenor, an authority on trust laws and special assistant to the United States attorney general in several anti-trust prosecutions, died at his home today. He had been ill only a short time.

Mr. Grosvenor's first case for the government was the investigation and prosecution of the tobacco trust in 1907 and the subsequent proceedings and criminal convictions against the Kentucky "night riders."

Mr. Grosvenor, who was 54, was born in Constantinople, where his father, Dr. Edwin A. Grosvenor, was professor of history at Robert college. He was a graduate of Amherst college and the Columbia university law school. He was a cousin of William Howard Taft.

He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Thelma Cudlipp Grosvenor; two daughters, Miss Anne Somerville Grosvenor and Miss Louise Taft Grosvenor, and his twin brother, Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic society.

ALL-BRAN RELIEVES COMMON AILMENT

Millions Already Know Its Effectiveness

One of the most common ailments in the world is constipation. It is also one of the most dangerous diseases known to mankind. It is the source of many complaints which strip life of its pleasure.

Many people have constipation in a milder form and do not know it. Perhaps they are suffering with headaches, backaches, indigestion, bad breath, and general physical depression. These are often symptoms.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or money will be refunded.

The most frequent cause of constipation is lack of roughage in food. Modern, soft foods seldom contain enough.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains roughage. It is the original ALL-BRAN, introduced by Kellogg for relieving millions of people from the scourge of constipation and slavery to habit-forming pills and drugs. It also adds needed iron to the blood.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream. Over cereals and fruits. In soups. In cooked foods. Your grocer has ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

STORM IN GRAIN MARTS HARDLY FELT BY FARMER

His Equipment, Mail Purchases Soar.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It would appear that speculators, rather than the farmer who sold his grain last fall at higher prices then prevailing, have thus far borne the brunt of all the storm and strife in the grain markets.

Thus far, at least, there is no evidence that the purchasing power of agriculturists has been lessened. And neither was it much affected by the stock market collapse last November. Two indices of farmer purchasing power made their appearance yesterday. A compilation of total sales billed by 61 farm equipment companies in January showed an increase of 30.3 per cent over January, 1929. Domestic sales of these concerns were 14 per cent above a year ago, while export sales of 34 of the companies increased 62.8 per cent.

Furthermore, sales showed an unusual seasonal increase. Total billings made a gain of 21.1 per cent over December, with domestic sales rising 36 per cent and exports up 2 per cent. Sales of tractors, threshers, and combines were 57.2 per cent above a year ago, barn equipment rose 30.7 per cent, and other farm equipment gained 9.1 per cent.

Sears-Roebuck Sales Rise.

Larger sales than a year ago also were reported by Sears-Roebuck & Co., mail order and chain store concern. And in view of some slackening and unemployment in the industrial centers, it is held entirely likely the agricultural communities produced the gain.

Sales for the four weeks ended Feb. 24, so recorded because Sears-Roebuck has adopted a thirteen months year, totaled $27,624,978, a gain of $848,478, or 12 per cent, over the corresponding period of 1929. Sales from Jan. 2 to Feb. 26, or the two periods this year, totaled $54,445,143, a gain of $1,167,635, or 6.2 per cent, over the same period last year.

Stockholders of Montgomery Ward and company heard the present situation explained by President George B. Everitt at the annual meeting yesterday. "You who are in touch with current business conditions know from your own experience that they are less favorable than we would like to see them," Mr. Everitt said. "We are attempting to adjust our program in all departments to a level that will meet the reduced consumer requirements. We are doing what we can to manage the company intelligently and we are hopeful that the results will show progress. With a reasonable volume of business this year, profits should show considerable improvement over 1929."

The leather industry continued in the doldrums last year, with inventory losses resulting from declining prices, according to the annual report of the National Leather company. However, leather inventories now are close to the lowest point on record, according to President W. R. Fisher, and this year the shoe industry is expected to produce a good average volume of shoes.

The report shows a loss of $1,940,262 for the year ended Dec. 27, 1929, bringing the company's total bookkeeping deficit to $4,385,879 and reducing the book value of the common stock to $4.15 a share, compared with $10 par value. The balance sheet shows current assets of $10,620,709 and current liabilities of $1,299,319.

The William Wrigley Jr. company had a good year and expects sales to continue satisfactory, according to President Philip K. Wrigley. The annual report shows net profit for 1929 of $11,608,708, equivalent to $5.80 a share on 1,999,974 shares of stock. Net profit for 1928 was $11,068,617, or $6.14 a share on 1,800,000 shares. The company paid a 5 per cent stock dividend last year in addition to cash dividends. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1929, shows current assets of $38,516,113, current liabilities of $4,200,526, and surplus of $28,790,195.

The Richfield Oil Company of California reported net income for 1929 at $8,554,494, equivalent to $4.04 a share on 1,947,241 shares of stock, compared with $7,178,119, or $3.80 a share, in 1928. Net sales last year totaled $93,430,834, compared with $52,021,192 in 1928, according to President C. M. Fuller.

National Biscuit Applies for Listing of 6,000,000 Shares

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—In anticipation of the forthcoming two and one-half for one split-up of common stock and reduction of par value from $25 to $10 a share, National Biscuit company has applied to the stock exchange for listing of 6,000,000 shares. Stockholders will vote on the plan March 12 and also on increasing authorized stock from 6,000,000 to 12,000,000 shares.

Amer. Coml. Alcohol Corp. Earns $1,395,716 for 1929

American Commercial Alcohol corporation and subsidiaries in the year ended Dec. 31 showed a net profit of $1,395,716 after depreciation, interest, federal taxes, equal to $3.22 a share on 389,128 shares outstanding at the end of the year. In the preceding year the company reported for the eight month period from April 25 to Dec. 31 a net profit of $710,861.

Jan. Decrease of 27.6% Reported in Rail Revenues

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The first 67 railroads reporting January operating revenues showed net operating income aggregating $49,261,000, compared with $68,068,000 in January, 1929, a decrease of 27.6 per cent. The December net of the same carriers amounted to $64,064,000.

ANNOUNCE NATIONAL DAIRY PRODUCTS BUYS KRAFT-PHENIX CHEESE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—The National Dairy Products corporation announced today that arrangement had been completed for the purchase of the assets of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation.

National Dairy has offered the equivalent of about $25 par value of 5½ per cent debentures, plus one-half share of National Dairy stock, for each share of Kraft-Phenix. National Dairy will give $33,175,000 in debentures, 663,500 shares of stock, and $6,400,000 in cash for the entire purchase.

The purchase will carry with it control of the Southern Dairies corporation, which is owned by Kraft. This will give National Dairy representation over considerable territory in the south where it is not now operating.

Kraft-Phenix manufactures and distributes cheese and other dairy products through what is practically a nationwide organization and in addition does an extensive foreign business. Its principal factories and warehouses are located in Wisconsin, New York, Illinois, Georgia, Alabama, California, and in Canada, England, Holland, Cuba and Australia.

National Dairy is a holding company with widespread interests in milk and dairy products and manufacture and distribution of ice cream. Its annual sales volume is now estimated at about $300,000,000, and Kraft-Phenix's at about $85,000,000.

CHICAGO AD FIRM WINS $1,000 PRIZE

The Harvard advertising award of $1,000 for an advertisement "effective in the use of text" was presented last night to Erwin, Wasey & Co., Ltd., 230 North Michigan avenue, advertising agency, at a dinner of the jury of awards at Boston. The entry of the Chicago agency, the first here to win the Harvard award, was a full page advertisement, without illustration, urging American business to turn from the stock market crash and resume "business as usual."

The award of $2,000 for an institutional advertising campaign "conspicuous for the excellence of its planning and execution" was presented to the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. The Westinghouse campaign told of the service electricity is rendering throughout the world. The Harvard awards were established in 1923 by the late Edward W. Bok to stimulate excellence in advertising.

Form $30,000,000 Merger in Vetrified Products Field

Cleveland, O., Feb. 28.—(AP)—A $30,000,000 merger of manufacturers of vitrified products such as sewer pipe, power line conduits, and drains was announced here today by A. B. Andrews, of Pittsburgh, industrial engineer. Twenty-four companies are involved. The new concern will be known as the Ceramic and Steel Products company and will be incorporated in Delaware in a few days, Andrews said.

BUSINESS PERSONALS

Stockholders of the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend railroad at the annual meeting voted to increase the number of directors from 9 to 13 members. Samuel Insull Jr., Ernest Van Arsdel, Lucius B. Andrus and Hal M. Lytle were elected to fill the positions. Directors meeting yesterday elected Robert M. Fuestel president to succeed Britton I. Budd. Samuel Insull Jr. was named chairman of the executive committee. Edwin J. Booth was elected comptroller and G. Corson Ellis, assistant vice president.

Lawrence Wallwork will be associated with Stein, Alstrin & Co. as of March 1, 1930. Mr. Wallwork will be located at the Stein Alstrin & Co. branch office in the Straus building.

James S. Kemper, president of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company and associated companies, this week completes his 25th year in the insurance business. Premium income of the companies for 1929 attained a total of approximately $20,000,000.

Machine Age Is Factor in Farm Surplus

BY SCRUTATOR.

Some theories advanced here from time to time about the livest economic subject in the United States, farm relief, are questioned by correspondents.

One of the propositions outlined is that we now have more farmers than are needed to produce the food and raw materials of agricultural origin needed by the remainder of the population. With this statement, John Meyer of Minneapolis takes issue.

It is not true that there is a surplus of farmers, he declares, and adds that reforestation and efforts to find wider employment for urban populations would not aid the displaced agriculturists even if it were true.

"If farmers continue to come to the city at the rate they have in the past seven years and swell the ever increasing numbers of unemployed in the cities, will not the farmer, who remains on the farm still have to support them? He will have to raise food for them whether they are employed or not. The question is, will it be more profitable for him to contribute a portion of their support if they had remained on the farm or if he contributes the entire support if they remain unemployed in the city?"

Carries Burden, Claim.

In this writer's theory, the producer of farm crops is carrying the burden of unemployment, paying more in taxes than his share. Artificial parity of agriculture is justified, he declares, because disparity is artificial now.

It is not fair to quote a portion of a letter which cannot be printed in full and criticize that. It is not unfair to point to some things the correspondent fails to take into consideration.

First, the ultimate object of farm relief is to prevent the farmer from becoming a peasant. In all settled civilizations of the past he has become one. Second, the present farm relief plan has at the back of it the object of keeping more men on farms than would be there in a realm of free competition. To do this, certain forms of subsidies are being offered for those who must have them.

Is this not a mistake, and will it not in the end result in a nearer approach to peasantry? The ideal arrangement for the farmer would be to have fewer competitors, with each man left in the business farming on an adequate acreage and with the latest improvements in equipment. If the farmer follows the federal farm board's present advice and cuts down on his crops, is he not compelling himself into the ca' canny system? If crops were cultivated with hoes exclusively, or with one-horse plows, there would not be enough farmers now.

Displace Man Power.

But combines and tractors mean the displacement of man power, or a greatly increased consumption to take up the greater efficiency. For ten years both phenomena have been noted. The department of agriculture has estimated that even in 1929 the loss in farm population, smaller than in years immediately previous, was 269,000 net. These people are additional consumers of farm products and they pay for what they eat.

Other lines of work are just as hard hit by being overmanned and overmachined as farming. There is a great excess of coal miners. There would be none if coal were dug with picks only and hauled exclusively in wheelbarrows. Other occupations have the same status. All have the same choice. They may remain in their present fields and take a lower standard of living than they like or some of them can move into employment that produces things for which there is keener effective demand. The real task is to find things for which demand exists, for the good of farmers as well as city folk.

Maine Central Raises Dividend Rate on Common

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—Directors of the Maine Central railroad today raised the yearly dividend rate on the common stock from $4 to $5 by declaring a quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share, payable April 1 to holders of record March 15. The company was formerly controlled by the Boston and Maine railroad, which sold its holdings in 1914. The Congress Cigar company declared an extra dividend of 25 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25.

Business Failures for Week Amount to 526

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The record of business failures in the United States this week, which is for five business days only, owing to the Washington birthday holiday, showed a total of 526, R. G. Dun & Co. reports. This figure compares with 585 for six days last week and with 587 for the corresponding week of six business days a year ago.

AMERICAN WHEAT WOE BLAMED ON SLUMP OF SILVER IN ORIENT

LIVERPOOL, England, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The American wheat slump is attributed here to the break in silver prices in the far east combined with a general world wheat surplus.

J. Westgate, director of J. Appleby Sons, one of the great English flour millers, said that the world situation was dominated by the heavy break in silver exchange, which prevented both China and Japan from buying as much wheat as they wanted.

"I think American prices are relatively too high," he said, "but the American farm board hardly deserves criticism. It has had bad luck, for the silver exchange, the European harvests and the European governments have been running against them."

A leading broker, however, called it absurd for America to try. "You can fictitiously hold up wheat prices by means of a subsidy," he said, "but that is only making the American people pay more for wheat. It's no help in getting rid of the surplus."

OPEN LIVE STOCK EXCHANGE TODAY AT STOCKYARDS

Speculative buying of hogs for delivery in March, April, May and September starts on the live stock exchange today in the Union stockyards at 10 o'clock. This is a new venture and the first time that any live stock has ever been sold for future delivery.

Trading hours will be from 10 to 1 o'clock daily, excepting Saturdays, when the hours will be 10 to 12.

A feature will be trading in hogs to arrive. There are to be four grades. A country holder of hogs maturing in 30 to 60 days can sell them to arrive and take advantage of a market.

The farmer who knows how fast his hogs will mature can feed them up to a certain limit, as the weights arranged for are 170 to 280 pounds. A notice of seven days is to be given the buyer as to the precise time the hogs are to be shipped. Trading will be in carload lots and settlement can be made through the clearing house.

ERWIN-WASEY LEASES SPACE ON BOUL MICH

The Chicago offices of Erwin, Wasey & Co., advertising, now at 844 Rush street, are to be moved to the eighth and ninth floors of the Carbide and Carbon building on March 1, according to an announcement made by Chester Foust, vice president and general manager.

"The move has been made necessary by an augmented creative staff and an increasing volume of business," said Mr. Foust.

Chicagoans Are Purchasers of Indemnity Co. of Amer.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Indemnity Company of America, acquired by the late Col. Fred W. Fleming of Kansas City, in St. Louis last summer, has been purchased by Darby Day and associates of Chicago, it was learned here. The Darby Day Investment corporation, understood to have paid $150,000 cash for the motor risk concern, will affiliate it with the new Chicago Fidelity and Casualty company, organized with capital and surplus of two and one-half million dollars.

HOOVER KEEPS TAB ON WHEAT PARLEY TODAY

U. S. Buying Gives Prices a Spurt.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde is expected in Chicago this morning, accompanied by Chairman Alexander Legge and S. R. McKelvie of the federal farm board, to confer with farm leaders on the involved grain marketing situation.

Mr. Hyde attended a meeting of the cabinet with President Hoover in Washington yesterday, at which the demoralized wheat and cotton price suitation was discussed. Mr. Hoover was represented to have been quite optimistic as to the chances for general improvement in wheat prices as a result of the upturn this week. He is "keenly interested" in the conference here today, the secretary said last night upon leaving Washington.

Prices Advance Again.

Wheat prices advanced further in Chicago yesterday to within one cent of the federal farm board's established local loan rate of $1.18 a bushel. The close was 2½ to 2¾ cents above final quotations Thursday. Grain traders were plainly on edge regarding the activities of the federal farm board's buying agents, so that sales fluctuated during the day in seesaw fashion.

W. G. Kellogg, president of the Grain Stabilization corporation, created by the farm board recently, and general managers of the Farmers' National Grain corporation, was on the floor of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, presumably placing orders first hand. One observer described the spurts of buying as having the effect of a hypodermic on a nervous patient.

It is understood that the objective of the stabilization corporation is to advance market quotations to a certain level and endeavor to hold them there with a minimum of fluctuations.

Send Complaints to Capital.

This would serve to minimize speculation, if accomplished, and such an objective is said to be the chief concern of commission firms and the speculative element whose services would likewise be minimized. The forecast of this situation has caused grain exchange officials, private business men, and commercial organizations of the nation to flood the administration and the federal farm board in Washington with complaints, in the last few days.

The grain board's fight to sustain prices was also under fire as an economic futility in trade circles yesterday. Charles W. Lonsdale, a vice president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who rejected an offer to become general manager of the Farmer's Grain corporation, said in a statement in Kansas City last night that the farm board had been defeated in its efforts to defeat the law of supply and demand.

Aims Criticism at Legge.

"Prices were swept lower than they would have gone on a free market without artificial government interference," said Lonsdale. "Having failed in his measures of expediency, Chairman Legge now appeals to the grain trade for coöperation. The grain trade can no more influence the course of grain prices than it can control the ocean tides. When a surplus exists, prices fall. When demand exceeds the supply, prices rise."

The jacking up of wheat prices for May delivery since Tuesday's wild break to the dollar a bushel mark has for the first time placed those prices above those quoted for July futures. This has been a peculiar situation because July prices, representing the new crop, still unthrashed, ordinarily are somewhat above May prices for wheat which has been in storage for the winter. The artificial stimulus in the Chicago market resulted further yesterday in placing Chicago prices above world markets, which is expected to reduce foreign buying, at least for the present.

Action in Canada.

Legislative steps are being made this week to place the three western provinces of Canada firmly behind their grain farmers, in financial as well as moral support, during the admitted slack movement of wheat from North America to foreign consumers. Following a meeting of the premiers of Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and Alberta a week ago, bills were introduced Thursday in all three provincial

B. & O. Profit in '29 Exceeds 28 Millions

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The annual report of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, made public today, showed that the road's 1929 net profits amounted to $28,767,908, a decrease of $333,023 from the record earnings of 1928.

After payments of preferred dividends the earnings were equal to $11.24 a share on the average number of common shares outstanding during the year, compared with $12.43 a share in the preceding year on a smaller capitalization.

During the year the company paid $2,354,528 in dividends on the preferred stock and $15,367,783 on the common stock. Common stock dividends were paid at the rate of 6 per cent for the first half of the year and at an annual rate of 7 per cent for the last half of the year.

The report further showed a surplus from the operations of the year of $11,045,597, and total accumulated surplus of $114,468,786.

In the report, Daniel Willard, president, pointed out that the road's increase in freight revenue was 4.2 per cent, as compared with an increase of 2.05 per cent in revenue ton miles, while passenger revenue decreased 6.64 per cent, as compared with a decrease of 5.2 per cent in revenue passenger miles.

NEW MERGER STEP.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—A further step by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad toward the completion of its projected new short line between New York and Chicago was taken today in the submission to the interstate commerce commission of a brief incorporating arguments on which it has sought permission to acquire the Buffalo and Susquehanna Railroad corporation.

A portion of the Susquenhanna line, together with trackage over the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh, which system the Baltimore and Ohio has recently purchased, will be worked into the new route.

Terms of Contract.

As previously announced, the brief said, the Baltimore and Ohio has tentatively contracted to pay $5,611,000 for controlling stock of the Susquehanna company, subject to commission approval, by using 55 miles of the Susquehanna into Sinemahoning, Pa., and 74 miles of the Rochester system from Butler, Pa., to Susquehanna Junction, and by constructing 75 miles of new road into Williamsport, to connect with the Reading, the Baltimore and Ohio with its own western rails will have a new rail route passing north of Pittsburgh.

Chicago Insurance Co. Merges with Omaha Firm

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Merger of the American Old Line Life Insurance company of Omaha and the Calumet National Life of Chicago was announced today by H. W. Kingery, president of the Omaha concern. The new organization, Mr. Kingery said, will be known as the American Old Line Life Insurance Company of Chicago, through reincorporation in Illinois. The company will continue to purchase securities and collect premiums here. In the merger, the American Old Line Life reinsured the business of the Calumet National.

REORGANIZATION OF INDEPENDENCE BANK PLANNED

Plans for the reorganization of the Independence State bank, 3159 West Roosevelt road, under the sponsorship of the Foreman State National banking interests are being made, it was announced yesterday, by Judge Harry M. Fisher and Ald. Jacob M. Arvy of the depositors committee. The bank was closed Jan. 15 by the state auditor.

The plan calls for the formation of a new bank to take over and guarantee the deposits of the old bank. Under the plan, it is said, depositors will be asked to pledge from 20 to 25 per cent of their deposits in order to raise the $600,000 cash which State Auditor Oscar Nelson has declared essential.

The sum furnished will be protected by security said to be worth $1,000,000 which has been pledged by Louis Bomash, president of the closed bank.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—Wall street enjoyed another forward looking stock market today. As on yesterday, a sizable list of market notables improved their 1930 price peaks, American Telephone and Telegraph, American International, Bendix, Associated Dry Goods, Warner Pictures, Westinghouse, United Air Transport, Remington, Underwood, Radio, Paramount, Loew's, and North American being among the number.

Operations for the rise, however, were not quite so aggressive or sustained as in the previous session and the day had its setbacks as well as its successes. In fact, no inconsiderable group of the lesser favored shares was forced to new lows for the year, Simmons for one, Prairie Pipe Line for another, Louisiana Oil, Mohawk Carpet, Phelps Dodge, and several others.

Turn Against Bears.

For a while in the early dealings indeed, the bears had things pretty much their own way and it began to look as though they were going to turn the presistent irregularity into a general reaction. But the coppers, independent radio shares and other groups began to turn against them and long before the turn of the day they were finding the going pretty rough.

The last half of the session found the list pushing steadily, although at times haltingly, forward. Gains of 1 to 3 points were quite numerous in the closing tables and as usual a scattering few were even more substantial.

News of the day was generally in favor of the bull side, including an industrial merger, a bank merger, announcement of a large gain in farm equipment sales and a continued gain over last year in Sears-Roebuck earnings. Further sharp advances in the price of wheat with relative firmness in cotton also proved a helpful influence.

Make Best Showings.

The best group showings of the day were made by the business office equipment, agricultural implement and copper shares. Leaders of all these sections were at times fairly buoyant. Utilities became prominent in the late trading.

The red metal shares came back with a rush following a determined effort to depress this group shortly after the opening. Anaconda was the target for concentrated selling pres-

TO FINANCE EQUIPMENT SALES

Local Offices in 135 Cities

Each C. I. T. office in the U. S. and Canada can give a complete financing service, from the preliminary checking of the purchaser's credit to the collection of the last instalment on his account. Equipment manufacturers and distributors have these facilities at their command wherever they need them, without added cost, as a part of C. I. T. Service.

Capital and Surplus Over $100,000,000

C. I. T. is the largest independent financing organization. By reason of huge resources and wide diversification its Service is unaffected by fluctuating conditions in particular industries or sections of the country. C. I. T. policies are stable, and clients know that they can depend on them when planning their own sales programs.

Besides income-producing equipment, C. I. T. also finances automobiles, household equipment, pianos, radios, and many other products.

MOTOR SHARES HEAD RISE OF CHICAGO STOCKS

Borg-Warner Up 2 Points in Active Trading.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Motor shares, leading an advancing market on the Chicago exchange yesterday, tucked away gains ranging up to three points. Bendix, which had monopolized interest in the group for the last few days, moved over to share its place in the limelight with other stocks which crowded in to claim their share of attention.

Borg-Warner got out of the narrow trading rut it has occupied for some time, moving up to a high of 43⅝ and closing slightly under 43, with a net gain of 2 points. Sales in the issue amounted to about 32,000 shares, which was 4,000 more than transactions in Bendix. The latter was still in good demand and advanced more than a point. Pines Winterfront jumped 3 to finish at 42. Auburn closed unchanged at 224. Cord corporation, holding company for Auburn and affiliated interests, sold higher on a turnover exceeding 16,000 shares.

Continental Chicago Active.

Active buying in Continental Chicago certificates sent the price to 67¾, for a gain of 1⅝. Durham was less active than on the previous day, but managed to tuck in a point on sales of about 3,000 shares.

Application by Atlas Stores for listing on the New York exchange created some demand in stock, which improved a fraction to 25. No significant changes were made by other radios. Grigsby held steady at 17⅛.

Several specialties were given a whirl. Winton Engine continued to gain, finishing up nearly 2 at 53. John R. Thompson emerged from comparative inactivity to climb 2⅛ to 42 and North American Car gathered in 1¼ on light sales. Reports of a possible merger of Brown Fence failed to stimulate Kalamazoo Stove, which gave a point under profit taking.

Climbs Nearly a Point.

Club Aluminum on sales of a bare 200 shares closed up ¾ at 4⅛. Field eased slightly on fairly active trade. Northwest Engineering closed unchanged. It is understood that the firm's report due to be released next week will show that the company in 1929 enjoyed the best year in its history.

Directors of the Utilities Power and Light corporation yesterday voted to set aside a sum to provide for dividends on the outstanding class A stock for the remaining three-quarters of 1930. Regular quarterly dividends on the 7 per cent preferred, class A and class B and on the common stock were declared.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

May Boost Rate.

It is stated in responsible quarters that Borden & Co. will shortly raise its dividend rate. The company's net earnings last year amounted to approximately $19,000,000, or the equivalent of around $5.50 a share.

Benefits from Drop in Silver.

Eastman Kodak has been one of the strongest issues on the big board in recent weeks. The drop in the price of silver should make larger profits possible this year. Eastman is reputed to be the largest private consumer of silver in the country. It figures also to profit from the new double width film in the motion picture industry and from the new transparent container which it is producing along with American Can.

Talk of Split-up.

Talk of a split-up in the common stock of American Can is being heard again in trading circles. This is based partly on the action of that stock in recent weeks. The "dope," which cannot be confirmed, is that stockholders will be given two shares of new stock for each share now held when and if the old gets above $150 a share.

COFFEE.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 500 cattle, 12,000 hogs, and 5,000 sheep.

The lamb market scored a "comeback" yesterday, while hogs lost a big part of the recent gain, closing at the lowest level since Tuesday. Fresh receipts of hogs at 21,000, augmented by 19,000 carried over from the preceding session, proved too much for the trade and uneven losses of 10@50c were recorded.

Medium and weighty butchers, which scored the sharpest gains on Thursday, suffered most on the break. The extreme top moved down 10c at $11.40, while the general average showed a 30c drop at $10.75, comparing with a top of $11.60 and average of $11.00 last Saturday, about the high day of the season. The sharp break in 225@250 lb butchers brought the three large houses on the market for 5,000 at $10.50@10.55 mostly. About 7,000 were left at the close. Five markets expect 37,500 today, against 22,800 last Saturday, the increase being at Chicago.

Cattle Mostly of Plain Quality.

Yesterday's 2,500 cattle were mostly of plain quality and hard to dispose of at the week's 25c decline. Anything carrying good quality and averaging less than 1,200 lbs, in weight, however, met good demand at firm prices, due to the acute scarcity of finished stock. The best available averaged 1,141 lbs., at $13.50, with 941 lb averages at $12.40.

Some plain 1,000 lb steers of beef merit were obtained as low as $10.00 and fairly good grades of 1,000@1,200 lb averages at $11.50@12.00. Cows and heifers changed hands at the week's 25@50c decline. Calves sold steady and were mostly in line with a week ago. Stockers and feeders met narrow outlet at steady to weak prices.

Bulge in Lamb Market.

A better tone was noted in the lamb market soon after the opening and, with shipping demand better, salesmen succeeded in forcing buyers up 10@25c in midsession and later. Reports from the east stated that a better clearance of dressed lamb greatly relieved the congested condition of markets at leading distributing centers. Local demand was also better and larger houses were among the best buyers at the finish. Choice light lambs reached $10.85, with bulk of 85 @10lb averages at $9.50@10.65. Aged sheep and yearlings sold steady. Feeding lambs were unchanged.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 12,000 hogs, and 5,000 sheep, against 580 cattle, 4,376 hogs, and 2,219 sheep the previous Saturday, and 430 cattle, 10,085 hogs, and 3,799 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for Monday are estimated from 47,000 to 75,000. H. L. Jahannesen marked 47,000; C. Daley, 50,000; J. T. Agar, A. G. Welhener, and E. D. Six, 55,000; J. T. Brown, and R. W. Trotter, 58,000; H. Pattison and O. Dwight, 60,000; H. C. Carlson, 62,000; G. Brittain, 63,000; G. W. Chandler, H. Turner, and R. R. Ellis, 65,000; W. C. White, S. Lund, and F. M. Sherwood, 70,000; J. M. Waters, 72,000, and F. Knutsen, 75,000.

legislatures giving the banks of Canada a blanket pledge to make good any or all losses they might sustain should grain prices reach abnormally low levels.

The provincial guarantees, in favor of seven lending banks, would run against losses incurred during the crop year, from Aug. 1, 1929, to Aug. 1, 1930. The unsold wheat crop, on the basis of No. 1 northern, would have to be at less than a dollar a bushel before the government faces a loss, according to Premier Bracken of Manitoba. He indicated that the pools have pledged repayment of any losses the provincial governments might sustain, either by cash or by giving additional security.'

Russian Plans Revealed.

While European countries continue to eat their daily bread made mostly from Australian, Argentine, Russian, or home grown wheat, indications point to large scale plans for going into grain production on the part of soviet Russia. It was announced yesterday in Chicago that two large implement houses had completed the filling of their contracts for tractors for the Russians, while two other implement concerns are turning out tractors and other equipment for Russian purchase. The firms are International Harvester company, the Hart-Parr company, the Caterpillar Tractor company, and Deere & Co.

Under the soviet legal structure, it is practical for the Russian government to dictate the amount of land to be placed into crops, the kind of crops, and their disposal. The soviet plan calls for a spring wheat crop this season, materially in excess of their pre-war average production.

Chicago wheat futures yesterday touched $1.17, or 14¼ cents above the inside figures of Tuesday. March closed at $1.11⅝@1.11⅞; May, 1.16⅛@1.16¼, and July, $1.15⅛@1.15½.

Corn Shows Strength.

Corn showed persistent strength and advanced around 2c from the previous close with an enlarged commission house trade. The finish was ⅞@1¼c higher with March, 83⅞@84c, and May, 88¼@88¾c. The country took advantage of the upturn to sell 130,000 bushels to arrive, which led to some pressure on futures, and there was also selling against offers.

Oats finished ⅛@⅜c higher with a rather light trade, March being 42@42⅛c. Strength in other grains was the main influence.

Liquidation was under way in rye, with longs selling March due to fears of deliveries today, and the finish was ⅛@1⅞c lower, with March leading. The latter closed at 75⅞c, and May at 76⅝c.
